JOLLY FELLOWS THOSE CANADIAN BOWLERS

So Says English Paper Commenting Upon a Very Pleasant Visit—Mr. Ogilvie's Rink Score.

The Canadian bowlers are evidently having the time of their lives in England as evidenced by the following from the Thames Valley Advertiser, June 30.

They were always smiling. That, perhaps, was the chief reason why the game with Kent in the afternoon at the Grove Green was so great a success. The fresh colonial breeziness which the Canadians brought with them was infectious and invigorating. The arrangements for the auspicious occasion were well perfect. It is true, thanks to the wonderful energy displayed by the Grove Club committee, but it was what one might call the "colonial atmosphere" which put the finishing touch to what will always be remembered as a great day in the annals of the local club.

They were merry men, these Canadians, and their spirits were in no wise dampened by the fact that another defeat was added to their record as a result of their visit.

Like a lot of happy, overgrown schoolboys, they romped on to the green. They were laughing then. They were still laughing when they cast their "rubbers" and bade farewell to their English friends, and the little chaplain was the merriest of them all. Their appearance on the green brought upon the picturesque little spot a flood of irresistible animation. They took their "Kentish fire" modestly, and looked as if they enjoyed it. They were hefty fellows, most of them. There were one or two on the small side and somewhat corpulent, but they all could dance as heartily as they could laugh, a feat which became necessary when an extra good wood was sent up.

Compared to their boisterous opponents, the Kent men might have been a team of bishops. For hearty, good-natured enthusiasm, these rubbers from the Dominion would indeed be hard to beat.

Necessaries in Dress.

The woman who wears an inexpensive suit, but who commits the extravagance of having it altered so that it fits perfectly, is committing a judicious extravagance. It is a gain, much more to the point than that of the woman who buys an expensive suit and wears it just as it is, regardless of sagging shoulders, tight hips and drawn back.

For some women expensive corsets are a necessity, for without them the most expensive clothes would not look well. Stout women should always have their corsets carefully fitted; if necessary made to order. They can economize in some other way. Surely a dress of inexpensive material, simply made, worn over a well-fitting corset, is better than a gorgeous dress worn by a woman whose figure is full of unexpected bulges.

On the other hand the young girl with lithe and supple figure can well afford to economize on the corset proposition. Little does it matter what sort of foundation, artificial or least, clothes have; her figure is good without help from a corset. She may be extravagant in the buying of shoes or the setting of some trifle of feminine adornment, which her older, stouter sister could ill afford.

Wanted, a Tailor Re-Modeller.

It does seem as though there were room in the world of tailors and dressmakers for the Remodeller of suits and dresses that have seen a season or two, yet that are quite good as to material, though impossible in style. In these days of rapid changes of fashion it is difficult to wear a certain cut of suit or dress unaltered more than a season, if one minds at all about such things—and what woman does not? Now if there were tailors or dressmakers who made a specialty of making the light though necessary changes in the remodeling of a coat, a skirt or a whole dress, how much less waste of goodly material would there be in our wardrobe and how much more would be the too rapidly diminishing figures in our savings bank book. You can't always make a coat new by cutting off its skirt year's skirts or refitting its sleeves. The malicious ingenuity of fashion is such that the shape of the figure is changed in a moment by a new cut down the sides, or across the back, or by the shifting of the waist line three inches below or above the so-called normal line. Now the tailor who could take our perfectly good last year's skirt and widen it at the requisite points, while narrowing it at others, would be a treasure trove to those who cannot really change the silhouette of their figures at a moment's notice by ordering new tailoring who with open reluctance and visible condescension will consent to curtail one's coat or reef one's skirt. But a tailor who will specialize on such work, make it his business, and be glad to take one's work of a kind that would take the old fashion and adapt it to the new, who could tell at a glance whether one's suit could be converted from an antique of two seasons ago into the modern affair of the moment, and who would do it at a price profitable to himself, yet not ruinous to us—how we should hail such an one as a benefactor!

BEEES HOLD UP TRAIN.

A swarm of bees recently held up a railway train at Empanenti, Natal. The bees took possession of the railway station before the arrival of a train and drove away the station officials, most of whom were badly stung, as well as a crowd of waiting passengers, including the chief magistrate of the district. The train had to be pulled up 200 yards away from the station and the passengers and mails discharged in a siding.

EVERYTHING READY FOR CARNIVAL WEEK

Pageant Which Arrives Here To-Night Will Be a Glittering One.

Resplendent in brilliant paint and new gold leaf, thousands of electric lights added to the sparkling brightness of the "fronts" and concessions, The Colonel Francis Ferar's Shows United, will appear in Brantford, under the auspices of The Base Ball Club. The general clean and new appearance of the entire exhibition is always a topic of comment. Not only are the usual "catch-penny" devices conspicuous by their absence, but occasional shabby and dingy appearance of concessions with some carnivals are totally lacking. Every concession is as spotless and bright as paint and gilding can make it.

In the Colonel Francis Ferar's Trained Wild Animal Arena which is the feature of these shows as it was the feature of the midway at the Jamestown Exhibition, the foremost American as well as European wild animal tapers give an exhibition of wild animal training that has never been excelled and very seldom equaled by another company, holding the onlooker spellbound by the audacity and completeness of the performance given. Here every species of the cat family have been taught to perform in perfect harmony.

These horses were specially bought for the purposes of the Government, for the annual training at these Military Camps. They were purchased at prices as high as $600 per team, and from that figure to $400 per team. They are a very fine lot of horses through and through, every single one having gone through a severe examination by the Government Veterinary Inspectors, and no defective horse having been purchased. They are therefore the best of horses. They were well cared for at camp, and are in good shape after a trying month's work.

The majority of them are 5 to 7 years old, and sound. The gunners weigh 1350 to 1550 lbs., and are grand general purpose or draught horses. The cavalry horses are a very fine lot, that will make the best of wagon and delivery horses or drivers. When purchased these horses were bought with the view of being resold for general working purposes, and buyers will get a splendid lot of thoroughly good horses at their own bids. Remember, every single horse will be sold, and the opportunity is far too good to lose.

Persian Art Robinson

Mr. John Richard Preece, Mihrab, or Prayer Niche, Unique Garden Case.

PASTEL SOCIETY'S EXHIBITION

(Special Dispatch.)

So much interest has been aroused by the exhibition of the famous collection of Persian art, and formed by Mr. John Richard Preece, he was British Consul General at that time, to occupy the Vincent Galleries, in Wigmore street, until August. The collection includes, amongst other things, a magnificent, thirteenth century, from the Mosque at Kashan, the magnificence of which, decorated in gold and silver and bearing inscriptions in Kufic acquired by Mr. Preece over a period less than twenty years, being brought to him by one of his mysterious friends, who refused to disclose their identity, was not until nearly the whole of the exhibition, that the public realized the significance of what had been, buying. The Mihrab measured much as 9 feet 4 inches by 6 feet, built in the form of one Arab arch within another.

In addition there is an interesting collection of ancient vases and earthenware, glass dug up from ancient tombs of Nazareth and Samaria, unique garden carpet, representing design all the features of these gardens, which were such a dispart of the Persian royal residence. The general clean and new appearance of the entire exhibition is always a topic of comment. Not only are the usual "catch-penny" devices conspicuous by their absence, but occasional shabby and dingy appearance of concessions with some carnivals are totally lacking. Every concession is as spotless and bright as paint and gilding can make it.

Taking the fifteenth exhibition, Pastel Society at the Royal Institution, Piccadilly, as a whole there to be a general improvement on previous exhibitions. It is characteristic, that the most distinguished work of the exhibition should not be the pastels, but Mrs. Helen Bedford's portrait of "Miss Tormoden," an extremely beautiful drawing of a head. "Fallen Rocks," by Mr. Stichel; sketch for "Pulling Down a Tree," by Mr. H. M. Livers; chalk drawings of the nude by Mr. Hankey, and "Hot Water," a sketch of a shepherd, by Miss Ann Stichel, are other works that merit mention.
