

- (ii) health, nuclear safety, emergency procedures and environmental protection,
 - (iii) equipment (including the supply of designs, drawings and specifications);
 - (iv) uses of equipment, material and nuclear material (including manufacturing processes and specifications), and
 - (v) transfer of patent and other proprietary rights to information;
- (b) supply of material, nuclear material, and equipment;
 - (c) implementation of projects for research and development as well as for design and application of nuclear technology for use in such fields as agriculture, industry, medicine and the generation of electricity;
 - (d) industrial co-operation between persons in Canada and in Colombia;
 - (e) technical training including access to and use of equipment related to such training;
 - (f) rendering of technical assistance and services, including exchange of experts and specialists; and
 - (g) exploration for and development of uranium resources.

ARTICLE III

1. The Parties will encourage and facilitate co-operation between persons under their respective jurisdictions on matters within the scope of this Agreement.

2. Subject to the terms of this Agreement, persons under the jurisdiction of either Party may supply to or receive from persons under the jurisdiction of the other Party, material, nuclear material, equipment, and technology, on commercial or other terms as may be agreed by the persons concerned.

3. Subject to the terms of this Agreement, persons under the jurisdiction of either Party may provide persons under the jurisdiction of the other Party with technical training in the application of nuclear technology for peaceful uses on commercial or other terms as may be agreed by the persons concerned.

4. The Parties, subject to their respective laws and regulations, will make efforts to facilitate exchanges of experts, technicians and specialists related to activities under this Agreement.

5. The Parties shall take all appropriate precautions in accordance with their respective laws and regulations to preserve the confidentiality of information including commercial and industrial secrets transferred between persons under the jurisdiction of either Party.