OU men and women whose faculties are intact-have you ever stopped to think how blessed you are in having a good mind in a sound body?

The other morning, while I was being shaved in an uptown barber shop, a youth of about seventeen came in and applied for a job. He wanted to be a lather boy in that shop. He was deaf and dumb. (I know that the jokesters will say right here that he would have made a good barber. But to me an affliction like that of this poor lad is not a laughing matter; so let's be serious for a mo-

Here was a boy terribly handicapped in life's struggle. I do not know whether he got that job, for he was still writing on a pad and passing it to the proprietor when I left, but the incident set me to thinking of the thousands of men, sound of limb and senses, who go through life complaining that they "never had a chance."

Chance! Every moment is filled with chances for the man or woman who really wants to succeed. Every sunrise brings to those of us who earnestly want to "go on" fresh opportunities to build ourselves anew. Every day is filled with possibilities for the man or woman who is willing to pay the price of success.

Your chance may be, not a few years off or a thousand miles away, but right now, in the newspaper you are holding.

SAYS HE DID IT A GOD'S COMMAND

Detectives Declare Rev. Hans tries in close proximity to the canal; Schmidt Is Only Feigning Insanity.

A DANGEROUS CRIMINAL directly affected.

Aumuller Girl Threatened To Kill Priest, Says Suspected Counterf eit

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Sept. 17.—Gathering up the oose ends of the evidence that connects Hans Schmidt, priest and confessed murderer of Anna Aumuller, with the making of spurious money, has been begun detectives under Inspector Joseph Faurot, Facts being brought to light in this search show that Schmidt has een a man of varied activities.

Everything in the rooms occupied by schmidt in the rectory of St. Joseph's Church, where he was assistant rector have been seized, and today the work of translating the contents of letters and documents found in his trunks began. Inspector Faurot hopes through this mass of correspondence to learn definitely many things concerning Schmidt's his tory that will throw light on his masquerade as Dr. Emil Moliere.

May Be Doctor. The manner in which the body of Anna Aumuller was dismembered leads the detectives to believe that Schmidt may have practiced medicine at some time in his gives a maximum of trading possibilcareer. Schmidt's familiarity with photography and his knowledge of engraving are other points the police will seek to weave into the evidence to present in the event that the priest pleads insanity at his trial for the murder of Anna Aumul-

A Master Criminal No man of Schmidt's varied pursuits hey look upon him as a criminal with a naster mind, a man trained in many things which he turned to account in his Schmidt's explanation of verything-of the murder of Anna Auhe did it at the command of God. These ern shipping companies were declarations, the detectives say, are part a plan to feign insanity.

That Schmidt did pose as Dr. Moliere, physician, as he is said to have admitted, was indicated last night by the finding among his effects of medicines and drugs. The use of some of these, the police say, is prohibited by law Dr. Ernest Arthur Muret, the dentist who was arrested following a raid of the west One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street flat, is today in a cell awaiting trial on a charge of having in his posses-sion a revolver in violation of the law. This is merely a technical charge, and Muret faces arrest at the hands of the federal authorities on the more serious harge of counterfeiting

May Be Counterfeiter. The hope of the federal authorities of onnecting Muret with the counterfeiting, heightened last night by the discovery in tools. These tools, the police said, were unterfeiting flat rates of exchange; investments of capital and banking facilities; the human factor-manufacturing and commercial ability, experience of trade and markets, and present possession.

Help West Indies. "The canal," he said, "will add enornously to the commercial facilities beween the various regions of the Amercontinent and the adjacent islands, hence important developments may be expected. The West India slands will enter upon a new period of prosperity, especially when the internal combustion engine takes the place of steam and oil replaces coal, English business and fiscal methods will have a great effect on making the West Indies important to shipping, and thus assist the development of local industries, especially the export of raw material. The comparatively unprogressive states of Central and South America will undergo remarkable developments owing to increased immigration of Europeans and increased trade. These local benefits will be the chief, and ample, justification for the construction of the canal." Blow at Marine, Of the effect on world trade, he con tinues: "America realizes the importance of the coal trade to the United Kingdom; there will be a strenuous attempt to displace British coal throughout the world in order to give American shipping the advantages at present enjoyed by British. If successful this will deal a mortal blow at our mercantile marine. Thus the British Wade. coal industry must realize the situation, and both the capital and labor interested resolve to hold the market at all costs until the Yuel question-coal or oil-is finally settled. "The published scheme of tolls which frees American coasting ships raises an international question. If the canal business principles, be worked on higher tolls will be exacted from other shipping; this will either cause a grievance, or decrease the tonnage using the canal. The question might be made domestic instead of interna-tional if America charged equal tolls to all and gave bounties to such ship.

In the Far East. "As to the effect of distance, he hought that on Australasian and far eastern markets it would be considerable, as the mileage run by steamer was a serious factor in cost of service. In this shipping offered a contrast to railways, for when trucks were loaded, length of haul had but little effect on cost of service.

"Taking London and New York as the typical European and American ports," he said, "the markets of the world fall into three classes: 1. Counhere the effect will be greatest, and in many cases the use of the canal a necessity. 2. Australasia and the east. At present there is a choice of routes to these markets; Panama will offer another alternative. 3. Ports not World Trade. "Class 2 is receiving most attention from those estimating the effects on world trade. There is a parallel equidistant from London via Suez, and from New York via Panama. On the south coast of Australia this is Port Lincoln, Adelaide being the nearest great port. All Asiatic ports west of Japan will continue to be nearer to London, e. g., Manila will be 2,000 miles nearer. But all Japanese and New Zealand ports and all Australian ports east of Adelaide will be nearer New York. If it costs 2s to transport one ton of goods 1,000 miles, distance saved will give America nmanufac-turers an advantage of from 2s to 7s 6d per ton on all goods supplied to ports between Melbourne and Wellington, N. Z.' "Tolls-Panama differs from Suez here. Suez had an immediate monopoly; with Panama there is in many in stances a choice of routes, and high tolls will deflect tonnage.

A Big Problem.
"Freights — To benefit American shipping freight must be available both out and home. To benefit American manufacturers freight must low. At present Europe supplies Australasia with manufactured goods, and the shipping goes via Suez. This route ities and great facilities for coaling. The Cape route, too, offers to fully-loaded steamers the advantage of cheap bunker coal. For the homeward voyage from Australasia a partlyloaded steamer goes via the Horn to pick up cargo at ports like Monte Video. The canal would not attract these ships. When Panama is open ould be insane, the detectives say, and will all-around-the-world services be organized? Great Britain is in a better position to do this than any other country. The rumors current recently that an existing shipping combine was trying to arrange an amalgamanuller and of the counterfeiting—is that tion with one of the oldest far eastably due to the hope of being able to commence such a service, having some of the chief trades of the world as tributaries, from the moment that Panama is available. America hopes to open up new markets, e. g., wool-This now concentrates at London, but here is a tendency towards decentralzation, and if America develops the voolen industry, she will get a wool market without necessarily construct ing a Panama Canal. A Deciding Factor. "Fuel Stations .- This will be one of he decisive factors, and lead to the keenest commercial rivalry. American Government are planning to supply good coal at either end of the canal at 19s. per ton. The English coal on the Suez route is at present admitted yesterday he had much dearer; to maintain the Suez entered into with the dentist, was route in its integrity the supply of cheaper coal is a necessity. is rooms, according to the police state- replaces coal the British Empire re nent, of a new set of photo-engraving sources will be ample to maintain our commercial position, but this must f the same pattern as those found in the not in the meantime be placed in jeopardy, or disaster may ensue.

"Insurance Rates-Will probably be The Political Factor. "The working of the imperial ideal n Great Britain, America and Germany should be noted. Preferences granted by the domin. ions have materially assisted British trade. The possession of the Philippines has displaced Spain from the position of chief trader there in favor of America. The importance of this factor can be traced in the case of Japan, and China, when settled government comes, will be another not-

Rates of Exchange. "The Far East has a silver, Europe of exchange affect trading relations.

The whole question should be caredisclosed what he considers might have fully studied. About seven years ago, been a motive for the murder of Anna when a Chinese merchant could get Aumuller. In the presence of a doctor exchange on the west coast of Amerabout a month ago the girl threatened to ica at the rate of 119 taels for $100 gold, it paid him to import thence timber and flour; but at present rates, namely, 160 taels for $100 gold, this ceases to be profitable business, and he can trade to greater advantage locally. This factor works independently of trade routes. Many Advantages..

"Great Britain is a great creditor nation. Her advances have been realy made in goods, and though interest has to be paid in gold, it comes in goods covered by bills in terms of sterling, so that investors get their interest in gold. The British, too, have banking establishments all over the world. London is the great settling place for international trade. All this gives England a very great advantage. Germany has followed England in this. Finally, the Englishman is, roughly speaking, the man in possession, and though at one time he seemed somnolescent, at present he is very wide awake. He has many advantages: (1) for the transport services; cheap, economically ships, carefully organized trading facilities throughout the world, and the knowledge and experience which enable him to retain old trades and be the first to enter new ones. (2) So far as retaining the markets for manufactured goods is concerned he has an unrivalled labor force endowed with hereditary skill, he can get the pick of the raw material, thanks to his knowledge of markets, and a fiscai policy which favors England as a buyer of raw and semi-manufactured naterials; finally, British goods are known all over the world for their. quality. Honest goods and honorable lealing on the part of the seller are their own market."
