EYES TURNING TO THE PACIFIC

Dominating Factors There in Complications of The Future

THE PANAMA CANAL

The Position of Japan in the International Scheme—An Argument for Keeping Britain's Navy Most Effective

London, Feb. 9.—"The centre of international gravity has now shifted to the Pacific, and it is mainly in that direction that the dominating factors will be found when any serious future complications arise." This statement by Lord Roberts, made in 1904, is quoted by T. Miller Maguire in a paper on "The New Pacific," at the Royal Colonial Institute.

"In the New Pacific," said Mr. Maguire, "there are strategic possibilities and risks as well as a grand field for trading enterprises. By it dwell the ancient communities in Asia, which have renewed their might and are now fully armed in all the panoply of modern civilization. The yellow race is the great reserve force of humanity, and the danger of commercial rival also. But if Europe insists on sharing in the wealth of China, sending expeditions to Cathay and making alliances with the children of Nippon, the yellow race will demand its foot-hold, and a nation that serves the Monroe Doctrine may well sit silent under the sneers and taunts of its own ex-President Roosevelt. Arbitration looks well on paper, but it never yet—nor did any other theory or doctrine of peace—stop war."

"Will the Panama Canal be fortified? If so, why? Will its traffic be protected? If so, what becomes of the various treaties which seem to give commercial security to nations like England? As England gained most in strategy and commerce by the completion of the Suez Canal, a great work at Suez, so the United States seems likely to gain most in both strategy and commerce by the Panama Canal and they seem resolved to gain most—even by very strenuous methods—towards bordering states and preference to their own mercantile marine.

"The strategic value of these canals, if commanded at sea by the power which controls them by land, is enormous; and the importance of the Panama Canal in securing convenient harbors and excluding therefrom other powers became apparent at once, hence the exaggerated valuations which the range and application of the Monroe Doctrine were extended, the war with Spain, on the one hand, and the determination to exclude other maritime powers from positions like the Galapagos Islands."

"On the other hand, I am informed by admirals that in this respect also, command of the sea is an abridgement of monarchy, and that if another power got command of the Caribbean Sea and of the Pacific, it would also command the canal, and thus they repudiate the suggestion that the construction of the canal will put in and out of British naval supremacy. If the canal is in the hands of the United States, as it is, the United States will survive through aggression through much of the world, and the United States will survive through aggression through much of the world, and the United States will survive through aggression through much of the world."

A REASONABLE PLEA FOR THE STOMACH

If Your Stomach is Lacking in Digestive Power, Why Not Help the Stomach Do Its Work?

Especially When It Costs Nothing to Try

Not with drugs, but with a reinforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach. Scientific analysis shows that digestion requires pepsin, nitrogenous ferments, and the secretion of hydrochloric acid. When your food fails to digest, it is proof positive that some of these agents are lacking in your system. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain nothing but these natural elements necessary to digestion and when placed at work in the weak stomach, and small intestine, supply what these organs need. They stimulate the gastric glands and gradually bring the digestive organs back to their normal condition.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been subjected to critical chemical tests at home and abroad and are found to contain nothing but natural digestives.

There is no secret in the preparation of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Their composition is commonly known among physicians as it is shown by the recommendations of 40,000 licensed physicians in the United States and Canada. They are the most popular of all remedies for indigestion, dyspepsia, water brash, insomnia, loss of appetite, melancholia, constipation, dysentery and kindred diseases originating from improper digestion and assimilation of foods, because they are thoroughly reliable and harmless to man or child.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are at once a safe and a powerful remedy, one grain of the active principle in these tablets being strong enough (by test) to digest 3,000 grains of steak, eggs and other foods. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest your food for you when you cannot do so yourself. Ask your druggist for a fifty cent box, or send to us direct for a free trial sample package and you will be surprised at the result. F. A. Stuart Co., 120 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

RARE JEWELS HIDDEN IN ANCIENT MUSKET

Now There's Dispute as To Whether Antiquary or Purchaser is Owner

Paris, Feb. 10.—A wonderful find of treasures was made by the purchase of an old Arab musket at an antiquary's shop in Paris. Thinking how well the musket would look on the wall of his study the amateur collector bought it, and placed it on a table to be wrapped up.

An old cork plugged the end of the barrel, and the purchaser idly pulled it out. A shower of precious stones poured from the rusty muzzle, 235 turquoises of splendid color being picked up.

The owner of the musket prepared to pocket the treasure, but the antiquary raised violent protests, and a magistrate has been asked to decide whose the jewels are.

SENDS POISON TO HER SISTER; CHILDREN DIE

Fearful Crime of Girl in Order to Get Money for Her Wedding

Vienna, Feb. 16.—An extraordinary poisoning trial has just been brought to a close at Olmutz with the passing of the death sentence on a servant named Franziska Bormischke. The girl was engaged to be married to a young artisan, but one day she received a letter from him saying there was no prospect of a wedding unless some money could be obtained and that failing it they had better part.

The girl was madly in love with the man, and she set her mind upon getting the money by any means within her power. An attempt to steal some jewelry from her mistress failed, in failure, and then, in desperation, she deliberately planned the death of her sister, also a servant, who had $200 in the savings bank. She had in her possession a bottle of arsenic powder, and this she mixed with sugar brought some pain, and spread the poison of mixture over the top. Then she dispatched the food to her sister, hoping thereby to cause her death.

The parcel of pastry was opened by the intended victim in the presence of her mis-
