

LABOR COUNCIL ASKS MAYOR TO OBSERVE MANDATE

Mayor Speaks. His Worship said that he wished to make it plain that it was with no intention of blocking the erection of a vocational school that he moved the resolution as he said he was in favor of such an institution. He did wish to have action deferred until such time as business was better and the taxpayers in a better position to carry the burden which would be imposed. The school board had put it up to the council, whether the building should be built and the council had ordered a plebiscite. He felt the council should have placed themselves on record as for or against the school without a plebiscite as they were the elected representatives of the citizens and if their acts did not meet with the approval of the voters there was the result.

MR. HARDING FOR BUILDING NOW.

Commissioner Harding said he was opposed to the resolution. If the vocational school was a good thing, then we should go right ahead with it and the finances would take care of themselves. He felt the bills would be paid. He was with the Mayor in his policy of economy but it was a question of building the vocational school was not true economy.

Commissioner Wigmore said he proposed to amend the resolution. He felt the burden on the city now was about as great as could be borne. He said that next year a number of properties would be assessed from the tax list and this would mean that additional valuation must be found to make up the loss. He felt the Government would meet the wishes of the council and extend the time in which the grant would be available as they were as anxious at the city to keep down expenditures.

Commissioner Harding said it was the hope that by now would bring new industries here and the vocational school would provide the trained hands to work in these factories.

Commissioner Bullock said he felt there was a need for something better in the way of vocational training than existed at present, but he would like to know if it would not be possible to go ahead with a part of the expenditure now and have the larger program come along later. This was the way that colleges carried on.

Commissioner Prink said he could not see his way clear to vary from the opposition that the voters by a plebiscite had said they wanted the vocational school at an annual charge of $48,000, and he for his part felt bound to vote for it. He said that he was not the council who had taken the initiative in having the plebiscite, but he ordered it on the recommendation of the chairman of the School Board, Hon. H. A. McKewen. That matter had been discussed in the press, and the people had an opportunity to inform themselves about the proposition.

Mayor Potts expressed the opinion that there should be something in the school law to provide that trustees appointed by the council who opposed the wishes of the council could be removed from office.

The resolution was carried, Mayor Potts and Commissioners Wigmore and Bullock voting in favor and Commissioners Harding and Prink against. Commissioner Wigmore then moved.

Whereas at a special meeting of the St. John Trades and Labor Council the following resolution was passed: Resolved that the council should have placed themselves on record as for or against the school without a plebiscite as they were the elected representatives of the citizens and if their acts did not meet with the approval of the voters there was the result.

Resolved that this council respectfully request His Worship Mayor Potts to carry out the mandate of the people as given last April in favor of the erection of a vocational school in this city.

The communication was ordered received and filed and a copy of the resolution passed by the council at the morning session forwarded to the Mayor.

Mayor Potts appointed all the members of the committee to interview the Government.

General Business. E. J. Hennessey appeared on behalf of Mrs. M. Nugent, 88 Prince Edward street, and asked that repairs be made to the retaining wall in front of her property.

The Civic Power Commission voted that so far as they knew the bill of Pries Waterhouse and Company of $2,473.56 for auditing the books and accounts of the Commission was correct and it was ordered paid.

Funders for line material were received from the Northern Electric Company, Irving Smith, Canadian General Electric Company and H. M. Hopper, and referred to the Civic Power Commission for a report.

Commissioner Wigmore brought up the matter of the sewer in Carleton Mill Pond. It was explained by G. J. Keenan, city engineer, that the estimate of $42,000 provided for all the sewers now pending this bill. On the suggestion of Mayor Potts action was deferred until Monday next.

His Worship said that until the matter of the vocational school had been decided he could not say what he would do in regard to this work, although he regarded it as more important than the vocational school.

A communication from the department of national defense had been filed, but any objection to the leasing of a shed on Fort Howe for a meat curing and sausage factory was ordered filed.

At the General Public Hospital this afternoon, Allan Currie, it was reported, is resting comfortably. He was hurt in the motorcycle accident the other day, in which his father was killed.

The young man was told of his father's death on Sunday afternoon by his youngest sister, Ruth, while the other members of the family were grouped around his bed in the General Public Hospital. Since the fatal accident Allan Currie, in his waking moment had said again and again, "This is going to be hard with father."

The son realized how much worse his father's injuries must have been than his own but had no idea of his father's death.

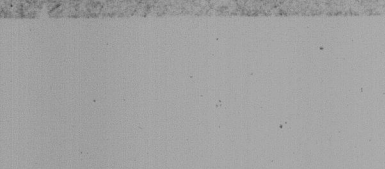

Loeb-Leopold Sentence Saves Two Murderers

Chicago, Oct. 12.—The remarkable verdict in the Leopold-Loeb murder case already is bearing fruit. Nicholas Guido and Tony Demio, who strangled James R. Burke to death for a few dollars, set up the plea of youth as a mitigating circumstance and got by with it. They were guilty of murder, but their attorney set up the plea that there should not be "one law for the rich and another for the poor," and the jury agreed with him, and gave the murderers sentences of 35 years, which means, with good behavior, about 12 years.

SAFETY MOVE. Commissioner Bullock announced this morning that he was having placed on the public wharf, Indian town, a life buoy for use in case of accident.

BEAVERBROOK NOW SAID TO BE IN GAME

All Parties Seeking to Bring About Working Agreements—Afraid of "Ramsay".

London, Oct. 12.—(British United Press)—Labor has followed the example of the Conservatives in making a bid to the Liberals for a working agreement during the election, and is trying to arrange with those Liberals who voted with Labor on the Campbell issue and generally supported Macdonald throughout the last session to withdraw their candidates in those ridings where a three-cornered fight is scheduled.

Labor continues to assert that Beaverbrook is arranging for a meeting of the 14 others who are sitting at his home at Leatherhead, familiar in the past for intrigues for coalition.

The object of such a meeting, it is claimed, is to try and get the Liberals and Conservatives together in order to eliminate three-cornered contests.

The Daily Herald also asserts that Rothermere has instructed his string of newspapers to handle Labor tenderly, because "Ramsay" might win.

CHIEF FORESTER BACK FROM EUROPE. Leland S. Webb reports on British, French, German and Scandinavian Forests.

(Special to The Times-Star.) Fredericton, Oct. 12.—Leland S. Webb, Acting Chief Forester of the Province of New Brunswick, arrived here last night after a period of about three months in Europe investigating modern scientific methods of forest management.

Mr. Webb resumed his official duties in the Department of Lands and Mines from that country in England and proceeded to the North of Scotland, where he also examined conditions. Except in France he investigated the soft wood forests and industries.

The conditions in the countries visited are being recorded and will be reported to the Province.

The chief difference was the closeness of the forests to the markets and industries and population, which made it possible to utilize practically all of the material which goes to waste in the woods in New Brunswick.

In Sweden Mr. Webb found conditions the most like those in New Brunswick. Rives much rougher than those in this province are driven, but the logs are used to much smaller dimensions. Tops up to three inches are taken out for pulp wood. All material possible in south Sweden is burned for charcoal, which is used in their own steel industry. Instead of a trip to Scandinavia, Sweden is burned for charcoal, which is used in their own steel industry.

As he went north in Sweden, however, Mr. Webb found that material was left in the woods just as it is here, because the distance from the steel works is great and there was no way in which to utilize the waste. In short, Mr. Webb found that utilization depended upon access to market.

All Markets Dull. In all countries visited forest services were found highly developed. Sweden has a forestry school at Stockholm and a school for ranger training, all officials receiving careful training.

Market conditions were found dull in all countries visited, and the depression in the lumber business was apparently world-wide. Mr. Webb also observed that the only responsible leasees of crown lands in this province displayed a corresponding irritation toward state regulation and administration. In some countries private forests were in great Britain, a Forest Commission is buying up large areas of unutilized land and planting forests.
