SCARCITY OF TEACHERS

The following paragraph first appeared in the Toronto dailies on Thursday, Aug. 30. :-"In view of the scarcity of public

"In view of the scarcity of public school teachers, and the probability that it will soon become still larger during the first session of the new nor mal school system, which will go into operation in September 1907, the Education Department has authorized the following modifications of the existing regulations in regard to model schools and public school teachers certificates. A county board of examiners may admit to the model those holding junior teachers' certificates who holding junior teachers' certificates who will be eighteen years of age on or before the reopening of the rural public schools for the seond half of 1907; and candidates who will be eighteen years of age on or before September 1, 1906, and who have failed at the junior teachers' examination but whose marks teachers' examination, but whose marks warrant the county board in presuming that, after further study they will be able to pass the junior teachers' exam-ination in 1907. The professional certificates shall not be issued in either of the above cases until the candidates comply with the present legal require ments as to age and non professional

This scarcity is in large measure a result of the policy of the Education Department in raising the percentage required for Junior Teachers' pass marks, and the view is undoubtedly the scarcity will become so acute that many schools will have to be placed in esing inferior charge of girls possessing inferior qualifications and absolutely no special training for the responsible It is probable that the normal school system will for years fall short of meeting the demand for teachers. At present, the demand is not more than met with training schools in every county and with only a three months course required. After passing the more difficult exam. now set for Junior Teachers in the high school, a year must be spent in attendance at some city normal school, and the minimum salary fixed by the government is but a small compensation for such a large outlay. The outlook for the country is of the province is not very

× Remains Brought Home

Last week Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Morris of Buffalo, N. Y., and Mr. Jas. W. Morris of Birmingham, Ala., accompanied the remains of Mr. Wm. J. Morris to Athens. Deceased was employed in the construction of an electrical power house on St. Louis River, near Fon du Lac, Minnesota. The railway follows the course of the river, and at points where gullies run down to or creeks empty into the river deep chasms are treated or bridged. He started to walk along this track after dark and stepped off the edge at a curve in the road and fell a distance of circum forms. "It is desirable that the different of sixty feet. He was instantly killed. His brothers were communicated with and they at once decided to bring the remains back to the old home. They "Applications should be received at this department not later than the first week in September, accompanied Mr. John Mackie, Lake Eloida. On Friday, in the presence of sorrowing friends and relatives, service was con-ducted by the Rev. I. N. Beckstedt and interment made in the neighborhood burying ground, the resting place of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John

The death of this young man, called suddenly from the bustle and business of lite, was indeed sad, and in his very appropriate discourse Rev. Mr. Beckstedt made fitting reference to this and to the commendable spirit that prompted his brothers to bring his body back to the home of his boyhood to rest with those whom in life he had loved best those whom in life he had loved best.

That Brass Band

A gentleman of Frankville queries' "What progress is the Athens young men's brass band making?"

We were informed that it was originated by Mesars. J. P. Lamb and Fred Pierce, leading and practical men of that enterprising village. They were very sincere in their efforts, warm in their wishes, and willing to bear a round share of the expenses and to sacrifice time in attention. Their wish, as we understood, was to organize a youthful band, whose home and interest were identified permanently with the village.

Ashens has done nobly in her superior schools, the erection of a handsome hall, and general improve-ments. And no doubt, as the longer evenings approach, interest in so desirable and creditable a matter will revive. It is almost certain that if the right parties were enlisted to canvass the locality around Athens much might be done to aid in developing a firstclass band.

Rome was not built in a day, and it study and some money to bring out a good band. Athens certainly has the home talent and all wish the undertaking the success it deserves
