The Standard.

"A budget of charming stories for young people,"

The Knapsack Series.

With Illustrations, Small Crown 8vo, 35c. each.

WIDOW WINPENNY'S WATCHWORD.

THE MAN WITH THE KNAPSACK;

OR, THE MILLER OF BURNHAM LEE.

The Ecclesiastical Gazette.

"A rare tale, well told."

Woman's Work.

"The story of the colporteur, and the work he was able to do for his Master in lonely and neglected places, is well told, and the pictures of country life are pretty and natural."

The Scotsman.

"It is written with undeniable earnestness of intention, and with the writer's accustomed vivacity and directness of style."

Bristol Times.

"The story is easily and brightly told, the characters are well drawn, and the interest of the reader is awakened by the words and actions of the good 'man with the knapsack.'"

The Liverpool Mercury.

"The tone of the tale is religious, but there is a manliness about it not always found in stories of its class; while the narrative of Caleb Goodall shows how much good can be done in this world by simple-hearted and devoted men."
