

XXVIII.—The Fees of the Librarian shall consist of one half part of the Fines and Forfeits which may arise under these Regulations, in addition to such as he may be entitled to under the 46th Article.

XXIX.—The Names and Signatures of the original, and all future Shareholders shall be entered in a Book to be kept for that purpose, nor shall any person be considered as a Shareholder, or entitled to the privileges of the Society, until he shall have signed his name therein—which signature shall be deemed his assent to be governed by these Laws; nor shall he afterwards plead ignorance thereof, or be allowed at any time the benefit of such a plea.

XXX.—Every Shareholder may propose such Works as he shall please, by entering into a Book (called the Nomination Book, kept for that purpose in the Library)—the title, number of volumes, and price, if known, of the Work,—which Book is to be taken up by the Committee, and from it a selection made of those Works they may think proper to order, and proportionate to the funds in hand.

XXXI.—Every Shareholder shall be at liberty to take all the volumes of any novel, or work of that description, at the same time; but each volume is to be returned at the expiration of the period allotted for reading it. He may also be allowed to take out one volume of any other series, provided the same shall have been in the Library upwards of Six Months; and at all times every person shall be allowed to retain in his possession any Atlas, Book of Plates, or illustrations which may belong to the said work exclusively, until he has completed the reading thereof.

XXXII.—If any Book be lost or defaced, the person who took the same out of the Library, shall pay the original value of the Book or of the set, [if it belongs to one] and shall not be allowed to take any other Books from the Library until the loss has been made good.

XXXIII.—Any Shareholder who shall lend from out of the House in which he resides, any Book belonging to the Library, shall pay a fine of Five Shillings for each and every offence.

XXXIV.—The Transfer of a Book from one Shareholder to another, shall on no pretence whatever be allowed, but it shall be duly returned into the Library at the expiration of the allotted time, that it may be examined by the Librarian; and any person offending against this rule shall be subject to a fine of Five Shillings to the Society.

XXXV.—A Book, to be called the Requisition Book, shall be kept in the Library, in which every Shareholder may en-