

Sports and Reporting.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—As one of the audience at the Big Sports meeting at the Casino on Friday night last, I take this opportunity with your permission of congratulating my sporting friend George Ayre on the very successful taking of the initial steps for the formation of a Newfoundland Amateur Athletic Association.

That we should have such an association, none can gainsay, as we have, unfortunately, an abundance of latent talent amongst our people. It is a pity that the country is not more favorably than that of any country in the world of sport, if only given the opportunity to expand.

Friday night's gathering, including the "old" representatives, "active" as "beams," and "on-lookers" in all branches of sports and pastimes, past and future, is a strong proof of the fact that our mutual friend Ayre has succeeded in stirring up the latent love for the characteristic of the entire Anglo-Saxon race, and which has been, as history shows, a notable factor in the development of the British Empire, as well as that of the great neighboring Republic of the United States.

It is worthy of note, Mr. Editor, that this junction of all our athletic forces should be effected in the Silver Jubilee year of the Newfoundland Football League, which was instituted in 1896—just 25 years ago. This fact Mr. Ayre alluded to in the course of his somewhat lengthy speech on Friday night, descriptive of sport, past and present, and in connection with football and other forms of sport he said a high tribute of respect to the late T. M. McNeill, whose sad loss in the Florio disaster, the entire community deeply deplores, a manly man in every sense of the word.

Mr. Ayre, however, made a statement in connection with the matches played at that time, which is slightly incorrect and misleading, viz., "at that time, said George, when we played a match we used to have about 20 spectators, and the newspaper reports consisted of about three lines."

Now, sir, having been a soccer player previous to the inception of the League, and since its inception an on-looker at most of the principal games played, the writer humbly begs permission, through your columns, to correct brother George, and possibly give some new information to a large number of the present day younger players enthusiastic about the game who have only come into being during the last decade.

Am therefore forwarding you (enclosed) copy of the first Evening Herald of Oct. 16, 1896, re the first season's work of the Football League, and also copies of "Tables of Results" for seasons 1896-7 (the latter being taken from "Onlookers" Guide as published by the writer for season 1898) and will feel obliged by your publication of same in an early issue of your esteemed paper.

In addition to the foregoing, Mr. Editor, and as proof of what newspaper reports were like in the early days of the League, I will simply refer to the report of a match between "Saint Andrews" and the "Terra Nova" as contained in the Evening Herald of August 6, 1897, and I feel sure—if he can secure a copy of that report—that it will prove interesting reading matter to him at that time, a prominent playing member of the Terra Nova team, and in the following year (98) he captained the team to victory and the Championship of the League.

Thanking you in anticipation for publication of the foregoing, and wishing the newly formed Amateur Athletic Association every success, I remain,

Yours faithfully,
JAMES A. CARMICHAEL.

Obituary.

MRS. MARY ODWYER, Kellgrews.
On Wednesday, May 25th, surrounded by her dear friends, the family of Mrs. Mary Odwyer, an old and respected resident of Kellgrews, passed to her eternal reward. Though confined to her bed for over a year, she displayed a wonderful fortitude and contentment always hoping to alleviate in some way the sorrow which her children and grand children, and expressed great joy in having the privilege accorded her. Her funeral took place on Thursday and was attended by a large concourse of citizens, testifying to the esteem in which she was held. Left to mourn the passing of a good mother are Mr. John Odwyer and Mrs. James Odwyer of Kellgrews, Mrs. John Odwyer, St. John's, and Miss Annie Odwyer, Truro, to whom sincere sympathy is offered in their sad bereavement and great sorrow.

Mental Arithmetic.

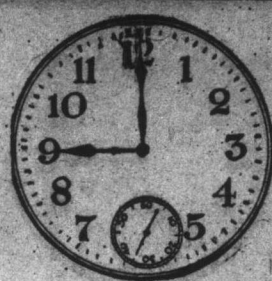

(From the New York Sun.)
"Now, then, Johnny," said his teacher, "if your father gave you seven cents and your mother gave you four more, what would you have?"
Johnny wrinkled up his forehead and went into the silence for the space of several minutes.
"Come, come," said the teacher impatiently. "Surely you can solve a simple little problem like that."
"It ain't a simple problem at all," replied the boy. "I can't make up my mind whether I'd have an ice cream soda or go to the movies."

"Laugh and grow fat" is an old axiom. We advise the use of a good tonic, named "Brick's Tonic." Price $1.00; postage 20c. extra.—apr26:11

C. L. B. CADETS.

Yesterday, at 10 a.m., the 1st Nfld. Regt. C.L.B. Cadets paraded at their Armoury 386 strong under command of Lieut.-Col. R. F. Goodridge, and Capt. Norman Henry, as Adjutant. Corps of Girl Guides, under their Commanding Officer, Chief Guide Miss A. M. Richards, B.A., to the number of about 50 strong, also paraded with their brother organization for the first time, thus adding a happy combination, as in these days of the protest, the women of the world are proving themselves to be more worthy of taking their parts in broader spheres of every day life. The fact has been proved in the great war, there was work for everybody. The "Girl Guides" are attached to Bishop Spencer College, and were inaugurated about six months ago by the Lady Principal, Miss Richards. The girls are taught physical drill, cooking, handicraft and nature study. The wearing of uniform we hear is optional at the school, but the Guides on parade yesterday were all uniformed and stockings with black hats, white collars and cuffs, and were wearing the Spencer College ribbons of light and dark blue, the last with the different Guide patrol ribbons suspended from the shoulder. Their marching was most creditable and their appearance smart, neat and snappy, and the unit was quite an attractive feature to the C.L.B. Cadet parade, and we hope to see them march with the Battalion at all their future parades—rain or shine, as we know the girls are not fine weather Guides only! The Battalion including Old Comrades, under Regt. Major Peckham, Band under Capt. "Sandy," with A and F Co., and K Co., and the Girl Guides proceeded to St. Thomas's Church for 11 a.m. service. The Rev. Capt. Clayton gave the Battalion with the new Sister organization a warm welcome to the service, and spoke encouragingly to the newcomers. The sermon was preached by the Rev. A. Macdonald on the text "Who will I do with Jesus," and who gave a heart to heart talk to the young people as to their responsibilities for their own souls, as they come to see their prayers, after the time comes to cease repeating them at their mother's knee. After the service, which was attended by His Excellency the Governor and suite, the Battalion marched through the private grounds of his residence and His Excellency spoke to the cadets and guides "marched past." We were glad to see so many officers on duty yesterday which is a healthy sign. The Cadet Party was in charge of Lieut. Thornley, of Field College Companies. It seems too bad we are losing the services of Major Raley, since the war has longed to get "back into the Army," and has now decided to make it his profession. The British Government has granted his commission and he will leave very soon to join his regiment, which we understand proceeds in about six months to one of the Empire's outposts in India. We congratulate Major Raley, M.C. on his honorable profession and wish him every good luck in the army of the King.

A Warning.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—Through the Committee I was asked to advise the unemployed workers. This I have done to the best of my ability, and without fee. Some things have been done against my advice, others without my knowledge. It was proposed to intercept the Premier on Thursday, the day the House of Assembly was addressed by Mr. Whitty and others, and forcibly compel him to do certain things. Had this been done the Premier would certainly have fared badly. I now give warning that if, in the future there is any person or persons offering either to me or to the Premier or to any other person, or if there is any destruction of property, I have made perfect arrangements for giving to Inspector General Hutchings the names of all connected with Thursday's proposed outrage. In Saturday's Telegram the editorial labelled Mr. Whitty, the Chairman of the Workmen's Committee. Unless a retraction and apology is published in Saturday's paper, I shall institute libel proceedings and that will make a most interesting case.

Last week Mr. Whitty, the highest paid of the unemployed, received for his week's work the sum of fourteen dollars, so the public can see that no princely fortunes are being piled up. Fourteen dollars a week will not these days go far in providing everything for a man, his wife and five children. Now that I am in this game I intend to see it through.

Yours sincerely,
GEO. W. B. AYRE.
May 30, 1921.

(Note.—The above communication was handed in by Mr. Ayre personally this morning. The reference to the Telegram's libel on Mr. E. J. Whitty, complained of by Mr. Ayre, was not committed with serious intent or in any way to cast a reflection on Mr. Whitty, or to asperse his endeavours in connection with the unemployed problem, and we very much regret if Mr. Whitty has considered himself injured by our comment; the kernel of which we have investigated and now find there was not a scintilla of truth in it as communicated.—Editor Telegram.)

A Tarkington Reply.

A story is told regarding Mr. Booth Tarkington, the author. He happened to be in Naples, during an age like that in America, have you? "ing like that in America, have you?" said an Italian friend of his with obvious pride. "No," replied Mr. Tarkington, "we haven't, but we've got Niagara Falls, and they'd put the thing out in five minutes."

Foreign Titles for Englishmen.

The title of the Duke of Wellington is regarded by most people as a symbol of all that is British. But the Duke is also the most cosmopolitan of peers and inherits no fewer than four foreign patents of nobility. In Spain he is Duque de Ciudad Rodrigo; in Portugal, Marquês de Fronteira; in Brazil, Duque de Dourado; and in Belgium he is Prince of Waterloo. He has also a German title. There are about a score of British peers who hold foreign titles and what is more curious, a large number of others who although they have no titled rank in England yet in other countries are dukes, marquises or counts. The Duke of Richmond and Gordon is Duc d'Anguine in France, the Duke of Marlborough is a prince of the Holy Roman Empire, the Earl of Clancarty is Marquis of Housden in Holland while Lord Bridport is the Duc di Montdragono. The late Baron Rothschild was an Austrian baron years before he was raised in the British peerage. Lord Dundonald is in Brazil Marquês di Maranhão, while there is a Russian peerage in the possession of the English family of Dimsdale, a barony having been conferred upon a surgeon of that name by the famous Empress Catherine in 1712.

Taking Precautions.

(From the Houston Post.)
The composer appeared in the office of his publisher one morning, and with calm assurance returned a cheque for $200.
"You can destroy that," he told the publisher, "and make out one to my credit for $500."
"Nonsense," came the reply. "That's your royalty to date for your last song."
"Oh, no, it isn't," said the composer. "Do you mean to insinuate that the firm is—"
"I insinuate nothing. I make the simple statement that I want $500 in royalties. For the first time in my life I can be positive as to the amount I married your bookkeeper yesterday."
