

Lawyer and Money-Lender.

Sir John, however, proved more yielding than Mr. Morscraft expected. As Charlie had promised reformation, he wished to give him a fair chance. He was willing to pay Morscraft all the money he had advanced to the young man, with 5 per cent interest. If Morscraft did not choose to accept those terms he could take what steps he chose. Morscraft was furious. He raged and threatened, but it was all no use. Sir John Trumper and his solicitor treated his raving with contempt. They knew he must accept the offer. If he refused it and made Charlie a bankrupt, he would only lose his money, and expose himself. And accept he did. But great as Sir John is now, he said, as he pocketed the cheque, "I'll make him repent this dirty trick."

"Mr. Morscraft," replied the solicitor, quietly, "Sir John directed me to warn you that, on no account whatever, will he again repay you a shilling lent to his son."

"Oh, I thought his son had reformed," answered Mr. Morscraft, with a sneer. "Sir John can't have much faith in his reformation when he thinks it necessary to send such cautions as that."

Perhaps the money lender was not so fast wrong. Within three months after the interview who should come into Mr. Morscraft's office but Charlie Trumper.

"What back again?" cried the money lender.

And this was his revenge. How Morscraft gnashed his teeth, and swore vengeance against all the Trumpers, past, present and to come! What a miserable two days those were! Over and over again he resolved to reject the £2,000 and prosecute, and over and over again he reconsidered his resolution. Prosecution would be so sweet-but was it worth £2,000? He had lost £3,000 already; the prospect of losing £2,000 more was more than he could bear.

On the second day after his interview with Sir John he again sought the solicitor-general's chambers. Ah, what a change had come over him since then! Then he was confident and elated at the prospect of wringing money from his adversary. Now he had come to capitulate and ask easier terms.

"Well," demanded Sir John, "Will you accept my offer?"

"Couldn't you say £4,000, Sir John?" asked Morscraft, in humble terms.

"Not a shilling more will I give. Now, what's your answer? I have no time to lose."

"Well, I suppose I must accept it, but it's a gross fraud."

"Don't talk to me of fraud, you blood sucker," replied Sir John contemptuously, as he took out his cheque book and drew a cheque for £2,000.

A minute later the note was handed to Sir John, who gave Morscraft the cheque. Morscraft then rose to go.

"By the way, Morscraft," said Sir John, "you remember how you defrauded me out of £4,000 over an affair like this?"

"Oh, you like your son, were a forger in your time," replied the money lender, angrily.

"Now, it strikes me that the £8,000 you have lost over this affair just about covers that £4,000 with 4 per cent interest, since you extorted it."

MR. C. C. HAUN. The following remarkable facts are fully known to me as being undeniably correct in every particular. Mr. Haun is well known in the vicinity, having resided here over fifty years, and is highly respected as a man of the strictest honor, whose word is as good as gold.

Dean Sims, I think I have been one of the worst sufferers you have yet heard of, having been six years in the hands of four of our best doctors without obtaining permanent relief. I continually growing worse, until almost beyond hope of recovery. I tried your Bitters and got relief in a few days. Every organ of my body was deranged, the liver enlarged, hardened and torpid, the heart and diaphragm seriously deranged, & large abscess in my back, followed by paralysis of the right leg, in fact the lower half of my body was entirely useless. After using Burdock Blood Bitters for a few days the abscess burst, discharging fully five quarts of pus in two hours. I felt as if I had received a shock from a powerful battery. My recovery after this was steady and the cure permanent, seeing that for the four years since I have had as good health as ever I had. I still take an occasional bottle, but my system is in perfect working order. I can think of no more remarkable case than yours, and I will gladly pass through, and no words can express my thankfulness for such perfect recovery.

Sanwich. SIRs, - For five years I suffered from lumbago and could get no relief until I used Hagar's Yellow Oil, and must say I find no better remedy for it.
