than our place upon the earth. The passage my friend quotes distinctly declares that Jesus went up to heaven and the passage he next quotes Mark 13.25 declares that Jesus will come again to the earth with great power with the object of reigning king upon and his returning during which many christians have lived and died. Had these christians gone to the same heaven where Jesus was then they would not have needed to be raised from the not have needed to be raised from the dead at his coming. We are told that "the dead in Christ shall be raised first" and that "no man hath ascended up in heaven but the Son." We cannot lay any claim to a place in that heaven beyond the universe which my friend says the astronomers have not friend says the astronomers have not yet discovered and we are not going there. Christ may be there with the angels or he may not—I believe he is angels or he may not—I believe he however, and I know from the bit that when we who hope to see the kingdom of God die we will not at the resurrection, what use of a resurrection of the "dead in Christ" whe we would be alive with Christ? The fact remains that all believers when have died and who die between now and the resurrection "fall asleep in Jesus" and like the thief who died ning teen centuries ago must lie in the teen centuries ago must lie in the grave of paradise until Christ comes into his kingdom and reigns on earth.
