

Liver Pills

Like biliousness, dyspepsia, headache, constipation, sour stomach, indigestion are promptly cured by Hood's Pills. They do their work eatly and thoroughly. Best after dinner pills. 25 cents. All druggists. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. The only pill to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills

The Summer Holidays.

The Happy Vacation Season is Full Swinging—Those Who Are Enjoying It.

Miss M. Houson, Blair road, Galt, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Rich, London.

Mrs. H. B. Callender, of London, is visiting with friends in Amherstburg.

Miss Letitia Mullin, of Peoria, Ill., is visiting her parents, No. 430 Hill street.

Miss Beatrice Southcott is visiting her uncle, Mr. R. B. Davey, of Kincardine.

Rev. J. Webster, of Tara, is visiting friends in London, Chatham and elsewhere.

Miss Louie Taylor, of this city, is the guest of Mrs. Fred Johnson, St. Thomas.

J. J. Henry, of the Verdun Asylum staff at Montreal, is spending his holidays in London.

Mrs. (Major) Forbes, of Montreal, is spending some time with Mrs. G. W. Baden, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Judd, city, have returned from Bayfield, where they had a pleasant outing.

Miss Nan Finister, of Port Huron, has returned from this city, accompanied by Miss Maguire.

Miss Ella Vader, Toronto, is spending her vacation with her cousin, Miss Stinson, East London.

Sergt. Copeman, of Wolsley Barracks, leaves at once for England on a three months' furlough.

Miss Jennie McNab, of Clarence street, is visiting at her uncle's, Mr. John McMurphy's, in Komoka.

Mrs. F. H. Wright, of this city, is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. A. Healey, St. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Walton, of this city, are the guests of their son, Henry, 24 Gore street, Stratford.

Misses Gladys Sparksman and Nellie Roach, of St. Thomas, are visiting friends at Chatham and London.

Miss Emma Quick, of this city, spent the past week with Mrs. J. J. Cuthbertson, Garfield street, Port Huron.

Miss Gracie Chapman and Miss Elsie Green, of Toronto, are on a visit to Mrs. Chapman, 133 Craig street.

Mr. Wm. Douglass, of the street railway company, leaves tomorrow on a ten days' holiday trip to Sarnia and Detroit.

Mr. Henry Finch, of Hamilton road, has returned home after spending three weeks with friends in Pittsburg, Pa.

Miss Lydia Richards, of St. Marys, who spent a few days with her cousin, Miss Edna Mansbridge, has returned home.

Messrs. Harry and Herbert Stein, of the Hamilton road, left last evening for a two weeks' sojourn at Berlin and Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Alexander, of South London, are summering at "Burnbrae Cottage" on Orchard Beach, Port Stanley.

Miss Jones, daughter of Mr. R. A. Jones, of London West, leaves on Wednesday for a three months' holiday in the old country.

Miss Grace Watson, of Tacoma, and Miss Rennie Morrison, of this city, are visiting at Mrs. McGachie's, on Light street, Woodstock.

Misses Lulu and Stella McConnell, of King street, have returned home after a two weeks' visit with friends around Kilmory and Byron.

Miss Cathro and Miss Dods, of this city, returned home on Thursday after spending a few days at Sarnia, guests at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. R. McLaren.

Mrs. R. Tatham, of the Wharfedale road, left yesterday morning for Saginaw, Mich., having received intelligence of the serious illness of one of her younger brothers.

Mr. Geo. R. Uphall, of the C. P. R. Telegraph Company, has returned home after visiting friends in Parkhill, Hyde Park and St. Johns. He reports having a good time.

Miss Amanda O'Brien, the winner of the Boyle memorial medal at the Simcoe street school, has returned home after visiting relatives at Niles-town and Winton.

Mr. John T. Colton, of the railway mail service, Manitoba, has arrived here on a brief holiday visit. Mr. Colton was for many years one of the leading teachers of the city schools.

Mr. Duke, florist, of Parkdale, Toronto, has wheeled home after spending a pleasant week at the residence of Mr. Wm. O'Brien, Horton street. While here Mr. Duke made a visit to relatives at Clarendon and West's Corners.

Struck With Lightning. Neatly describes the position of a hard or soft corn when Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is applied. It does its work so quickly and without pain that it seems magical in action. Try it. Recollect the name—Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Sold by all druggists and dealers everywhere.

Singing Canaries

We will soon import a large lot of Harz Mountain (German) singing canaries. The price to users of Cottam's Seed with recent BIRD BREAD will be exactly their cost to us—not more than $2.50, probably less providing you order now. These birds are worth $5 and cannot be obtained elsewhere for less. J.W.

We Know It

We know what we are talking about when we tell you it is nonsense to pay more for clothes than we charge. When you go above Slater's prices you get neither more style nor more wear. We can show you the best and most exclusive designs in our stock. Call and see us.

A. SLATER

427 Richmond St.

Frenzied as they Gave

$101,500 Raised for Heathen in One Meeting.

Remarkable Session of the Christian Alliance Convention.

At Old Orchard, Me.—A Crowd of 10,000 Swept by Religious Emotions.

Old Orchard, Me., Aug. 11.—The emotional convention is spreading. There was one here Sunday, but it was not political. It was the mission day of Dr. Simpson and Christian Alliance convention, and the day appointed for the receipt of offerings.

"The record has been broken for giving for missions," said the Rev. D. W. Lelacheur, a missionary in China. "The total offering is $101,500, the largest amount subscribed in a single service for the work."

"Either we have been in the real presence of the Spirit of God, or the great audience has been under the hypnotic influence of the speakers," remarked a cool business man after the day was over. He is a man not a member of the alliance.

The stately pines and towering beeches of the Old Orchard camp ground, a veritable tabernacle of nature, have looked upon many remarkable gatherings. They have heard the ecstatic utterances of Hammarlin in the times of political peril; they have listened to the eloquence of Jas. A. Garfield; they have seen John B. Gough hold a great audience spellbound; they have scattered with the breezes of heaven the echoes of songs sung by thousands, thrilled by the preaching of a Beecher or a Phillips Brooks; but never in their long years have they been silent witnesses of a more remarkable scene than that which was enacted Sunday. When Dr. Simpson arose to make his appeal he faced a crowd of at least 10,000 people. It was an audience made up from every walk and condition of life, and an audience that sat for hours hanging on the words of the exhortation, laughing or weeping at the will of speakers, shouting hallelujahs, and showing by the workings of their countenances the earnestness of their interest in the services. It was an audience that was finally to lose all control of itself in favor of its faith, and in the end was to contribute, under its influence, what a layman would call a religious-evangelistic hysteria, and in sums ranging from a nickel to $25,000, the sum of $101,500. Dr. Simpson's sermon was brief. His theme was that all are debtors to Christ, and can never liquidate till they have given everything and done every thing possible. He said:

"We must sacrifice; do what hurts. God loves what hurts, because it smells of the sweet odor of Calvary. I must solemnly lay the command of Christ upon you, 'Go ye.' What will ye do about it?"

Louise Shepard sang a song, and then Rev. Mr. Lelacheur spoke from the text, "What have ye in the house?" He charged them to give it all, if they would hope for joy eternal. The subscriptions were called for. The first was $1, and it was given by Mrs. F. B. Morrow, who said she had gone without her supper and breakfast, and now was going without her dinner to give this.

Then came a man who said he started from Springfield with only $1. He had got there somehow. He gave his last 50 cents Saturday night. He had earned $2 since, and he gave that. He said he left a wife and children in Springfield. They hadn't any money, but had enough to last them till the next night; then the Lord would provide.

The next donation was $25,000. From this point the money simply rained down. It came in bills, in silver, in checks, in bonds, in stocks, and in pledges. The monster gift was from a man in New York, who telegraphed 10,000 shares of stock worth $5 per share at par, but for which he would give his check for $25,000. His name is not to be had. Mr. Lelacheur said they needed two house boats for the work in China. They cost $250 each. They were paid for in a moment.

Then the missionary on the Congo needed two steam launches at $25,000 each. J. R. Libby, a merchant of Portland, promptly provided means for one, and the other was quickly taken care of.

One woman said she had two cottages at Old Orchard. They needed a missionary house in the Congo. She made a sale of the property on the spot for $5,000, and the house on the Congo will be built. One woman said she had $500 she had been saving to send her sick sister to a spot where there was hope of recovery. She gave this for the Celestines in Southern China. A man quickly gave his piano to turn into money. Then a missionary named Creamer, made an impassioned appeal, crying out:

"You cannot hold up jeweled hands and hands with gold and silver and have them clean before God! There's blood on them. Take them off; take them off. Give them to the Lord; they are for His work."

Then came an avalanche of jewelry. Watches, diamond rings, chains, keep-keeps, all sorts of things, were cast into the baskets, all to go into the hands of the alchemist, the proceeds to go to the heathen. These are but a few scenes from the strange manifestation of the power of the exhortation.

The great audience went home practically without a cent in its pocket, without a ring upon its finger, without a jewel to its name. When Dr. Simpson had carefully gone over the fruits of the exhortation, eliminating all doubtful pledges, he stated that the offering was $101,500, an amount upon which he would stake his honor would all be paid up. Perhaps a third of it was in money. More than $100,000 in a single day is the record of this most notable religious gathering in this State, and it all goes to the heathen of Asia and the Dark Continent.

At Old Orchard, Me., Aug. 11.—The emotional convention is spreading. There was one here Sunday, but it was not political. It was the mission day of Dr. Simpson and Christian Alliance convention, and the day appointed for the receipt of offerings.

"The record has been broken for giving for missions," said the Rev. D. W. Lelacheur, a missionary in China. "The total offering is $101,500, the largest amount subscribed in a single service for the work."

"Either we have been in the real presence of the Spirit of God, or the great audience has been under the hypnotic influence of the speakers," remarked a cool business man after the day was over. He is a man not a member of the alliance.

The stately pines and towering beeches of the Old Orchard camp ground, a veritable tabernacle of nature, have looked upon many remarkable gatherings. They have heard the ecstatic utterances of Hammarlin in the times of political peril; they have listened to the eloquence of Jas. A. Garfield; they have seen John B. Gough hold a great audience spellbound; they have scattered with the breezes of heaven the echoes of songs sung by thousands, thrilled by the preaching of a Beecher or a Phillips Brooks; but never in their long years have they been silent witnesses of a more remarkable scene than that which was enacted Sunday. When Dr. Simpson arose to make his appeal he faced a crowd of at least 10,000 people. It was an audience made up from every walk and condition of life, and an audience that sat for hours hanging on the words of the exhortation, laughing or weeping at the will of speakers, shouting hallelujahs, and showing by the workings of their countenances the earnestness of their interest in the services. It was an audience that was finally to lose all control of itself in favor of its faith, and in the end was to contribute, under its influence, what a layman would call a religious-evangelistic hysteria, and in sums ranging from a nickel to $25,000, the sum of $101,500. Dr. Simpson's sermon was brief. His theme was that all are debtors to Christ, and can never liquidate till they have given everything and done every thing possible. He said:

"We must sacrifice; do what hurts. God loves what hurts, because it smells of the sweet odor of Calvary. I must solemnly lay the command of Christ upon you, 'Go ye.' What will ye do about it?"

Louise Shepard sang a song, and then Rev. Mr. Lelacheur spoke from the text, "What have ye in the house?" He charged them to give it all, if they would hope for joy eternal. The subscriptions were called for. The first was $1, and it was given by Mrs. F. B. Morrow, who said she had gone without her supper and breakfast, and now was going without her dinner to give this.

Then came a man who said he started from Springfield with only $1. He had got there somehow. He gave his last 50 cents Saturday night. He had earned $2 since, and he gave that. He said he left a wife and children in Springfield. They hadn't any money, but had enough to last them till the next night; then the Lord would provide.

The next donation was $25,000. From this point the money simply rained down. It came in bills, in silver, in checks, in bonds, in stocks, and in pledges. The monster gift was from a man in New York, who telegraphed 10,000 shares of stock worth $5 per share at par, but for which he would give his check for $25,000. His name is not to be had. Mr. Lelacheur said they needed two house boats for the work in China. They cost $250 each. They were paid for in a moment.

Then the missionary on the Congo needed two steam launches at $25,000 each. J. R. Libby, a merchant of Portland, promptly provided means for one, and the other was quickly taken care of.

One woman said she had two cottages at Old Orchard. They needed a missionary house in the Congo. She made a sale of the property on the spot for $5,000, and the house on the Congo will be built. One woman said she had $500 she had been saving to send her sick sister to a spot where there was hope of recovery. She gave this for the Celestines in Southern China. A man quickly gave his piano to turn into money. Then a missionary named Creamer, made an impassioned appeal, crying out:

"You cannot hold up jeweled hands and hands with gold and silver and have them clean before God! There's blood on them. Take them off; take them off. Give them to the Lord; they are for His work."

Then came an avalanche of jewelry. Watches, diamond rings, chains, keep-keeps, all sorts of things, were cast into the baskets, all to go into the hands of the alchemist, the proceeds to go to the heathen. These are but a few scenes from the strange manifestation of the power of the exhortation.

The great audience went home practically without a cent in its pocket, without a ring upon its finger, without a jewel to its name. When Dr. Simpson had carefully gone over the fruits of the exhortation, eliminating all doubtful pledges, he stated that the offering was $101,500, an amount upon which he would stake his honor would all be paid up. Perhaps a third of it was in money. More than $100,000 in a single day is the record of this most notable religious gathering in this State, and it all goes to the heathen of Asia and the Dark Continent.

At Old Orchard, Me., Aug. 11.—The emotional convention is spreading. There was one here Sunday, but it was not political. It was the mission day of Dr. Simpson and Christian Alliance convention, and the day appointed for the receipt of offerings.

"The record has been broken for giving for missions," said the Rev. D. W. Lelacheur, a missionary in China. "The total offering is $101,500, the largest amount subscribed in a single service for the work."

"Either we have been in the real presence of the Spirit of God, or the great audience has been under the hypnotic influence of the speakers," remarked a cool business man after the day was over. He is a man not a member of the alliance.

The stately pines and towering beeches of the Old Orchard camp ground, a veritable tabernacle of nature, have looked upon many remarkable gatherings. They have heard the ecstatic utterances of Hammarlin in the times of political peril; they have listened to the eloquence of Jas. A. Garfield; they have seen John B. Gough hold a great audience spellbound; they have scattered with the breezes of heaven the echoes of songs sung by thousands, thrilled by the preaching of a Beecher or a Phillips Brooks; but never in their long years have they been silent witnesses of a more remarkable scene than that which was enacted Sunday. When Dr. Simpson arose to make his appeal he faced a crowd of at least 10,000 people. It was an audience made up from every walk and condition of life, and an audience that sat for hours hanging on the words of the exhortation, laughing or weeping at the will of speakers, shouting hallelujahs, and showing by the workings of their countenances the earnestness of their interest in the services. It was an audience that was finally to lose all control of itself in favor of its faith, and in the end was to contribute, under its influence, what a layman would call a religious-evangelistic hysteria, and in sums ranging from a nickel to $25,000, the sum of $101,500. Dr. Simpson's sermon was brief. His theme was that all are debtors to Christ, and can never liquidate till they have given everything and done every thing possible. He said:

"We must sacrifice; do what hurts. God loves what hurts, because it smells of the sweet odor of Calvary. I must solemnly lay the command of Christ upon you, 'Go ye.' What will ye do about it?"

Louise Shepard sang a song, and then Rev. Mr. Lelacheur spoke from the text, "What have ye in the house?" He charged them to give it all, if they would hope for joy eternal. The subscriptions were called for. The first was $1, and it was given by Mrs. F. B. Morrow, who said she had gone without her supper and breakfast, and now was going without her dinner to give this.

Then came a man who said he started from Springfield with only $1. He had got there somehow. He gave his last 50 cents Saturday night. He had earned $2 since, and he gave that. He said he left a wife and children in Springfield. They hadn't any money, but had enough to last them till the next night; then the Lord would provide.

The next donation was $25,000. From this point the money simply rained down. It came in bills, in silver, in checks, in bonds, in stocks, and in pledges. The monster gift was from a man in New York, who telegraphed 10,000 shares of stock worth $5 per share at par, but for which he would give his check for $25,000. His name is not to be had. Mr. Lelacheur said they needed two house boats for the work in China. They cost $250 each. They were paid for in a moment.

Then the missionary on the Congo needed two steam launches at $25,000 each. J. R. Libby, a merchant of Portland, promptly provided means for one, and the other was quickly taken care of.

One woman said she had two cottages at Old Orchard. They needed a missionary house in the Congo. She made a sale of the property on the spot for $5,000, and the house on the Congo will be built. One woman said she had $500 she had been saving to send her sick sister to a spot where there was hope of recovery. She gave this for the Celestines in Southern China. A man quickly gave his piano to turn into money. Then a missionary named Creamer, made an impassioned appeal, crying out:

"You cannot hold up jeweled hands and hands with gold and silver and have them clean before God! There's blood on them. Take them off; take them off. Give them to the Lord; they are for His work."

Then came an avalanche of jewelry. Watches, diamond rings, chains, keep-keeps, all sorts of things, were cast into the baskets, all to go into the hands of the alchemist, the proceeds to go to the heathen. These are but a few scenes from the strange manifestation of the power of the exhortation.

The great audience went home practically without a cent in its pocket, without a ring upon its finger, without a jewel to its name. When Dr. Simpson had carefully gone over the fruits of the exhortation, eliminating all doubtful pledges, he stated that the offering was $101,500, an amount upon which he would stake his honor would all be paid up. Perhaps a third of it was in money. More than $100,000 in a single day is the record of this most notable religious gathering in this State, and it all goes to the heathen of Asia and the Dark Continent.

At Old Orchard, Me., Aug. 11.—The emotional convention is spreading. There was one here Sunday, but it was not political. It was the mission day of Dr. Simpson and Christian Alliance convention, and the day appointed for the receipt of offerings.

"The record has been broken for giving for missions," said the Rev. D. W. Lelacheur, a missionary in China. "The total offering is $101,500, the largest amount subscribed in a single service for the work."

"Either we have been in the real presence of the Spirit of God, or the great audience has been under the hypnotic influence of the speakers," remarked a cool business man after the day was over. He is a man not a member of the alliance.

The stately pines and towering beeches of the Old Orchard camp ground, a veritable tabernacle of nature, have looked upon many remarkable gatherings. They have heard the ecstatic utterances of Hammarlin in the times of political peril; they have listened to the eloquence of Jas. A. Garfield; they have seen John B. Gough hold a great audience spellbound; they have scattered with the breezes of heaven the echoes of songs sung by thousands, thrilled by the preaching of a Beecher or a Phillips Brooks; but never in their long years have they been silent witnesses of a more remarkable scene than that which was enacted Sunday. When Dr. Simpson arose to make his appeal he faced a crowd of at least 10,000 people. It was an audience made up from every walk and condition of life, and an audience that sat for hours hanging on the words of the exhortation, laughing or weeping at the will of speakers, shouting hallelujahs, and showing by the workings of their countenances the earnestness of their interest in the services. It was an audience that was finally to lose all control of itself in favor of its faith, and in the end was to contribute, under its influence, what a layman would call a religious-evangelistic hysteria, and in sums ranging from a nickel to $25,000, the sum of $101,500. Dr. Simpson's sermon was brief. His theme was that all are debtors to Christ, and can never liquidate till they have given everything and done every thing possible. He said:

"We must sacrifice; do what hurts. God loves what hurts, because it smells of the sweet odor of Calvary. I must solemnly lay the command of Christ upon you, 'Go ye.' What will ye do about it?"

Louise Shepard sang a song, and then Rev. Mr. Lelacheur spoke from the text, "What have ye in the house?" He charged them to give it all, if they would hope for joy eternal. The subscriptions were called for. The first was $1, and it was given by Mrs. F. B. Morrow, who said she had gone without her supper and breakfast, and now was going without her dinner to give this.

Then came a man who said he started from Springfield with only $1. He had got there somehow. He gave his last 50 cents Saturday night. He had earned $2 since, and he gave that. He said he left a wife and children in Springfield. They hadn't any money, but had enough to last them till the next night; then the Lord would provide.

The next donation was $25,000. From this point the money simply rained down. It came in bills, in silver, in checks, in bonds, in stocks, and in pledges. The monster gift was from a man in New York, who telegraphed 10,000 shares of stock worth $5 per share at par, but for which he would give his check for $25,000. His name is not to be had. Mr. Lelacheur said they needed two house boats for the work in China. They cost $250 each. They were paid for in a moment.

Then the missionary on the Congo needed two steam launches at $25,000 each. J. R. Libby, a merchant of Portland, promptly provided means for one, and the other was quickly taken care of.

One woman said she had two cottages at Old Orchard. They needed a missionary house in the Congo. She made a sale of the property on the spot for $5,000, and the house on the Congo will be built. One woman said she had $500 she had been saving to send her sick sister to a spot where there was hope of recovery. She gave this for the Celestines in Southern China. A man quickly gave his piano to turn into money. Then a missionary named Creamer, made an impassioned appeal, crying out:

"You cannot hold up jeweled hands and hands with gold and silver and have them clean before God! There's blood on them. Take them off; take them off. Give them to the Lord; they are for His work."

Then came an avalanche of jewelry. Watches, diamond rings, chains, keep-keeps, all sorts of things, were cast into the baskets, all to go into the hands of the alchemist, the proceeds to go to the heathen. These are but a few scenes from the strange manifestation of the power of the exhortation.

The great audience went home practically without a cent in its pocket, without a ring upon its finger, without a jewel to its name. When Dr. Simpson had carefully gone over the fruits of the exhortation, eliminating all doubtful pledges, he stated that the offering was $101,500, an amount upon which he would stake his honor would all be paid up. Perhaps a third of it was in money. More than $100,000 in a single day is the record of this most notable religious gathering in this State, and it all goes to the heathen of Asia and the Dark Continent.

At Old Orchard, Me., Aug. 11.—The emotional convention is spreading. There was one here Sunday, but it was not political. It was the mission day of Dr. Simpson and Christian Alliance convention, and the day appointed for the receipt of offerings.

"The record has been broken for giving for missions," said the Rev. D. W. Lelacheur, a missionary in China. "The total offering is $101,500, the largest amount subscribed in a single service for the work."

"Either we have been in the real presence of the Spirit of God, or the great audience has been under the hypnotic influence of the speakers," remarked a cool business man after the day was over. He is a man not a member of the alliance.

Late Sporting News.

(Continued from page 2)

THE WHEEL.

"GOSPEL CYCLERS."

A Boston dispatch says: The "Gospel Cyclers" are preparing to set out on an invasion of Canada as a beginning of their novel crusade. Rev. F. G. Hazel, of Chelsea, says: "I propose to consecrate the bicycle to God and my plans for accomplishing my purpose are to organize federated groups of Christian workers, who shall travel from place to place, preaching, and going without ostentation or sensation. This proposed body is to be called 'The Gospel Cyclers,' and this country and Canada will at first be its field. My group will soon start for Portland, Maine, but stop at all places where we find enough people to listen to us. We will go to Canada with this first group. When cold weather comes we shall continue our work riding south, thus keeping in climatic conditions that will permit us to be constantly Gospel cyclers." The Rev. Mr. Hazel said: "The army will be divided into groups of three or more riders, to be governed by a board of directors, who will remain at home. Their business will be to direct financial business." Describing the Gospel wheelers today Mr. Hazel said: "When a group reaches a town or city it will at once repair to the principal square, and the riders will seek to attract attention by riding round and round, singing hymns before the square. We shall be careful to oppose no one in authority, and if we meet with opposition we shall quickly ride on to the next place. We expect to remain in each place two or three days. Every man and woman who joins the Gospel Cyclers must come prepared to endure physical hardship, if need be. No money will be paid them, and it is probable they will have to sleep in hammocks we shall carry to sling in the woods. We shall take light cooking utensils along. Our organization is entirely non-sectarian. Denominationalism will not appear. We shall tolerate no bloomers or short skirts, but will wear ordinary suits."

SPOKES.

Bicycling is to be made easy by a new "house-to-house" cycle-cleaning and insurance company," just floated in London with a capital of $150,000. It will establish depots for the cleaning, storing, repairing and sale of cycles, and for an annual payment of $50 by subscribers will send people to their houses clean their machines, will insure them for $500 against death and $250 against serious personal injuries while cycling, will store their machines when not in use, and teach them to ride.

All the great brewers being now in the British House of Lords, the bicycle makers are hiding in the cellarage. Mr. du Cros, who has just floated the big Dunlop Tyre Company, has begun by buying Cornbury Park in Oxfordshire, once the seat of the great Earl of Clarendon.

BASEBALL.

TOMORROW'S BALL GAME.

ALERTS. POSITIONS. BRANTFORD, Fisher.....Pitcher.....Smith, Joe

.....Catcher.....Henson P. B. Wood.....First base.....Crall

.....Second base.....Hartley, J. Stubbins.....Third base.....Jennings

.....Shortstop.....Davidson Hirsch.....Center field.....Gleason

.....Right field.....Haffey Delaney.....Left field.....Haffey

THE ARLINGTONS.

The Arlington baseball team play at Port Huron on Wednesday, at Toronto on Saturday, and at Sarnia on Monday.

THE BYRON BOYS.

Byron, Aug. 11.—A game of baseball was played on Saturday at Springfield between the Byron team and the Young Men's Brigade.

Byron will play the team from Port Huron's biscuit factory a friendly game on Saturday next.

THE EASTERN LEAGUE STANDING, AUG. 11.

Clubs. Wm. Lost. Pct. Rochester.....39.....38......501

Toronto.....47.....35......569

Providence.....37.....37......500

Buffalo.....50.....42......543

Syracuse.....43.....43......500

Springfield.....42.....42......500

Wilkesbarre.....32.....51......386

Saratoga.....30.....49......380

FLYS.

At Baltimore, Manager Hanlon today gave Pitcher Arthur Clarkson ten days' notice of his release. Too much of twirling talent was the cause assigned.