Big New Film Opens To-Night

"THE GREAT WHITE WAY" IN ALL ITS GLITTER TO BE SHOWN AT NICKEL TO-NIGHT.

"The Great White Way," the Cosmopolitan Corporation's big motion picture which graphically brings modern New York and Broadway to the screen, will have its premiere to-night at the Nickel Theatre.

Among the celebrities appearing are Jack Kearns, Tex Rickard, Irvin S. Cobb, Kila Broad, Pete Hartley, Johnny Gallagher, "Bugs" Baer, H. C. Witwer, Tammany Young, Damon Runyon, Billy De Beck, Johnny Dundee, Benny Leonard, Billy Gibson, Young Stribling, Earl Sande, Joe Humphreys, the leading sports writers of all the metropolitan dailies and many notables of the stage and screen.

Many of these celebrities play actual parts in the film itself, which is woven around the turf, the prize ring, the theatre and Broadway. One of the big features is a realistic prize fight, in which Pete Hartley, well known professional lightweight, battles Oscar Shaw, leading man of the picture. Another thrilling feature of "The Great White Way" is a big race track scene, filmed at Belmont Park on Futurity Day. Earl Sande is one of the cast in this particular sequence.

In addition to these highlights, the new picture brings to the screen for the first time the entire chorus of the famous Ziegfeld Follies. Ned Wayburn was engaged to produce a special and miniature musical comedy for the new photoplay.

The regular professional cast of "The Great White Way" includes Anita Stewart, Oscar Shaw, T. Roy Barnes, Tom Lewis, Dore Davidson, Olin Howland, Hal Ford, Stanley Ford, Harry Watson, Billy Gould and Frank Wonderley.

Obituary

MRS. F. C. EARLE (Change Islands).

Many in St. John's and elsewhere in Newfoundland will have learned with sorrow of the passing of Louisa Julia Earle, but it is at Change Islands that the loss is felt the keenest. Born at Rochester, New York, in 1836, the eldest child of Joshua and Mary Walden, she became the wife of Frederick Chas. Earle, at Toronto, Canada, forty-two years ago, and came to Newfoundland, making a home at Change Islands. From a great city to a lonely outpost in Newfoundland was a greater change in those days than it is to-day, but here Mrs. Earle has lived the whole of her married life.

She was ailing all through the summer, and on the first of September she was stricken with paralysis, followed by a second stroke ten days later, when she lost consciousness and shortly after passed quietly within the Veil. And now the little town is mourning the loss of her who, by the life she led, endeared herself to everyone. Of a quiet and retiring disposition, she was always kind and gentle, unfailingly generous and glad of an opportunity to be of service to others. To the poor and those in trouble, truly, she was a friend indeed. Her religion expressed itself in deeds rather than in words, and many of the senior Church of England clergy can tell of the willing hospitality they always found when, with a large family to care for, she ministered to the wants of missionary deputations as though she had no other work to do.

All that was mortal of this beloved woman was committed to earth, on Saturday, Sept. 13th, the funeral being attended by the Sisters of St. Margaret's C.E.W.A. Rev. R. F. Mercer, Rector of Fogo, conducted the service in the church and at the graveside.

Left to mourn the loss of a loving wife and devoted mother, are her husband, three sons: Messrs. Fred and William, at Change Islands, and Mr. Arthur at Fogo, and three daughters: Mrs. J. S. Gilliver, and Mrs. F. C. Kimmerly, of New York, and Mrs. (Rev.) Heber Gosse, at Change Islands; also one sister, Mrs. Halden Meek, of Toronto, Canada. To all of these we extend our deepest sympathy.—Requiescat in pace.

Queer Occupation

Worked as a Match-Striker for Thirty-Six Years.

For 36 years it was mentioned at an inquest at London Hospital, Thomas Tutill had earned his living by striking matches at Bryant and May's factory at Bow to test their quality. He died from blood-poisoning after fracturing his thigh while at work. This queer occupation, it was explained, was created by the firm to employ Tutill after he had suffered from infantile paralysis and needed an easy task. The match-striking was done by hand, and the man spent his whole time testing safety and ordinary matches, work which otherwise would have been done by foremen and other workmen.

Gentleman Burglar Captured in New York

Immaculately dressed and bearing himself with the carriage of a man of influence Patrick H. Dealey, one of the most dangerous criminals with whom the police of New York City have had to deal in many years, was placed in the line-up in the detective bureau at police headquarters, and more than two hundred detectives for forty-five minutes made a critical observation of his characteristics. Dealey had been arrested by detectives while he was walking through West 124th Street, near Broadway.

He had been sought by the police of the city for more than two years as a result of his spectacular escape from Sing Sing, where he was serving a twenty year term for robbery. A professional theatrical performance was going on in the auditorium of the prison, and Dealey managed to don the garments of one of the actresses and make his way through the main entrance of the prison.

Dealey had been known to the police of New York as a "two-gun man." They knew his boast that he would kill to avoid arrest was no idle one. He was suspected of having participated in many daring robberies in the city and in addition to the one on which he had been convicted, and when word of his escape from prison reached the authorities, special instructions were issued to every detective and policeman in the city who knew him to effect his capture at all hazards.

Dealey apparently did not make his way to the U.S. Metropolis until he felt that the police hunt for him had died down, and then he appeared in one of the haunts of confederates in the Cathedral Park section. It was about this time that the police began to recognize in a description of one of a group of robbers who had successfully perpetrated many daring hold-ups a resemblance to Dealey. The hunt for the fugitive was renewed with vigor and not the slightest hint as to the criminal's whereabouts could be obtained. The police, however, did obtain information from the underworld which convinced them that Dealey was one of a band of robbers who had devoted their efforts to "hi-jacking" or holding up bootleggers.

In Many Hold-Ups.

Reports of jewellery store and payroll hold-ups in which Dealey was suspected of having been one of the participants continued to reach the police; but it was not until the latter part of last week that they obtained a real clue, which resulted in Dealey's capture as he was on his way to keep an appointment with several other known gunmen. When the detectives held him up with guns trained at his head, Dealey, who is but 28 years old, made a quick move to his right hip pocket. A blow from the pistol of one of the detectives stilled the movement of his arm, and the next second Detective-Sergeant Mahoney pulled a loaded 38-calibre pistol, with a long barrel, from his pocket. Then Detective-Sergeant Sullivan noticed something bulging at the waistline of Dealey's striped silk shirt. It was another loaded pistol. Then he submitted to arrest without further trouble, remarking: "You fellows are lucky I did not get the drop on you or there'd be a few dead cops around here."

How to Keep a Plant Moist

WHEN YOU ARE AWAY.

A plant can be kept sufficiently moist for a considerable time in this way: Fill a large bowl with water and place the plant close to it. Into the water put one end of a strip of material or cotton wool, placing the other end on the earth round the plant. This strip will conduct moisture from the bowl to the pot. The amount of moisture can be regulated by the width of the material used.

Boy Bleeds for 6 Days

A VERY RARE DEATH.

A Grimsby schoolboy, George Baker, 11, died after bleeding for six days from a cut in the knee.

At the inquest, the mother said that neither private nor hospital doctors could stop the bleeding.

Dr. Harris said the boy was a victim of haemophilia, a rare condition in which the blood would not coaglate over a wound and suffers invariably bled to death.

The coroner, returning a verdict of Accidental Death, said it was the first case of the kind in his 23 years' experience.
