REFUSED TO HAIL

Montreal, July 17.—Officials of the C. P. R. are worried over the disposal of a gold brick in the shape of a monster locomotive built in the Angus shops at a cost of approximately $25,000. Taken out for a trial run between Hochelago and Mile End, to the consternation of many officials who had gathered to see it, this most wonderful of all locomotives refused to haul, and after many fruitless attempts it was taken back to the Angus shops.

500,000 BRICKS USED
IN ISOLATION HOSPITAL.

The Cost Was Over $50,000—Some Facts and Figures of the New Institution.

City Architect Nutter has prepared some facts regarding the new isolation hospital.
The hospital is laid out on the pavillion principle, and the building is planned so as to provide complete isolation in every part, and at the same time is extremely compact and capable of complete and easy supervision and economical service. Further, there is perfect intercommunication between the respective pavilions. Provision is made for scarlet fever and diphtheria patients in two, two-story pavilions, the upper floors being used for acute cases and the lower floors for convalescents. Each floor comprises four private wards, public ward to accommodate ten with large solarium on the south side, diet kitchen, linen room, ward office, bathroom, male and female W. C.s and lavatory and service room and a separate isolated pavilion, connected with each patient pavilion is an administration pavilion three floors in height.

Ground Floor.
On the ground floor are two detention wards, office, doctors' robes, room, disinfecting-room and clothing stores, exit bathroom and women's bedroom with bath and lavatory en suite. First floor, comprising four nurses' bedrooms, head nurses' bedrooms, nurses' dining-room, bathroom, etc., and housemaids' service-room.
Second floor comprises nurses' dormitory to accommodate six, and two nurses' bedrooms. Between the two administration pavilions is placed the service pavilion, containing on the ground floor a general kitchen with pantry and stores to serve the whole group of buildings, separate diphtheria and scarlet fever meals dining-rooms, and on the upper floor, a male's domi-tories, cooks' bedrooms and bathrooms and lavatory. In the basement of the building the heating chamber, with a boiler-room in a separate, one-story annex. All the respective pavilions are connected by covered ways and covered bridges, which allow a complete circulation of air between them.

An Open Outlook.
The hospital is laid out so that every ward, sleeping-room, corridor, room, being open outlook. Corridor and service-room, being lighted from the court yard. The public wards and the service buildings are designed in the case of an epidemic the accommodation can be doubled without destroying the efficiency of the building or overcrowding. The whole of the interior communication, corridors, passages, staircases, etc., are covered ways, etc., are of fireproof construction, constituting a perfect interior fire escape in case of fire or panic. The natural lighting and ventilation of the buildings are perfect and every part is capable of being cross ventilated, and there is not a dark corner in the whole of the building.
The artificial lighting is electric.
The hospital is heated and ventilated on the plenum principle, supplemented with direct steam heating in parts, and the system gives a ten-minute air change in all parts of the building.

The total cost of the building, exclusive of land, was $50,504.86.
The hospital possesses 20,578 square feet of floor space. The air space is 225,358 cubic feet.

It required nearly 500,000 bricks to build it.
If they were laid one upon another the bricks would form a monument 21 miles high.

PAY-AS-YOU-LEAVE CARS.

It is understood that the street railway company will fit up a number of cars with the pay-as-you-leave system immediately, although the apparatus will be changed slightly from that which is in use on car No. 98, which has been tried out on the Dundas and Belt lines.

It is said that the cars will be fitted with the gates, which will be operated from the inside by the conductor, but that the turnstile at the rear will be removed, as the man in charge will be able to handle the passengers more speedily with the farebox and ordinary register.

Work will probably be commenced in the near future, it is said.

LOOKING FOR GORE.

The members of the East London Businessmen's Association, belonging to the south side baseball team do not think that the northerners have proven their superiority by winning Wednesday's game by a 6 to 1 score, and the losers are now looking for a fight.

They are after a game for Wednesday afternoon next, the teams to meet the same disunited in Queen's Park.
A contest will probably be arranged, as Wednesday is the weekly half-holiday, and the North Siders do not consider that they are taking any chances for the trophy.

IN A HURRY TO FIND
HIS DYING MOTHER

A Flint Man Dodged the Sarnia Customs Officials and Is Arrested as Result.

Port Huron, Mich., July 17. — An interesting case will be tried in Sarnia some day next week between S. J. Hill, of Flint, and the customs officials of Sarnia. The cause of the trouble arose over the attempt of Hill to get past the inspectors without filing the necessary bond that is required for taking an auto into Canada.

On Wednesday of this week, Hill, together with his wife and family, crossed over to Sarnia from this city on the Hiawatha, taking his auto with him. When the Sarnia side was reached the customs officers demanded the necessary bonds, and Hill seemed willing to comply with the requirements of the law.
The customs broker who files the bonds was not at his office, and it was learned that he was at the St.
Clair Hotel for dinner. When that was told to Hill he stated to the officers that he would drive the machine to the hotel, and get the broker. The customs officers allowed him to do this, and instead of going after Broker Chester he left Sarnia and went to Woodstock.

Immigration Officer Ellis, to once secured a warrant for his arrest, and today it was served on him at Woodstock. When arrested he stated that he would return at once and settle with the customs officials, and that the reason that he left Sarnia was because his mother was nearly dead at Woodstock. The officers found the latter statement to be true.
