

mills in Canada, and amongst the largest in America. This company numbers amongst its stockholders some of the most distinguished names in railway, finance and political life of Canada and the United States. Mr. Russell A. Alger, son of General Alger, the Secretary of the War Department in the United States, is the manager at Grand Mere.

Shawefegan, situate also on the St. Maurice river, is destined in a short time to be an important place. Two millions of dollars are to be spent within the next three months in building and setting in operation pulp and paper mills.

Radnor Forges, about twelve miles from Grand Mere, is noted for its great iron works, and lately for the famous "Radnor Water" which has found a market second to none in Canada.

At Grand Mere Dr. Montgomery acts as Lay Reader, and at Radnor Mr. Bell and Mr. Compston, each of these men having their authority from the Bishop.

With the help of such men as these, the Rev. Wm. Barton will be greatly assisted in his work.

The Revs. E. A. Dunn and J. Almond received a most hearty welcome at both Grand Mere and Radnor Forges, and thus the carrying out of their mission for the Bishop became to them a real pleasure.

IN MEMORIAM

JOSHUA JOHNSON.

Mr. Joshua Johnson, a communicant of St. Cuthbert's Church, Dixville, fell a victim to pneumonia, on 7th February. About a year ago he had a similar attack, which left his lungs so weak that all efforts to resist the progress of the disease were of no avail. On the Sunday evening before his death, having been summoned to his bedside, I administered the "Holy Sacrament of the Body and Blood of Christ" to him and four members of his family, and spent the remainder of the night with them. As far as his weak condition would allow, Mr. Johnson took part in the Service, and seemed both anxious for and to take much comfort out of the means of grace offered to him. A wife, two daughters, one of whom is married, and two sons, all of whom are consistent members of the Church, are left to mourn the loss of a loving and devoted father.—G. H. A. M.

CYRIL BISHOP.

Entered into Rest at Quebec, on Tuesday,
February 7th, 1839

During the last few years we have lost from the city of Quebec many of our most worthy citizens—men who had made their mark and had rendered their peculiar share of service to their Church, their city or other interests. But the removal of our dear young friend, Cyril Bishop, only son of the highly respected and esteemed organist and choirmaster of our Cathedral Church, produced perhaps even a deeper and more general impression. For here is the case of one, just budding into life, known especially to be straight and considerate, enthusiastic and good, taken in the bright morning of life to render service "nearer the throne." And thus a close reminder comes to all of us, young as well as old, saying "Be ye also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of Man cometh."

The Archbishop's Charge

We have still remaining a few copies (16) of the celebrated Charge recently delivered by the Archbishop of Canterbury at his First Visitation. These can be had for 30c. each, postage paid, on application to the Editor of the DIOCESAN GAZETTE. The price in England is one shilling net.

The Best Lesson About Charity.

Archbishop Magee would often tell the following story, and say it was the best lesson about charity he ever had in his life:—

"It was when my father was vicar of St. Peter's, Drogheda, Ireland. One day I met a ragged, miserable Roman Catholic child who was begging for help. Touched by his wretchedness, I made my way to my father's study, and told him about the boy, and asked him to give me something
