

SEE WHAT THE SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

H. H. Fletcher IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF STORIA

Put up in one-ounce bottles only. Do not buy in bulk. Don't allow anyone to tell you the price or quality of the product until you get O-A-B-T-O-B-I-I.

It is every wrapper.

of the colony to which they rank and file will be inflicted for life. The death penalty is inflicted.

N. June 2.—The peace in Africa. It was a classic in a mild repetition of the celebration.

of thousands of people through the streets of London to the cathedral of St. Paul's.

of the lower classes jabbed in the faces with feathers, and they flung an apology for their turn were hugged and kissed by any man who found time for a version. A few helpless polod around and watched the

the favorite decorations with a cluster of red, white and blue stripes wound around a tall African visitors in London, and saw the city crazy for time, freely expressed their ishment at the scenes and the "talkies" at Covent Garden. Their majesties received a and when they entered the use the orchestra played the King. Special patriotic grammes were provided at the dining music halls, and at these rather solid friends of people discover a liquid food that is in extreme cases of need.

of Postum Food Coffee, a sedo, O. says. "For over five I have used Postum Coffee place of the ordinary coffee have stomach trouble and I drank a cup of ordinary coffee the greatest distress. I left when I left off coffee using Postum.

severe test I know of was when I was down with fever. His stomach would not take anything; we tried milk and various things. Everything we put in it would come up in less than five minutes. After the third kind of work I concluded in some Postum Coffee. He relished it and retained it for weeks he lived on Postum as it is that Postum gained friends for husbands and children. It had not been for the fact that Postum was given by Postum Co., Mich.

KITCHENER'S REWARD

Not Big Enough to Satisfy the London Press,

Which Asserts That Since Nelson and Wellington No British Commander Has Made Such a Rapidity Glorious Record.

LONDON, June 3.—King Edward has cabled his congratulations on the conclusion of peace to Lord Kitchener and Lord Milner. He said:

"I am overjoyed at the news of the surrender of the Boers and I warmly congratulate you on the able manner in which you have conducted negotiations."

To this message Lord Milner replied: "I offer my deepest thanks for Your Majesty's gracious message. I am profoundly thankful that Your Majesty's Coronation will be celebrated with peace throughout your South African dominions."

The following is the text of King Edward's despatch to Lord Kitchener: "I send you my most hearty congratulations on the termination of the hostilities. I also heartily congratulate my brave troops under your command for having brought this long and difficult campaign to so glorious and successful a conclusion."

To this message Lord Kitchener replied: "The army in South Africa highly appreciates Your Majesty's most gracious message, which I am now communicating to it. I humbly beg to thank Your Majesty."

KITCHENER THANKS CANADA. (Special to the Sun.)

OTTAWA, June 3.—His excellency today received the following brief acknowledgment of his personal message of congratulation to Lord Kitchener: "Many thanks." Subsequently Lord Kitchener cabled his excellency in reply to the message of congratulation from Canada as follows:

"Pretoria, June 3.—My hearty thanks on behalf of self and army for Canada's congratulations."

LONDON, June 5.—Although it is recognized that the rapid advancement made by Lord Kitchener has not been paralleled since the times of Nelson and Wellington, and that in the course of his life Lord Kitchener is likely to attain to the greatest possible distinction the sovereign can confer, almost all the morning newspapers in London comment upon the grant of £250,000 ($350,000) to Lord Kitchener as unnecessarily niggardly.

The report that Lord Kitchener will come home for the coronation of King Edward is not believed. It is said he is not likely that he will leave here before the middle of July. The South African commands will then be divided. Gen. Lytton (taking charge of the Transvaal) and the Orange River Colony and Gen. Ian Hamilton relieving General French in the command of the forces in the Cape Colony.

In spite of the opinion expressed by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach in the house of commons last night, there is a general idea that it would be dangerous to leave too small garrisons in the new colonies for some time to come.

KITCHENER GETS $250,000. LONDON, June 4.—In the house of commons today the government leader, A. J. Balfour, presented a message from King Edward as follows:

"His Majesty, taking into consideration the eminent services rendered by Lord Kitchener, and being desirous, in recognition of such services, to confer on him some signal mark of his favor, recommends that he, the King, should be enabled to grant Lord Kitchener £250,000 pounds, ($350,000).

LONDON, June 4.—The fact that the Kitchener grant is only £250,000 has already created considerable discussion in the parliamentary lobbies, and some regret has been expressed that it was not equal to the award made to Lord Roberts, £100,000. It is known, however, that during the continuance of the war the question of granting Lord Kitchener £100,000 was seriously discussed by the authorities; but the smaller amount was decided upon on the ground of Lord Kitchener's lesser rank, coupled with the fact that he received £30,000 at the close of the Boer campaign and is still a comparatively young unmarried man and at the height of his military career, while Lord Roberts is old, has a family and is not likely to have a further chance to distinguish himself.

LIKE A HUGE PICNIC. PRETORIA, Transvaal, June 4.—The ballot of the Boers at Vereeniging in fifty-four votes in favor of surrender and six against it. Preparations are being made here for the surrender of the Boer commando, which will take place on the next course. All the Boers are allowed perfect freedom. There will be a thanksgiving meeting Sunday, June 8, on the church square, in which it is hoped the Boers will participate.

The women in the concentration camps are anxious to return to their homes immediately, but this will be impossible until a system of supply developed for the outlying districts is established.

Gen. Baden-Powell is arranging for the distribution of mounted constabulary in various districts. The police, railroads, and telegraphs will be handed over to the civil authorities as soon as possible, and the restrictions of martial law will be gradually relaxed.

The Boer delegates who, during the peace negotiations, were stiff, formal and unfriendly, are now extremely cordial. All the commandants are returning to their commands in order to explain the situation.

Lord Kitchener's address to the Boer delegates, at Vereeniging, in which he said that if he had been one of them he would have been proud to have done so well in the field as they had done, made the best possible impression and drew forth a hearty response from General Byers, the chairman of the Boer conference, who expressed the pleasure the Boers experienced at meeting Lord Kitchener as a friend, adding that they had fought so long against him that they had acquired full appreciation of his worth.

The departure of the Boer commandants from Vereeniging for their various districts was marked by remarkable scenes of fraternization. The trains conveying the Boers were long and the night being extremely cold, the sentries along the railroad track lighted huge bonfires, round which groups of Boers and Britons gathered, forming a highly picturesque scene. The late opponents joined in such songs as "The Times Come Again No More," and "Old Folks at Home," the British soldiers and the Burgers outlying one another in their demonstrations of joy. In brief, the scenes at the departure of the trains resembled nothing so much as the starting of huge picnic parties. The same signs of rejoicing were witnessed throughout the Rand. Flags were displayed everywhere and thanksgiving services were held in all the towns.

PRETORIA, June 4.—Lord Kitchener has received the following message from Lord Salisbury: "My hearty congratulations on the brilliant achievement which brought the war to a satisfactory conclusion."

Lord Kitchener is the recipient of hosts of similar messages from prominent people in all parts of the British empire.

CAPE TOWN, June 5.—Reports which have been received from all quarters indicate the greatest relief and satisfaction at the conclusion of peace. The Boer delegates are all in the field to bring in the various commandos, and most of the latter have been ordered to converge on the railroad lines and surrender to the nearest British officer. Commandant Fouché, the only rebel whose intentions were doubtful, has already come in. Preparations are being made to resume the night train service to all points.

PRETORIA, June 5.—All British columns have been ordered to "stand fast" until the surrenders of the Boers are completed.

LONDON, June 6.—In a despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Pretoria, Bennett Burchell, the correspondent, expresses the opinion that if the British authorities display tact and forbearance the reconciliation of the Boers will not prove difficult.

"Lord Kitchener's admirable conduct of the negotiations," says Mr. Burchell, "has done much to create and encourage a spirit of mutual trust and friendliness. I have talked with many of the Boer leaders, including Generals Botha and De Wet, and they all assured me that they had submitted in good faith and that with tolerant administration Great Britain could hereafter depend upon the loyalty and fidelity of the Boers."

LONDON, June 5.—The Times' despatch from Pretoria says the Boers at Vereeniging secured an acknowledgment of complete defeat in a resolution which was passed to the satisfaction of their delegates to sign the document of surrender. As this resolution it was declared that only in view of the absolute refusal of the British government to negotiate further and in consideration of their own reduction in numbers and the impossibility of getting back their prisoners of war, and in order to save the existence of their own race they had brought themselves to consent to relinquish their cherished independence.

The correspondent says the chief concession granted was reasonable facilities as to the mode of transport, and that the Boers were to be allowed to return to their own race they had brought themselves to consent to relinquish their cherished independence.

The women in the concentration camps are anxious to return to their homes immediately, but this will be impossible until a system of supply developed for the outlying districts is established.

Gen. Baden-Powell is arranging for the distribution of mounted constabulary in various districts. The police, railroads, and telegraphs will be handed over to the civil authorities as soon as possible, and the restrictions of martial law will be gradually relaxed.

The Boer delegates who, during the peace negotiations, were stiff, formal and unfriendly, are now extremely cordial. All the commandants are returning to their commands in order to explain the situation.

Lord Kitchener's address to the Boer delegates, at Vereeniging, in which he said that if he had been one of them he would have been proud to have done so well in the field as they had done, made the best possible impression and drew forth a hearty response from General Byers, the chairman of the Boer conference, who expressed the pleasure the Boers experienced at meeting Lord Kitchener as a friend, adding that they had fought so long against him that they had acquired full appreciation of his worth.

The departure of the Boer commandants from Vereeniging for their various districts was marked by remarkable scenes of fraternization. The trains conveying the Boers were long and the night being extremely cold, the sentries along the railroad track lighted huge bonfires, round which groups of Boers and Britons gathered, forming a highly picturesque scene. The late opponents joined in such songs as "The Times Come Again No More," and "Old Folks at Home," the British soldiers and the Burgers outlying one another in their demonstrations of joy. In brief, the scenes at the departure of the trains resembled nothing so much as the starting of huge picnic parties. The same signs of rejoicing were witnessed throughout the Rand. Flags were displayed everywhere and thanksgiving services were held in all the towns.

PRETORIA, June 4.—Lord Kitchener has received the following message from Lord Salisbury: "My hearty congratulations on the brilliant achievement which brought the war to a satisfactory conclusion."

Lord Kitchener is the recipient of hosts of similar messages from prominent people in all parts of the British empire.

CAPE TOWN, June 5.—Reports which have been received from all quarters indicate the greatest relief and satisfaction at the conclusion of peace. The Boer delegates are all in the field to bring in the various commandos, and most of the latter have been ordered to converge on the railroad lines and surrender to the nearest British officer. Commandant Fouché, the only rebel whose intentions were doubtful, has already come in. Preparations are being made to resume the night train service to all points.

PRETORIA, June 5.—All British columns have been ordered to "stand fast" until the surrenders of the Boers are completed.

LONDON, June 6.—In a despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Pretoria, Bennett Burchell, the correspondent, expresses the opinion that if the British authorities display tact and forbearance the reconciliation of the Boers will not prove difficult.

"Lord Kitchener's admirable conduct of the negotiations," says Mr. Burchell, "has done much to create and encourage a spirit of mutual trust and friendliness. I have talked with many of the Boer leaders, including Generals Botha and De Wet, and they all assured me that they had submitted in good faith and that with tolerant administration Great Britain could hereafter depend upon the loyalty and fidelity of the Boers."

LONDON, June 5.—The Times' despatch from Pretoria says the Boers at Vereeniging secured an acknowledgment of complete defeat in a resolution which was passed to the satisfaction of their delegates to sign the document of surrender. As this resolution it was declared that only in view of the absolute refusal of the British government to negotiate further and in consideration of their own reduction in numbers and the impossibility of getting back their prisoners of war, and in order to save the existence of their own race they had brought themselves to consent to relinquish their cherished independence.

The women in the concentration camps are anxious to return to their homes immediately, but this will be impossible until a system of supply developed for the outlying districts is established.

Gen. Baden-Powell is arranging for the distribution of mounted constabulary in various districts. The police, railroads, and telegraphs will be handed over to the civil authorities as soon as possible, and the restrictions of martial law will be gradually relaxed.

The Boer delegates who, during the peace negotiations, were stiff, formal and unfriendly, are now extremely cordial. All the commandants are returning to their commands in order to explain the situation.

leigh, "has done much to create and encourage a spirit of mutual trust and friendliness. I have talked with many of the Boer leaders, including Generals Botha and De Wet, and they all assured me that they had submitted in good faith and that with tolerant administration Great Britain could hereafter depend upon the loyalty and fidelity of the Boers."

LONDON, June 5.—The Times' despatch from Pretoria says the Boers at Vereeniging secured an acknowledgment of complete defeat in a resolution which was passed to the satisfaction of their delegates to sign the document of surrender. As this resolution it was declared that only in view of the absolute refusal of the British government to negotiate further and in consideration of their own reduction in numbers and the impossibility of getting back their prisoners of war, and in order to save the existence of their own race they had brought themselves to consent to relinquish their cherished independence.

The women in the concentration camps are anxious to return to their homes immediately, but this will be impossible until a system of supply developed for the outlying districts is established.

Gen. Baden-Powell is arranging for the distribution of mounted constabulary in various districts. The police, railroads, and telegraphs will be handed over to the civil authorities as soon as possible, and the restrictions of martial law will be gradually relaxed.

The Boer delegates who, during the peace negotiations, were stiff, formal and unfriendly, are now extremely cordial. All the commandants are returning to their commands in order to explain the situation.

Lord Kitchener's address to the Boer delegates, at Vereeniging, in which he said that if he had been one of them he would have been proud to have done so well in the field as they had done, made the best possible impression and drew forth a hearty response from General Byers, the chairman of the Boer conference, who expressed the pleasure the Boers experienced at meeting Lord Kitchener as a friend, adding that they had fought so long against him that they had acquired full appreciation of his worth.

The departure of the Boer commandants from Vereeniging for their various districts was marked by remarkable scenes of fraternization. The trains conveying the Boers were long and the night being extremely cold, the sentries along the railroad track lighted huge bonfires, round which groups of Boers and Britons gathered, forming a highly picturesque scene. The late opponents joined in such songs as "The Times Come Again No More," and "Old Folks at Home," the British soldiers and the Burgers outlying one another in their demonstrations of joy. In brief, the scenes at the departure of the trains resembled nothing so much as the starting of huge picnic parties. The same signs of rejoicing were witnessed throughout the Rand. Flags were displayed everywhere and thanksgiving services were held in all the towns.

PRETORIA, June 4.—Lord Kitchener has received the following message from Lord Salisbury: "My hearty congratulations on the brilliant achievement which brought the war to a satisfactory conclusion."

Lord Kitchener is the recipient of hosts of similar messages from prominent people in all parts of the British empire.

CAPE TOWN, June 5.—Reports which have been received from all quarters indicate the greatest relief and satisfaction at the conclusion of peace. The Boer delegates are all in the field to bring in the various commandos, and most of the latter have been ordered to converge on the railroad lines and surrender to the nearest British officer. Commandant Fouché, the only rebel whose intentions were doubtful, has already come in. Preparations are being made to resume the night train service to all points.

PRETORIA, June 5.—All British columns have been ordered to "stand fast" until the surrenders of the Boers are completed.

LONDON, June 6.—In a despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Pretoria, Bennett Burchell, the correspondent, expresses the opinion that if the British authorities display tact and forbearance the reconciliation of the Boers will not prove difficult.

"Lord Kitchener's admirable conduct of the negotiations," says Mr. Burchell, "has done much to create and encourage a spirit of mutual trust and friendliness. I have talked with many of the Boer leaders, including Generals Botha and De Wet, and they all assured me that they had submitted in good faith and that with tolerant administration Great Britain could hereafter depend upon the loyalty and fidelity of the Boers."

LONDON, June 5.—The Times' despatch from Pretoria says the Boers at Vereeniging secured an acknowledgment of complete defeat in a resolution which was passed to the satisfaction of their delegates to sign the document of surrender. As this resolution it was declared that only in view of the absolute refusal of the British government to negotiate further and in consideration of their own reduction in numbers and the impossibility of getting back their prisoners of war, and in order to save the existence of their own race they had brought themselves to consent to relinquish their cherished independence.

The women in the concentration camps are anxious to return to their homes immediately, but this will be impossible until a system of supply developed for the outlying districts is established.

Gen. Baden-Powell is arranging for the distribution of mounted constabulary in various districts. The police, railroads, and telegraphs will be handed over to the civil authorities as soon as possible, and the restrictions of martial law will be gradually relaxed.

The Boer delegates who, during the peace negotiations, were stiff, formal and unfriendly, are now extremely cordial. All the commandants are returning to their commands in order to explain the situation.

Lord Kitchener's address to the Boer delegates, at Vereeniging, in which he said that if he had been one of them he would have been proud to have done so well in the field as they had done, made the best possible impression and drew forth a hearty response from General Byers, the chairman of the Boer conference, who expressed the pleasure the Boers experienced at meeting Lord Kitchener as a friend, adding that they had fought so long against him that they had acquired full appreciation of his worth.

The departure of the Boer commandants from Vereeniging for their various districts was marked by remarkable scenes of fraternization. The trains conveying the Boers were long and the night being extremely cold, the sentries along the railroad track lighted huge bonfires, round which groups of Boers and Britons gathered, forming a highly picturesque scene. The late opponents joined in such songs as "The Times Come Again No More," and "Old Folks at Home," the British soldiers and the Burgers outlying one another in their demonstrations of joy. In brief, the scenes at the departure of the trains resembled nothing so much as the starting of huge picnic parties. The same signs of rejoicing were witnessed throughout the Rand. Flags were displayed everywhere and thanksgiving services were held in all the towns.

PRETORIA, June 4.—Lord Kitchener has received the following message from Lord Salisbury: "My hearty congratulations on the brilliant achievement which brought the war to a satisfactory conclusion."

Lord Kitchener is the recipient of hosts of similar messages from prominent people in all parts of the British empire.

CAPE TOWN, June 5.—Reports which have been received from all quarters indicate the greatest relief and satisfaction at the conclusion of peace. The Boer delegates are all in the field to bring in the various commandos, and most of the latter have been ordered to converge on the railroad lines and surrender to the nearest British officer. Commandant Fouché, the only rebel whose intentions were doubtful, has already come in. Preparations are being made to resume the night train service to all points.

PRETORIA, June 5.—All British columns have been ordered to "stand fast" until the surrenders of the Boers are completed.

LONDON, June 6.—In a despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Pretoria, Bennett Burchell, the correspondent, expresses the opinion that if the British authorities display tact and forbearance the reconciliation of the Boers will not prove difficult.

"Lord Kitchener's admirable conduct of the negotiations," says Mr. Burchell, "has done much to create and encourage a spirit of mutual trust and friendliness. I have talked with many of the Boer leaders, including Generals Botha and De Wet, and they all assured me that they had submitted in good faith and that with tolerant administration Great Britain could hereafter depend upon the loyalty and fidelity of the Boers."

LONDON, June 5.—The Times' despatch from Pretoria says the Boers at Vereeniging secured an acknowledgment of complete defeat in a resolution which was passed to the satisfaction of their delegates to sign the document of surrender. As this resolution it was declared that only in view of the absolute refusal of the British government to negotiate further and in consideration of their own reduction in numbers and the impossibility of getting back their prisoners of war, and in order to save the existence of their own race they had brought themselves to consent to relinquish their cherished independence.

The women in the concentration camps are anxious to return to their homes immediately, but this will be impossible until a system of supply developed for the outlying districts is established.

Gen. Baden-Powell is arranging for the distribution of mounted constabulary in various districts. The police, railroads, and telegraphs will be handed over to the civil authorities as soon as possible, and the restrictions of martial law will be gradually relaxed.

The Boer delegates who, during the peace negotiations, were stiff, formal and unfriendly, are now extremely cordial. All the commandants are returning to their commands in order to explain the situation.

Lord Kitchener's address to the Boer delegates, at Vereeniging, in which he said that if he had been one of them he would have been proud to have done so well in the field as they had done, made the best possible impression and drew forth a hearty response from General Byers, the chairman of the Boer conference, who expressed the pleasure the Boers experienced at meeting Lord Kitchener as a friend, adding that they had fought so long against him that they had acquired full appreciation of his worth.

FAST CANADIAN LINE.

Story That British Government Will Join the Dominion

In Operating a Maritime Atlantic Coast in Opposition to Morgan Syndicate.

MONTREAL, June 5.—The Star's London cable says: This evening the papers publish elaborate statements to the effect that negotiations are very far advanced between the British and Canadian governments, and a great syndicate of capitalists headed by Sir Christopher Furness for fleet of 25,000-ton steamers, magnificently equipped, and running between Milford Haven and Canada in conjunction with the Great Western railway of England, under heavy British and Canadian mail and admiralty subsidies and also allied with a fleet of fast cargo steamers, the whole forming an effective challenge to the shipping trust. It is said that plans are sufficiently far advanced to enable the company to be floated in the course of two weeks.

Lord Strathcona, Canadian high commissioner, interviewed today, denied the allegation that he is closely associated with any such project, though he would not say that negotiations were not on foot with Mr. Furness. It is certain nothing definite has been arranged, and whatever is afoot will remain in the hands of the colonial premiers in London for possible cooperative action between the British, Canadian and Australian ministers. (Associated Press.)

LONDON, June 6.—According to the Daily Mail the Allan line steamers will not join the British shipping combine, but will remain an active competitor on the outside.

In London shipping circles there is considerable scepticism as to the success of the Canadian service unless it receives heavy subsidies. It is believed that such a line could only be paid by a large American trade, and that this would only be possible by running the newest and best boats on the Atlantic coast, costing $1,000,000 apiece, and manned by a most sumptuous scale of officers and crew.

In its financial article this morning says it is believed that the bulk of the shares of the Cunard company is now in American hands.

BOSTON. Peculiar Death of a Prince Edward Islander.

Struck by an Electric Car While Trying to Cross the Track With Two Other Men.

BOSTON, June 5.—Little is known here concerning the relatives of Duncan Sheridan, a Prince Edward Islander who was killed in a peculiar manner near West Brookfield, Worcester county, late Tuesday night. Michael Haley, who was also killed, belonged in West Brookfield. The line of the West Brookfield and Spencer street railway, were struck by an electric car. Sheridan and Haley were killed instantly. Each was badly injured about the head. Doctors administered to McEachern and he regained consciousness. He said that he had been drinking, but would not say whether his comrades were sober or not. He did not state the cause of the struggle, but that they did not see the car approaching. He claimed to know little about them. The bodies of the dead men were sent to an undertaker in Brookfield, where they await claim by relatives. Two letters were in the pockets of Sheridan's coat, both addressed to persons in Boston.

All three men had been employed in the construction of the new street car line to Ware. No blame is attached to the motorman by the police, who, however, are making a thorough investigation of the occurrence. It was learned that among Sheridan's acquaintances here were Miss Annie M. McPhee of 178 Huntington avenue and Archie McDonald of 16 Rutland street, both former residents of P. E. I.

POPE AND THE PHILIPPINES. Governor Taft Sends a Report From Rome to the United States.

ROME, June 4.—Italia publishes an interview with the Vatican civil governor of the Philippine Islands, in which Governor Taft is reported to have said the Vatican was desirous of arriving at a solution of the matter of the disposal of the property of the church in the Philippines in a way agreeable to the thorough States, but that he had decided whether to submit the Philippine questions to the Congregation of the Propaganda Fide, or to a commission of cardinals. The American government, said Governor Taft, favored the latter course.

The interview in question is quoted as saying he believed the establishment of an American diplomatic representative to the Holy See to be unlikely.

Governor Taft hopes to leave Rome July 10.

CORONATION FESTIVITIES. Opening Event Was Duchess of Devonshire's Ball Last Night.

LONDON, June 5.—King Edward entertained the members of the Jockey Club at dinner in Buckingham palace last night. The Prince of Wales, the Duke of Cannaught and the Duke of Cambridge were among His Majesty's guests. Queen Alexandra, died last night with the Duchess of Devonshire at Devonshire house. The forty guests at this dinner included Lord Lansdowne, the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, Princess Victoria and Prince and Princess Charles of Denmark. Devonshire house was beautifully decorated with flowers and the dinner there was followed by a ball to which 500 invitations had been sent out.

King Edward and the Duke of Devonshire, with the others of his Majesty's party at Buckingham palace, arrived at the Duchess of Devonshire's ball at half-past eleven o'clock.

The ball given by the Duchess is regarded as the opening of the coronation festivities. It was attended also by the Prince and Princess of Wales, and dancing was kept up until three o'clock this morning.

DORCHESTER. Two Years in Penitentiary and Thirty Lashes.

DORCHESTER, June 5.—Hon. Judge Forbes under the Speedy Trials Act, heard the case of King v. John W. Colpitts, charged with living in a state of conjugal union with one Bessie Estabrook. Hazen and Chapman appeared for the crown; James Friel and F. J. Sweeney for defendant. The defence called no witnesses, but moved for the discharge of the prisoner on the ground that the indictment disclosed no offence under the Canada Criminal code. The court noted the exceptions taken, but ordered the trial to proceed. Colpitts was found guilty, and the judge before delivering sentence gave expression to some pointed remarks and severely denounced the wicked course of the prisoner. Colpitts was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and thirty lashes, ten to be administered at the beginning of the term, ten in a year and ten after night before the expiration of his sentence. Bessie Estabrook, the girl in the case, was allowed to go on her own recognisance for $500. The case will be appealed.

O. J. McCULLY, M. D. M. R. C. S. LONDON. PRACTICE LIMITED TO DISEASES OF EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT. 103 GERMAIN STREET. Office Hours—10 to 12; 2 to 4; 7 to 8.

BIRTHS.

COOXY.—At 238 Duke street, West, on May 10, to the wife of John S. Cooxy, a daughter, Mrs. John Cooxy, a daughter.

COPPER.—At Springhill, May 29, to Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper, a daughter.

DUNPHY.—At the city, June 2, to Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Dunphy, a daughter.

LAWWELL.—At Springhill, May 30, to Mr. and Mrs. James Lawwell, a daughter.

LOGAN.—At 121 Cheley street, on May 2nd, to the wife of Frederic Logan, a daughter (Hazel Gertrude).

LONDON.—At Chesley street, on May 15th, to the wife of Henry London, a daughter (Florence).

MAQUAULT.—At 112 Orange street, to the wife of James Macaulay, a daughter (Roma Winifred).

MILLAN.—At 77 Belmont street, to the wife of Patrick Millan, son (Charles Edward).

MELBAN.—At Truro, May 31, to Mr. and Mrs. Melban, a son (Charles Edward).

MCKAY.—At 67 Arripola street, Halifax, on June 2, to Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McKay, a son (Alexander McKay).

MORRIS.—At Lancaster, on May 1st, to the wife of Thomas Morris, a daughter (Annie May Gladys).

MCCARRON.—At Springhill, May 26, to Mr. and Mrs. James McCarron, a son.

NELSON.—At 101 Spring street, on May 29th, to the wife of Thomas J. Nelson, a son (William Samuel).

STEVENS.—At Musquash, on May 2nd, to the wife of George Stevens, a son.

STANLEY.—At 101 Arripola street, on May 29th, to the wife of William Stanley, a son (William Samuel).

STIRLING.—At St. John, in the wife of E. Stirling, a son (William MacLaren).

SHONAMAN.—At 7 Somerset street, to the wife of J. H. Shonaman, a son (George William).

THOMPSON.—At Rockland Road, to the wife of Joseph Thompson, a son (George William).

WEBER.—At Sydney, May 30, 1902, to Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Weber, a daughter.

MARRIAGES. BROWN-ROSS.—At Wentworth, N. S. June 2, by Rev. J. A. Smith, Thomas W. Brown of Wentworth, N. S., and Maude Ross of South Victoria, Cambridge.

BECK-GORDON.—At Halifax, June 4, by the Rev. W. J. Gordon, George Beck of Dartmouth to Miss Winifred E. Gordon of Halifax.

CHAPMAN-McARTHUR.—At 550 Main street, St. John, June 4, by Rev. Dr. Fraser, Walter W. Chapman to Helma Maude McArthur, both of St. John.

CHOAT-FORDHAM.—At Halifax, June 3, by the Rev. W. J. Armstrong, M. A., Charles Choat to Alice Florence Fordham.

CASSELL-GRANT.—At Ottawa, June 3, by Rev. Dr. Herridge, Henry Cassell of Montreal to Miss Grace B. Grant of Montreal.

DALTON-ARMSTRONG.—At Moore street on June 4, by Rev. George Dal