| iff be very easy to have the basket brought of the theatre in the evening, and I shall be ready to go on with the play as if noning had happened. Mr. Kelly jumped in the cart and carried the luggage to a trimbouse on the Marsh Road, a mile away in in a direction where the fire could not oo. He first thought of taking it to the ueon's Park. If he had done so it would lit have been burned, as Queen's Square in King's Square were a bed of fames, nus destroying all the property moved here for preservation. Where to go no ne knew. The streets were full of peole who ran hither and thither, at first not ensible of the real danger. The mercilless find filled the air with dust and smoke, not it was almost impossible to keep out of the danger of being run over by teams hat were driving at a breakneds speed. Tuckmen were in demand, so much so nat in one-half hour a waggon to carry aggage away from the hotel could not be ad at any price. An actor told me that a managed to get his own and his wife's cunks down to the door and was obliged to leave them there to be burned. Quite number of boxes belonging to guests of a Victoria were taken to the American that sand burned before their eves.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Butter per B $0.20 @ $0.21 Eggs                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
