

well as pithy, we shall retain them in speaking of the different stations.

In placing his men the captain will derive valuable hints from any experience he may possess of the same duty at football.

The players are supposed to keep pretty well to their stations, especially goal-keeper and point. Nothing spoils the game more than every one joining in a free fight over the ball. Of course a man who has got the ball may run with it as far as he can, but it is quite sufficient to have two or three "checking" or opposing him; if more come they merely prevent each other from using the crosse effectively, and most likely leave open the way to their own goal. Beginners hunt the ball in a pack, and will never learn better if not kept in strict order by their captains. We call particular attention to this prac-
