ward heaven.

Money is a golden breasted bird with silver teak. It alights on the office desk or on the Darlor center table. Men and women stand and admire it. They do not notice that it has wings larger than a raven's larger than an eagles? One wave of the fand of disfortune and it spreads its beautiful plumage and is gone— as an eagle toward heaven, my text says, though sometimes I think it goes in the other direction.

What a vertication we have had of the flying capacity of riches in Wall street! And Wall street is one of the longest streets in the world. It does not begin at the foot of Trimity church, New York, and end at the East river, as many suppose. It reaches through all our American cities and across the sea. Encouraged by the revival of trade and by the fact that Wall street disasters of other wears were so far back as to be forgotten, speculators ran up the stocks from point to point until n-nocent people on the outside suppose that the stocks would always continue to assend. They gather in from all parts of the country. Large sums of money are taken into Wall street and small sums of money. The crash comes, thank God, in time to warn off a great many who were on their way thinter, for the sadness of the thing is that a great many of the yoing men of our cities who save a little money for the purpose of starting themselves in business, and who have $500 or $10.000 s $2.000 or $10.000 go into Wall street and lose all, And if there was ever a time for the pulpit to speak out in regard to certain kinds of neafrious enterprises now is the time. Stocks rose and fell, and now they begin to rise again, and they will fall again until thousands of young men will be ruined unless the printing press and the pulpit give emphatic utterance. My counsel is to dountrymen, so far as they may hear of this discourse, if they have surplus to invest, invest it in mortgages and in moneyed institutions which, though paying comparatively small interest, are sound and swallowed. What a compliment it is to the healthy con pany formed with a great capital for providing funerals for all parts of the land. Another company with large capital—£5,000,000. of capital—to develop a wheel in perpetual motion. Another company with a capital of £3,000,000 to insure people against loss by servants. Another company with £2,000,000 capital to transplant walnut trees from .Virginia to England. Then, to gap the climax, a company was formed for "a great undertaking, nobody to know what it is." And, lo, £600,000 in shares were offered at £100 a share. Books were opened at 9 o'clock in the morning and closed at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and the first day it was all subscribed. "A great undertaking, nobody to know what it is."

An old magazine of those days describes the scene (Hunt's Magazine). It says: "From morning until evening 'Change alley was full to overflowing with one dense, moving mass of living beings, composed of the incongruous materials and in all things save the mad pursuit wherefor they were employed utterly, opposite in their principles and feelings and far asunder in their stations in life and the professions they follow. Statesmen and clergymen deserted their high stations to enter upon this great, theatre of speculation and gambling. Churchmen and dissenters left their fierce disputes and forget their wranglings upon church government in the leep are historial warfare, discarded party animosities and mingled together in kind and friendly intercourse, each exulting as their stocks advanced in price and grumbling when fortune frowned upon them Lawyers, physicians, merchants and traveling men forsook their employment, neglected their negagements to whirl along in the stream, to be at last engulfed in the wild sea of bankruptey. Females mixed with the crowd, forgetting the station and employment which nature had fitted them to adorn, and dealt boldly and extensively and, like those by whom they were surrounded, rose from poverty to wealth and from that were thrown down to beggary and want, and all in one Short week, and perand all in one short week, and per-haps before the evening which ter-minated the first day of their specu-lation. and blinded by the prevailing infatuation, drove to the shops of their milliners and haberdashers and there met their stockbrokers, whom they regularly employed and through whom extensive sales were daily negotiated. In the midst of the excitement all distinctions of party and religion and circumstances and character were swallowed up."

O men of Wall street and of all streets, staind back from nefarious enterprises, join that great company of Christian men, who are maintaining their integrity, notwithstanding all the pressure of tempfation. In the morning, when you open business in the broker's office or in the banking house, ask God's blessing, and when you' close it pronounce a benediction upon it. A kind of business that men cannot engage in without prayer is no business for you. I wish that the words of George Peabody, uttered in the hearing of the people of his mative town—Danvers, Mass.—I wish that those words could be uttered in the hearing of all the young men throughout the land. He said. Though Providence has granted me unvaried and universal success in the pursuit of fortune in other lands. I am still in heart the humble boy who left yonder unpretending dwelling. There is not a youth within thesond of my voice whose early opportunities and advantages are not very mich greater than were my own and I have since achieved nothing that is impossible to the most humble boy among you. George Peabody's success in business was not more remarkable than his integrity and his great hearted he nevolence. I pray upon you God's protecting and prospering blessing. I hope you may all make fortunes for time and fortunes for eternity.

Some day when you come out of your place of business and you go to the clearing house or the place of custom or the bank or your own home—as you come out of your place of husiness and you go to the clearing house or the place of custom or the bank or your own home—as you come out of your place

NO ARGUMENT

Every Sufferer From Catarrh Knows That Salves, Lotions, Washes, Sprays and Douches do Not Cure.

Powders, lotions, salves, sprays and inhalers cannot really cure Catarrh, because this disease is a blood disease, and local applications if they necomplish anything at all, simply give transient relief.

The catarrhal poison is in the blood and the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and trachea tries to relieve the system by secreting large quantities of mucous, the discharge sometimes closing up the nostrils, dropping into the throat, causing deafness by closing the Eustachian tubes, and after a time causing catarrh of stomach or serious throat and lung troubles.

A remedy to really, cure catarrh must be an internal remedy which will cleanse the blood from catarrhal poison and remove the fever and congestion from the nuccus membrane.

it. They are large, pleasant tasting lozenges, to be dissolved in the mouth, thus reaching every part of the mucous membrane of the throat and finally the stomach.

Unlike many catarrh remedies, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets contain no cocaine, oplate or any injurious drug, whatever, and are equally beneficial for little children and, adults.

Mr. C. R. Rembrandt of Rochester, N. Y., says: "I know of few people who have suffered as much as I from Catarrh of the head, throat and stomach. I used sprays, inhalers and powders for months at a time with only slight relief and had no hope of cures." I had not the means to make a change of climate, which seening my only chance of ciffe.

Last spring I read an account of some remarkable cures made by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and promptly bought a 50-cent box from my drugsist and obtained such positive benefit from that one package that I continued to use them daily until I now consider myself entirely free from the disgusting annoyance of catarrh; my head is clear, my diges.

tion all 1 could ask and my nearing which and begin to the as a result of the catarrh, has greatly improved until I feel I can hear as well as ever. They are a household necessity in my family. Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are sold by druggists at 50 cents for complet, treatment and for convenience, safety and prompt results they are undoubtedly the long looked for
