That the city of St. John's is fifty years behind the times this applies.

We hear much of this regrettable fact, but rarely, if ever, suggested improvements. Some vanced, but they are all too often of the nature that requires discouragingly lavish expendi-

There are many that would cost little or nothing, that could be made, and which would improve the appearance of the city very considerably. As our attention and the attention of those whom we have appointed to attend to such matters.

Unfortunately, the attention of the Municipal Council is too often engaged in discussions of city is left sadly to itself. The plish big things to be able to give attention to other improvements that will not cost much.

Rev. D. B. Ashford was right when he said that we have an ideal site for an ideal city-but that the city is the worst one of the British Empire. Such a castigation should make us ashamed. We cannot be angry at it for the statement is true.

When are the City Councillors going to wake up and at-They must realize that it is childish to refuse to accomplish precluded from doing big.

For a city that was a city "while as yet the Indian lighted his camp fires" on and around the sites of such great cities as Boston and New York, St. John's is exasperatingly behind the times, and the censure of citizens who are thoroughly irritated thereby is directed toward those who sit in council in the building known as the City Hall.

What Can be Expected?

A glance through our advertising columns will show that sømething like thirty-three teachers are now wanted by the C. of E. Board of Education. The salary of each ranges from $200 to $400 a year.

How can people reasonably expect a young man with education enough to fill the positions, to engage in the teaching profession at such miserably low salaries? What man today, other than a school teacher, would work for $400 a year?

The men who perform the most menial tasks would not for a moment consider such an offer, but those in whose care the
