

SECOND ANNUAL REPORT of the
Young People's Missionary Society

IN CONNECTION WITH CRESCENT STREET CHURCH.

The work this season has been carried on on much the same plan as it was previously. We have again to express our gratitude to our worthy adviser and helper, Mrs. Mackay, for the use of her rooms, where, on the first Monday of every month, excepting the summer months, we have been permitted to hold our meetings. For study, the subject of "Converts to the Jewish Religion in the Bible," and the "Life of William Carey" have been taken up. Music as before has been introduced into the programme of every meeting and has proved most enjoyable.

At the meeting held on November 6th, 1900, a vote of thanks was moved to the retiring officers who so ably and faithfully performed their respective duties, and new officers were elected.

The society has at various times endeavoured to contribute to the needs of the less fortunate, and last Christmas sent a box to Mr. Coté, French Presbyterian minister at Namur, in reply to which the society received a very nice note from Mrs. Coté.

Thanks to the kindness of friends the box was well filled with candies, oranges and toys, as well as many useful articles. In order to prepare the latter sewing meetings were organized and held every week at the houses of different members, for five weeks previous to the holiday season.

We have to thank the Ladies' Aid Society for a most liberal donation to our box. In April last the members decided to engage in charitable work during the summer months. The sewing of clothing for the children connected with the Montreal Diet Dispensary was chosen as suitable work.
