

---

cause he thought that if their meetings promised comfort or benefit to the prisoner, it would be his wife's duty to continue them ; while if they proved useless, she might be released from all obligation to remain at Cacouna.