HOLLAND DEFIES GERMANY

Refuses to Permit Boats to go from Germany through Dutch Canal

The Hague, July 27.—Holland has defied Germany and the threatened reprisals by the Kaiser's government in refusing the recent demand that she permit canal boats to go from German to Belgian territory through the Dutch canals whatever their cargo. Under international law munitions of war cannot be permitted to pass through neutral territory, but Germany's anxiety to improve her transportation facilities to the Belgian front led her to demand that Holland violate this law.

The Dutch refusal has brought the demand to a crisis, and all here are anxiously awaiting to see whether Germany dare attempt to make good her threats.

Germany's action in this case is on a plane with her demands on Switzerland, which have not yet been settled. The Swiss frontier has been closed since early in the war, so far as the export of food-stuffs is concerned, and Germany demands that the embargo be removed. Switzerland, who has not yet replied does not have international law to fall back on. Her action was taken in self-defence, since all her imports are at the mercy of the Allies, and if she permitted Germany to draw on her food supply she would soon be sharing the German shortage.

British shipyards have under construction nearly a million and a half tons of shipping, which is more than German submarines have sunk in the whole war. Germany admits shortening her line of defence on the eastern battle front. It is the beginning of the open season for German admission.

Half a million shells a day are being rained on the enemy along the main British front of attack, according to an artillery officer. This shower of death and destruction has astonished, as well as demoralized, the Germans in its path.

LARGE RED CROSS SHIPMENTS SUPPLIES FROM CANADA INCREASE.

(From Headquarters, Toronto)

The last records of shipments of Red Cross supplies from Dominion Headquarters in Toronto show large increases. Up to May 1st the total number of cases shipped from Canada was 63,742. The May total the largest for any month to date, was 8,332 making a grand total of 72,174. The chief items in the month's shipment were 17,716 pairs of socks, 43 cases of tobacco.

The shipments came from all over Canada. Vancouver contributed 56 cases and Victoria 115. The number passing through the Montreal warehouse was 1,029. A total of 612 came through Winnipeg. Hamilton contributed 209 cases, Regina 154, London 314, Cobalt 101, Calgary 172 and Halifax 200. It is thus evident that the Canadian Red Cross is receiving nationwide support.

RECRUITING IN NOVA SCOTIA

The Need for More Men

It seems advisable to consider at the present time, just two years from the commencement of the War, what Canada in general and the Province of Nova Scotia in particular has done and what we may expect to accomplish in the future. We are living in the most momentous period of the world's history and it is a test of character with us all whether we can measure up to the greatness of the time in which we live, and all who feel their responsibilities will be intensely interested in this retrospect of the past and forecast of the future.

A table has been prepared by the Department of Trade and Commerce showing the number of men of Military age in each Province of Canada at the opening of the War. The total number in Canada was 1,720,000 and in Nova Scotia approximately 98,500. It was originally intended that the number of the Canadian Forces for Overseas and Home Service should be 250,000, but when the need came to be felt for men and yet more men, the number was increased to 500,000 or approximately 28 out of each 100 of Military age. Various estimates have been made as to the proportion of the 500,000 which should be raised from the various Provinces. If the figures of the Department of Trade and Commerce as to the number of men of Military age are accepted and it is assumed that each Province is to contribute proportionately, the pro rata share of the 500,000 from Nova Scotia is approximately 29,000. The actual number enlisted in Nova Scotia including Home Service is approximately 22,000 or 22 out of each 100 of men of Military age, leaving us still to raise 7 out of each 100, equal to 7000 men. It must be remembered that a very considerable number of men enlisted and passing preliminary medical examination are finally rejected as not physically fit, so that on the basis of the men who have actually gone Overseas or are now in training, a considerable increase would have to be made in the above estimate.

The percentage of men of Military age who are in Military service is much larger in the West than in Nova Scotia. The people of the Western Provinces being less firmly rooted and more prepared for any new adventures would naturally be likely at first to respond more quickly to the call for men, but it cannot be doubted that until Nova Scotia's quota is fully made up, her sons of military age and qualifications will continue to respond to the call. In considering the duty of the hour we must remember that Germany when she entered into the war for world dominion did not want for colonization and Empire building little England, but her dominions upon which the sun never sets, the greatest of which is Canada.

It is often difficult to realize that while Nova Scotia is, notwithstanding the war and to some extent by reason of the war, enjoying remarkable prosperity, we are as a part of the finest Dominion of the British Empire so covetously desired by Germany, as deeply interested as our Allies in France or our brothers in the Motherland; our geographical position is such that the invader has not set foot on our land or aeroplanes dropped bombs upon us, and the war does not impress itself upon our sense in the same way as those who are nearer to it, but nevertheless it is our war and we should as much as those nearer to it feel that helping to bring it to a successful issue is today our one great business. In France practically every man capable of such service is engaged in manufacturing munitions, or in Military service. In Great Britain a huge army of Munition workers is engaged in manufacturing munitions, and starting out when the war began with an army of only 334,000 men, and these largely on paper. Great Britain largely by means of the genius for organization of the late Lord Kitchener, has recruited and raised a new army of nearly 3,000,000 men, who were raised by voluntary enlistment and a large proportion of this new army is now fighting "somewhere in France." Finally, on January 20, 1916, a bill passed the House of Commons in England providing for compulsory service of all men between the ages of 18 and 41 who are bachelors or widowers without children depending upon them. Great Britain has not only in two years made a great army able with the aid of the Forces of her Overseas Dominions to meet and defeat the legions which the Kaiser has been training for thirty years, but starting out with the greatest Navy in the world she has by constant and effective building upon a large scale and at high pressure, nearly doubled its effective force. The wealth of England has been expended without stint not only upon her Army and Navy but in financing her Allies, a large measure of assistance to whom was in some cases very necessary. But with all the Mother country has done, it might well be she could not have fought the enormous odds she had to contend with without the prompt and efficient assistance of her Great Dominions throughout the Empire. Looking to what we have done in Nova Scotia, we find that we have sent overseas six Infantry Battalions, as well as three Batteries of Artillery Ammunition Columns and Headquarters Company Artillery Brigades, Divisional Train Headquarters Company of Army Service Corps and two Overseas Stationary Hospital Units, as well as sending over reinforcement drafts from the Forces of the Halifax Garrison and detachments for Pioneers Tunnelling Companies and other Units. We have four other Battalions training in Nova Scotia who will shortly be going Overseas, the Nova Scotia Highland Brigade, comprising nearly 5000 men and officers. It is intended that this Brigade should bear the name of Nova Scotia to the Front, for Sir Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, at recent inspection of the Battalion at Aldershot camp, announced that it was intended that it should go to the Front as a Brigade. As the time draws near when this Brigade will be going overseas, the question arises of providing reinforcements to fill up the wastage that must be necessarily provided for, and the Militia Department has recently determined to raise a Reserve Battalion for enforcement of the Nova Scotia Brigade. A nucleus for this will be furnished by the number of men which the various Battalions have recruited over their authorized strength for Overseas, but there will be a considerable number, probably 600 or 700 men to be recruited to fill the Reserve Battalion which is to be called the 24th Reserve Battalion, C.E.F., and recruiting for this Battalion will no doubt soon be authorized. Nova Scotia to do her share must contribute out of her sons who are not yet in Khaki at least seven out of every 100 of Military age, and there can be no stronger appeal to them than the call for Reserves to be trained and ready to reinforce the N. S. Brigade when required.

The need for additional men in the ranks of the Canadian Expeditionary Force is emphasized by a gallant son of Nova Scotia who gave his life for the cause, Lieut. George H. Campbell, son of George S. Campbell, Esq., President of the Nova Scotia Recruiting Association, in his last letter to his father which was received after his death said—

"I am glad that Nova Scotia is doing her bit in recruiting. What one realizes on getting here is that every available man must come over or it will never end. We must have more men behind us to take our places if we fall out. It will take every Britisher to beat them and we must do it."

We are all Britishers like Lieutenant Campbell, citizens of the British Empire which can only be preserved by the crushing defeat of Germany.

The Dominion of Canada like Australia and New Zealand and other parts of the Empire, has realized that all must contribute to the utmost of its strength and must support and provide for the soldiers to the fullest extent of their needs. The willingness to do this is shown by the large increase recently made in pensions to soldiers injured or incapacitated in Active Service, and allowances to dependents of those who fall in Active Service. The new scale applies to all who have enlisted since the war began and the pension, etc., for privates in the ranks is as follows:

Pension
 In case of total disability accompanied by incapacity to attend to physical wants, $730.00 per annum and $6.00 per month to each child.
 Total disability not accompanied by such incapacity $40.00 per month and $6.00 per month to each child. In case of partial disability, pension in proportion to extent of disability, and in all cases of disability up to three-fifths of former capacity $6.00 per month to each child.

Pensions, etc. to Dependents.
 Widow of soldier of the Canadian Expeditionary Force who is killed or who dies as the result of injuries received or disease contracted or aggravated while on Active Service $32.00 per month and $6.00 per month to each child.

With sufficient reserves to keep the Units of the Canadian Expeditionary Force up to full strength and with all other parts of the Empire doing their share, we may well anticipate that before another Anniversary of the Declaration of war comes round, it will have been brought to an end and a glorious victory won, but till we have done our full share we must not cease our efforts, those who are able, going to fight, and all others contributing their assistance by every means available.

In the British House of Commons Chancellor of Exchequer Reginald McKinnon recently announced that the Government had decided to take in taxation 77 per cent of the excess profits of shipping firms.

THE BLESSING OF A HEALTHY BODY

Has Not Had An Hour's Sickness Since Taking "FRUIT-A-TIVES".

MR. MARRIOTT
73 Lees Ave., Ottawa, Ont.,
August 9th, 1915.

"I think it my duty to tell you what 'Fruit-a-tives' has done for me. Three years ago, I began to feel run-down and tired, and suffered very much from Liver and Kidney Trouble. Having read of 'Fruit-a-tives', I thought I would try them. The result was surprising. During the 3 years past, I have taken them regularly and would not change for anything. I have not had an hour's sickness since I commenced using 'Fruit-a-tives', and I know now what I haven't known for a good many years—that is, the blessing of a healthy body and clear thinking brain."

THE PARIS CONFERENCE

(The Journal of Commerce)

The resolutions of the Allies' Economic Conference held a few days ago at Paris, at which Canada and Australia were represented, express in a very general way the determination of the Allies to co-operate after the war in promoting trade between the Allied nations, and to guard against enemy countries obtaining any trade control that would prejudice the interests of the Allies. It seems to have been hastily assumed by some writers in the English press and by some correspondents of Canadian journals, that the whole matter has been happily settled, and an after-the-war programme agreed upon to the satisfaction of all concerned. Reports alleged to have emanated from Sir George E. Foster, who attended the Conference, are thus summed up in the London (Ontario) Free Press:

"Sir George E. Foster, Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce, who attended the economic conference of the Allies held in Paris, has returned to London with some significant statements. The most important of these is the unanimity which prevailed, and the fact that it was found possible to lay down definite principles governing the varied interests of the countries concerned, including those of the friendly neutrals. It is apparent from what Sir George states that no narrow and 'middle-of-the-war' sentiment prevailed. There was no anger manifested toward the enemy countries. No spirit of revenge is actuating the Allies in their economic purposes. But there is a definite determination among them to prevent the aggressive German economic campaign which made itself felt before the war from regaining the place that it held. The Allies will stand together in their trading, with the expressed object of rendering it impossible for Germany to again build up a commercial power that in turn will permit of the peace of the world being threatened by the Teutons. The Allies are acting with a view to their own protection, and not with vindictiveness."

It would be well to await some more authoritative statement of Sir George Foster's views before assuming the correctness of this report. There is, of course, among all the countries represented at the Conference the most earnest desire to co-operate for the purposes of the war. Naturally there will be a desire to promote the best relations between them after the war and particularly to guard against the German aim of commercial domination. On the policy to be pursued while the war lasts, there will be little room for difference, for all theories and systems must yield to the demands which the war has created.

When the Allied nations are called on at this time to declare a policy to take effect after the war they can hardly do more than express a pious resolve to stand together as far as possible. This, it appears, is what they have done at Paris in the resolutions which we publish to-day.

A Berlin telegram represents the German authorities as saying that the resolutions of the Paris Conference (Continued on page 6)
