

A Grateful Woman.

SAYS DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS SAVED HER LIFE.

Confined to Bed for More than a Month and Wholly Unable to Move—Food Had to be Administered to Her as to a Child—Thankful Words of Praise from The Tribune, Des Moines, Ont.

Mrs. Wm. Dostater, whose husband works on the Rathburn farm, Des Moines, is well known in the town and surrounding country, her home having always been in this vicinity. Mrs. Dostater has passed through a more than usually trying illness, and as it was said she ascribed her cure to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a reporter of the Tribune was sent to investigate the case. It appears that Mrs. Dostater's illness dates from the birth of a child on February 16th, 1899, when the attending physician found it necessary to administer chloroform. The shock was greater than she could stand and the result was partial paralysis, during which her life was despaired of. Mrs. Dostater gave the particulars as follows:—

Moaning of Thirsty Camels.

There are many fables told about the camel. Riding him is supposed to make people sick. He has the reputation of being very vicious. He is supposed to have several stomachs and to go for several weeks without water as a matter of course. I can only say that in nearly four years of experience I have never met with a case of sickness or heard of it; neither have I known a really vicious camel, except when they are in a state called by the Arab, "saim," which means "fasting," and corresponds to the "rattling" period in man. As regards the camel's stomach, I believe it is identically the same as that of any other ruminant, or that, at any rate, there is no formation of stomachs which would enable him to do without water.

His abstinence is merely the result of training, and it is a fallacy to suppose that he is better without water or can work as well. In the camel corps we watered our camels every second day in the summer, every third day in winter, giving them their fill of water morning and evening on those days, but if in the summer we expected a long desert march without water we trained them before hand by only watering every third day. But I never found that this improved their condition. The Arabs keep their camels longer without water, it is true, but then they travel slower, and their animals are grazed on soft food, containing a certain amount of moisture. This lowers their condition, and makes them inferior to corn fed camels when hard work and long fat marches have to be done.

A Notable Christian Woman. Mrs. Eva M. Shontz, organizer and president of the Chicago Young People's Christian Temperance Union, has been making a tour of the United States in the interests of the Women's Temple, Chicago, to advance the cause of temperance. The Y. P. C. T. U. has been in existence for two years; so rapidly has the movement spread that its membership lists now enroll hundreds of the most able and active young people of Chicago, including prominent officials in church societies, ministers, lawyers, physicians, teachers, newspaper editors and reporters; in fact almost every honorable vocation is represented in this army of Christian young people enlisted in the fight against the saloon.

The Hon. J. K. Ward, of Montreal, a Max-Canadian, sends to the Halifax copy of the leading issue of Man paper containing the following:—"I see from this week's Christian World that there is a paper carried on in the very same lines as the imaginary one described in 'In His Steps.' It is the Montreal Daily Witness, and is said to be the only one of the kind in the world. That can hardly be said to be a creditable thing for the Christian Church. Can any one doubt that such a paper must be an enormous force on the side of purity, righteousness, and every good and noble cause? I can imagine few greater blessings that could come to any community than the presence of such a paper in its midst. Just imagine what it would do to have in this island the like of a newspaper absolutely free from personal attacks, stories of petty scandal, biting news, and advertisements of anything that could be to the moral detriment of the people. I am aware that such a task would be needed. But if such a man did arise in our midst it would be such a call to duty to all Christian people as has hardly ever come to us yet. He would have great difficulties to fight with, but I wonder what right any of us would have to call ourselves followers of Jesus who did not stand by him and see him and labor with him? Surely this is no mere utopian dream. It ought to be perfectly feasible. If our Christian profession is a reality and not a sham; if all, or even a large portion of the Church members, were to be governed by the law 'What would Jesus do?' they would make it quite possible for such a paper as the one described as existing in Montreal to live and flourish among us.

Scraps for Odd Moments.

Some people like to be generous just to brag about it. "Would you like to be a good husband there is no better companion than an enterprising and progressive newspaper." She—I hear Sam is hatching up a new scheme. He—Yes, he has set his heart upon it. "I have a way to let you have the world at your feet?" "I have. I am not standing on my head, am I?" Minards Liniment Cures Colds, etc. "Albert, isn't it lovely here at the seashore to see the silver waves come tumbling in?" "Yes, Albin, and to see the silver dollars go tumbling out."

Minards Liniment Cures Diphtheria. "So you are a schoolteacher," said Mr. Pitt to a stranger acquaintance. "Then you train the young idea how to shoot?" "I don't need to do that," replied the pedagogue. "My school is in the feet district of Kentucky."

Minards Liniment Cures Distemper. New Arrival—Your booklet stated that a full band of redskins was your chief attraction this summer. Where can I see them? Hotel Keeper—If you wish to see the redskins watch the bathers in the sun.

Minards Liniment Cures Garget in Cows. "It's too bad," said Mrs. Courtessal. "What's the matter?" inquired her husband. "I'm kind of sorry for Mr. Dewey. He seems to be a very accommodating man, but he won't let me have any of his feelings. But he drinks all the drinks and wears all the clothes that have been named after him he's going to be mighty uncomfortable."

No Luck in a Horsehoe.—"Do you believe there's any luck in a horsehoe, Dennis?" "Bit Norah hung on over the childer's cradle as it fell on her knee." — Freshman—Where on earth did you get that class yell? It's the greatest I ever heard in my life. — Sophomore—I got two big dogs to fighting in my room the other night and then set a phonograph going.

If a man needed only one throb of pain in each organ to teach him the law of health for that member, he would master every principle of sound living within the period of childhood. God organizes His compassion into laws that restrain from wrong and constrain men towards right.—Night Bells.

The mathematician has taken to the bicycle, not so much for exercise as for a subject of infinite calculations. Among other things, he has now shown that to ride easily he must without regard to wind, stones and car tracks, it is only necessary to go at the rate of 10 1/4 miles an hour, and to have fully inflated tires. That, at least, is what Mr. Whipple, of Trinity College, Cambridge, announces after an elaborate series of calculations to determine the relations of velocities to stability of motion.
