The yearly meeting took place last Saturday and was largely attended, the different committees had their reports up in good shape, after which the roll-call of the church took place, and altogether it was an extremely interesting meeting. It was pleasant to hear the names of several who have for a long time had their homes in other places responded to by letter and in some instances enclosures of money for the funds of the church.

THE UNMANLY ART-GREAT CROP OF WHEA OUR AGRICULTURAL CAPABILITIES-CHEAP BREAD-RECENT DEATH

Since the Corbett-Mitchell set-to in Florida Since the Corbett-Mitchell set-to in Florida five newspapers in St. John have given an average of a column of their space a week to the proposed Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight, a total of about 250 columns, say 250,000 words. Thirty thousand newspapers in the United States have treated this interesting subject with equal prolixity: that is, their details of the doings of these great men occupy in that country about 1,500,000 newspaper columns,—about 1,000,000,000 words. In the same time great discoveries have been made, great —about 1,500,000 newspaper columns, —about 1,000,000,000 words. In the same time great discoveries have been made, great progress has been made in all the arts and sciences, great men have come to the front and great men have died; there have been great wars and great catastrophies, great deeds of benevolence have been performed, great sacrifices made in the interest of humanity, and in a majority of instances they have been dismissed with a paragraph. And who are Corbett and Fitzsimmons? Two men of very unsavory reputation, the associates of gamblers and thieves, with whom Governor Culbertson of Texas and Governor Clark, of Alabama, know how to deal. Their thirst for notoriety is catered to by the newspapers, generally to the disgust of their readers and the loss of much desirable patronage. If the notoriety which a certain class of newspapers afford such men were withdrawn, it may be they would be driven to seek some reputable occupation. It is pitful that prize fighters should be the heroes of our generation.

Last night news from Manitoba with regard to the crops is of an astonishing character.
Sixty-five thousand farmers in that province have harvested this season an average of about 2,800 bushels of grain each, half of which was wheat. The average yield of the latter grain was about 35 bushels per acre, in some cases mounting as high as 60 bushels, while in the United States the average is latter grain was about 35 bushels per acre, in some cases mounting as high as 60 bushels, while in the United States the average is about 12 bushels. They must be very poor farmers indeed in the west who require farmers indeed in the west who require sympathy. But if they are wise they will give more attention to stock raising. No land in the world will produce such crops year after year without the use of fertilizers. Farming, however, in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia when intelligently conducted should be quite as profitable as in the west. Prices are better and our known capabilities more varied. We should double the area of our orchards and the variety of fruits cultivated; we should have canneries and preserving establishments for apples, pears, and all the small fruits, and after a time grapes and peaches as well; we should make pickles and sauces for domestic use and export, and all the small fruits, and after a time grapes and peaches as well; we should make pickles and sauces for domestic use and export, and more attention should be given to the dairying industry and the raising of sheep for their wool and meat. I read a day or two ago how a Moncton dealer had bought this season 70,000 doz. of eggs for export. The figures looked large, but I am told that the county of Waldo, Maine, markets about 10,000 doz. of eggs a day the year round. There is money in eggs though they weigh only a few ounces apiece.

The question of cheap bread is still agitating some of the newspapers here. It has been pretty conclusively shown that at the present price of flour the baker clears about ten per cent on a two pound loaf at six cents. There is a good deal of trouble here with regard to the action of the school trustees who hold their sessions in private and claim to be in no way responsible to the people. There will be no peace until they are ousted and the board is elected by ballot.

EDWARD EDWARDS.

St. John, Oct. 23rd, 1895. The Sands Legacy.

A despatch from Brockton, Mass., published this week in the St. John Globe, reads

"William Sands, a well known horseman in this city, son of G. E. Sands, commission dealer of St. Stephen, N. B., is prospective heir to a portion of the 'Sands Legacy' in England, estimated with accrued interest at some $75,000,000. Mr. Sands, senior, states in a letter recently received by his son that he has been unravelling the tangle for many years, has spent much time and money, and has at last succeeded in proving his right and title to a portion of the property. The legacy was left to Captain James Sands, who settled on Block Island in 1664. Mr. Sands has traced the genealogy of his family and finds he is the fourth great grandson and has proved the direct line of descent. Papers have been forwarded to a wealthy solicitor in New York, who has been interested in "William Sands, a well known horseman in New York, who has been in the case for years and is now in England in the interest of his clients."

Mr. Sands has devoted much attention to Mr. Sands has devoted much attention to this matter for many years and now has indisputable documentary evidence establishing his relationship to Capt. James Sands referred to in the above despatch. He has thoroughly satisfied himself that the vast amount of money named above is awaiting the legal claimants and that the matter is approaching an early settlement. He says that there are not more than one hundred heirs to share in the fortune and that some of the heirs residing in the United States, and with whom he is in constant communication, have written him that as they are aliens they feel that their claims will not be allowed by the British government. If such should be the case the amount for the Canadian heirs should be considerably larger. The New York lawyer employed on the case has visited England and spent much time and money in the case and will soon return to that country to further investigate, receiving no pay until the claim has been carried to a successful issue. His friends are congratulating Mr. Sands upon the present promising outlook of his case.

ANOTHER VALUABLE ESTATE. The following is from a late issue of the London Chronicle: "Word has just been cabled to Hon. Senator Fair, of Maine, that cabled to Hon. Senator Fair, of Maine, that the valuable estate amounting to five million pounds sterling, belonging to the late Sir Robert Fair, lieutenant-colonel of the English army during the Crimean war, which has been in court of chancery, Dublin, for a number of years, is now ready to be divided among the legal heirs, who should apply to the high court. It is said that only one direct lineal descendent of the family is now alive—a daughter of the late Capt. James alive—a daughter of the late Capt. James Fair, R. N., who is said to reside in Prince Edward Island. Other relatives are reported to reside at Newport, Maine, and San

Four Generations Were Present,

The Haiif.x Herald says that the fine residence of Charles S. Margeson, M. D., of Hantsport, was the center of attraction on the evening of the 19th iost., while from far and near friends gathered to enjoy an "at home" with the doctor and his estimable lady. The relatives only received cards of invitation, but as the affair became public through the press, many other friends embraced the opportunity of tendering congratulations on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding day. The parents of both the host and hostess were present and entered heartily into the enjoyment of the occasion. Among the relatives were seen four generations—Mrs. David Messenger, like a crowned queen, clasping hands with her accomplished great-grand-daughter, Miss Eva Margeson. Time in its flight seems to have lightly touched the greater part of the guests, but none so gently as the hostess, for rarely, if ever, did so fair a youthful appearing bride grace the altar at a silver wedding; while the Dr's ruddy genial face and well knit frame showed that he had obeyed the old saying, "Physician heal thyself." The spacious, beautifully decorated rooms were well filled, and conversation, music, and the ample refreshments were so informal and agreeable that the guests not only congratulated the Dr. and Mrs. Margeson, but themselves also on the very enjoyable entertainment. One drawback to the pleasure of the cocasion was the absence of Mrs. Margeson's brother, Rev. William Robinson, pastor of the Baptist church, Summerside, P. E. I., who was unable to be present. Dr. Margeson has, during his stay in Hantsport, taken a deep interest in its welfare and in turn is deservedly esteemed by its citizens.

Sales of Apples in London

We are in receipt of a circular from W.
N. White & Co., of Govent Garden Market, London, giving account of sales of apples shipped from the upper portion of the county by steamer Haifaz City, and which were disconsisted principally of Gravesteins, with a few Codlins, Colverts, Emperors and Empress. Gravensteins sold at an average of 11s., some few realizing 13s., the other varieties ranging from 7s. 6d. to 12s. 6d.
The circular also states that London has only received some Nova Scotia lots which have met with fair results, viz., Ribstons 14s. to 16s.; Kings 14s. to 18s.

In concluding their circular they have the following timely suggestion:—

"To our friends in the interior who may be shipping to London, we say—get into communication with the railway companies your side as to the rate from your sending your side as to the rate from your sending to New York City. The American Line (New York to Southampton) here appeared. your side as to the rate from your sending to New York City. The American Line (New York to Southampton) have promised us a rate of 2s. 6d. per barrel from New York right into Covent Garden, and they would arrive here on the seventh day after leaving New York. The rate from Montreal to London, by the steamers that trade between those ports, is, we understand, 12s. 6d. per barrel also, but by this route they stand a chance of being out-shipped; and, not only that, but it is a twelve to fifteen days' voyage to London, and in the case of cattle being on the boat, goods are often landed here in a wet condition by these direct boats. In addition to this, they are landed in the Docks, which are about ten miles distant from this market, and they have to be carted up here, which, compared to the American Line route, means 7d. per barrel more expenses. So, by shipping via New York, if you can get the same railway rate as to Montreal, you are really getting your goods 7d. per barrel cheaper than via Montreal, and the goods are put down here with only a short sea passage, and, if shipped in good order."

—The official report of the catch of Canadian sealing vessels on the Pacific for the past season places the amount at 72,500 skins against 94,474 last year. The falling off was in the Japan catch. The take in the Behring sea was 36,750 skins, as against 26,341 last season. There were 42 Canadian vessels in the sea this year. season. There we the sea this year.
