Abolition of Wage System and Disintegration of Organized Capital Demanded.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Aug. 19.-That industrial conditions exist on the Prince Rupert end of the Grand Trunk Pacific, which bids fair to seriously retard the completion of the 480-mile gap between the eastern and western mountain sections of the line, is the opinion of Collingwood Schreiber, general consulting engineer for the Dominion Government, who in his 80th year, has just returned from a five-weeks' tour of inspection from Edmonton to Prince Rupert. The contractors, Foley, Welch & Stewart, have been seriously affected since the beginning of July by the continued agitation among these men of the Industrial Workers of the World, an organization which stands among other things for the abolition of the wage system and the disintegration of organized capital,
