THE LADIES' REPOSITORY for September contains a brief but lively sketch of the Won-dertul French Women, Mesdames De Stael and He was on horseback at the time, and three feet Of critical articles it gives " English Sacred Poetry," "Egyptian and Grecian of which was not very clearly defined. There art, and "Music." In the department of fic-Art, and "Music." In the department of fiction may be found "The Golden Fleece," and "Mr. Rudd the Working-man." Let no one pass by the former of these as too childish and imaginative. It is well for older readers to recall the simple pleasures of their youth, and to re-enter the realm of pure fancy. Who is the worse for reading a well-edited edition of "Arabian Nights?" Those whose tastes are gratified by history may read "The Bristol Cathedral," "The Bard of the Magyars," "Ledy Artists of the Low Countries." and gratified by history may read "The Bristol Cathedral," "The Bard of the Magyars," feet of water, and only a few yards from the "Lady Artists of the Low Countries," and interesting narratives we commend the "Visit to Charlotte Bronte," and the "Peace Jubilee." In the Children's Repository may be found a tender and pathetic story of "Ebony's Angel," and the Editorial Department is full of good things.

A COOL PROCKEDING .- Brooklyn and its icinity is invested by a set of scamps, who will find an appropriate end to their career som of these days. Recently one of them stole 31-2 bushels of Oats, from Rev. H.
