will vote for the McMaster amendment. There is reason, however, to believe the number will more likely be between fifteen and twenty.

The old party lines are clearly developing. Unionist Conservatives from the west are likely to vote with the government. Union Liberals from the west are indicating a determination to cast the die at once and vote with the opposition

tical — Ottawa Gossip About Tariff

Ottawa, June 11—The civil service bill introduced in parliament yesterday by Hon. A. K. MacLean contains some particulars other than those covered in the resolution on which the bill was based and which was adopted by the house recently. The bill and the re-classification of the civil service will be fully explained by the minister on the second reading, which will likely be deferred until after the budget debate.

The bill sets aside the distinction between the inside and outside services and provides that men who do the same to be of a practical character. Examinations will be competitive and returned soldiers will be given the same preference as at present. Provision is made in the bill for the payment of overtime except to civil servants occupying administrative or executive positions.

Provisions are made for a re-classification of the service with the guarantee that no one in the service will receive a lower salary than at present.

The Budget

The real debate on the budget goes on outside the chamber with interest centered in low tariff unionist members from the west. Friends of the government say that the revolt will be less serious than appeared probable a day or two than eight or ten of the western unionist members

MAINE MAN SAYS HE KILLED
HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW!

Lewiston, Me., June 11—Lawrence Rea, aged 32, of Livermore Falls, surrendered himself to a patrolman here and confessed, according to the police, that he had shot and killed his brother-in-law Dan Alvino, aged 38, at the latter's home in Livermore Falls.

Rea told the police that Alvino threatened his wife with a revolver and that he hit Alvino with an iron bar before shooting him. Rea came here in an automobile because he said, he did not wish to go to the town jail. He was held without bail on a charge of murder.
