CANADA AND THE WEST INDIES
Montreal "Shareholder" Strongly in Favor of Union Between Them--An Arrangement That Would Be Mutually Beneficial--Would However Involve New Responsibilities and Much Expenditure.

(The Shareholder, Montreal.)
As the people of the British West Indies become better acquainted with the Dominion of Canada, there is a growing feeling among them in favor of casting in their lot with us. Union with Canada would not in any way interfere with or interrupt their allegiance to Great Britain, of which they would continue to be virtually the same relationship as now exists. The increased trade relations with Canada which have sprung up within the last few years, have furnished a fund of information to the islands in regard to this country. They have learned that Canada can supply them with almost everything they want and do not produce themselves, and at the same time that Canada offers them a substantial market for nearly, if not all, their productions. That the latter are of no small value is seen from the statement that there is an annual business of $600,000 to be done, this amount being the sum of the imports and exports of these islands. According to the Canadian blue-book relating to imports and exports from the Dominion, we find that the total trade between Canada and the West Indies for the year ended 30th June last, amounted to $7,372,253, of which $2,403,241 were exports and $4,969,012 imports. Canada imports from the islands are more than double her exports to them. This Canadian trade represents only about one-twelfth of the total trade of these islands. At the same time, however, there must be added to these figures a further amount of over two million dollars trade which is done through other countries. Were the islands incorporated with the Dominion, there is little doubt that the trade between them and the

American Vitagraph Company
Packed the Opera House Twice Yesterday.
The American Vitagraph Company had the good fortune yesterday of having the water men in their favor, with the result that the Opera House management, afternoon and evening, had to exhibit their S. R. O. sign before the commencement of each performance.
The collection of pictures in the afternoon was perhaps more outstanding than in the evening. Both, however, were grand exhibitions, and well worth seeing. The management announced that a new series would be presented this evening. Last evening the gallery was filled to overflowing with young boys, who annoyed the audience very much with their incessant shouting and hissing at some of the magnificent scenes that did not appeal to their youthful fancy.
The La Tourrette adventures, showing three men travelling over the mountains, were very realistic. Buster Brown and "Tige" (the dog) brought forth bursts of laughter from the audience.
Perhaps the most exciting picture of the evening performance was the wrestling match between Hackenschmidt, the Russian champion, and Tom Jenkins. The audience could clearly see the movements of the massively built men, and many were carried away by its realistic presentation. Russian reigned supreme in "the gods" during the presentation of this picture. The Russian finally threw Jenkins twice and won the match.
For those who like to see the beautiful and during the same evening have a good laugh, the Opera House is the place this week.
THE CHANGE IN THE CLEANER
The change in ownership of the Fred. erickson Cleaner will be made at once if the matter has not already been adjusted. The transfer of the property was in the hands of H. F. McLeod and O. S. Crockett, P. P., and it was expected to have the business done before Mr. Crockett left yesterday afternoon for Coaticook, where he will be married tomorrow.
A large part of the $20,000 capital stock was distributed in small lots among York county people, but the principal stockholders are Conservative politicians. The cleaner will in the future be called to give its support in local politics to the opposition. In Dominion politics there will be little change, for since the last election it has been giving the benefit of its influence to the member for York, a brother of the editor.
Ed. J. Payson, the business manager, who was in the city yesterday, said there would be no changes made in the staff.
