SECOND CHARGE HANGS OVER

Arrested as Race Track Thief Phillips Must Stand Trial For Theft.

Charles Phillips, 144 Gamble-avenue, who was careful not to look like a tout, for it was that which got him into trouble yesterday after he had steered clear of it since February, 1908. It was the way that he was foreman in his home from Victoria street, intending to hold him as a vagrant until after the race meet.

When he got him to headquarters he discovered that he was wanted on a warrant for theft of over $300 worth of goods from the Adams Furniture Company. The trick for which the warrant was issued was a neat one.

It is alleged that Phillips at the time of the theft was in the Adams' store saying that he was Foreman in the street car motor shops and that an employee named Phillips, who was about to be married, would be up shortly to purchase an outfit for his new home. Shortly afterward Phillips appeared and got the goods.

After he had left the bogus Riley telephone again, saying that Phillips' pay would be ready Monday and the first instalment could then be collected. This gave the man time to dispose of the goods before any enquiry was made. On Wednesday there was nothing doing. No such person was known at the shop. The goods had been sold to various second-hand dealers and Phillips had disappeared.

otherwise constituted. Such commission to report to the next assembly, Principal Forrest put in a word for the undenominational colleges which were turning out gentlemen, scholars and artists quite as ably as Queen's. Prof. Dyde adjourned the debate till the morning being Dr. Gordon's second.

The original motion is as follows: "The trustees of Queen's University having expressed their deliberate judgment that further changes in the constitution are necessary for the welfare of the university, the assembly resolve to appoint a commission to confer and co-operate with the trustees, to consider all the changes suggested, to consider all the interests involved, and to report their judgment in the whole question to the next assembly."

Principal Gordon began by pointing out that Queen's was not founded as a sectarian college, but as a university. The trustees of Queen's College, Toronto, the precursor of the present university. In 1827, John Sandfield Macdonald withdrew the provincial grant, the college then being regarded as denominational. As they passed, the college students became more and more national in spirit and service and became less denominational. It was because the university was simply sharing the expanding life of Presbyterianism, "for no church in Canada is less sectarian and more national than our Presbyterian Church."

The removal of denominational tests for the professors was sought. Twenty-seven years ago, at present, the trustees of Queen's College, Toronto, the precursor of the present university. In 1827, John Sandfield Macdonald withdrew the provincial grant, the college then being regarded as denominational. As they passed, the college students became more and more national in spirit and service and became less denominational. It was because the university was simply sharing the expanding life of Presbyterianism, "for no church in Canada is less sectarian and more national than our Presbyterian Church."

Rev. G. F. Salton of Stratford supported the motion, saying: "It is absolutely unfair to these young men to put them into a sweat-box when they are not expecting it." Conference will ask the Ontario Government to legislate giving municipalities power to regulate the hours of liquor selling. The reasons cited are because of it being impossible to show grounds seven entries in one of the finest exhibitions of handsome and speedy horses ever given on the grounds of specialists is endorsed.

The price of the old John-street property was reduced to $15,000, and the offer of that amount will be accepted. The transfer of Principal Gray from Fern-avenue school to Duke-street was objected to by Trustees Simpson, Dr. Conboy and Miss Martin. Seven hundred residents of Fern-avenue district had petitioned against the transfer. The objectioning trustees, Dr. Conboy and Miss Martin, were defeated. The salary of James Barron, recently appointed Supt. Bishop's staff, was fixed at $850.

NEW LONDON PRESIDENT SLAMS BIBLE'S CRITICS

Rev. A. K. Birks Declares His Beliefs and a General Discussion on Higher Criticism May Result.

LONDON, Ont., June 3.—(Special.)—A "Higher Criticism" looks inevitable in London Conference, despite the fact that this morning they tried to avoid it by voting down a resolution to subject all candidates for ordination to an examination as to their theological soundness.

Things promised to be peaceful in this regard until Rev. A. K. Birks, pastor of Asin-street Church, here, in assuming the office of moderator, in the evening was elected to-day, made some very pointed remarks on the subject. He believed in the old Bible, the whole Bible, and was not going to transfer his allegiance to the doctrines that had so prospered the Methodist Church, and the standard of any man who happened to come to the country.

As the conference is said to be pretty evenly divided on the issue, several of his electors were much incensed at the president's remarks, and it is certain they will talk back when they get a chance.

In the discussion this morning, after Rev. J. S. Cooke had moved that a commission be appointed to consider the changes suggested, to consider all the interests involved, and to report their judgment in the whole question to the next assembly.

Principal Gordon began by pointing out that Queen's was not founded as a sectarian college, but as a university. The trustees of Queen's College, Toronto, the precursor of the present university. TASTES LIKE MORE

That's the effective expression used by a number of "Hop-Toners" in describing "Hop-Tone," the new temperance drink. In quality and purity it is the McLaughlin standard—and you know what that means. In taste is an unusually happy combination of just what you like best—not clammy nor sickish, but just pleasantly bitter-sweet. In results "Hop-Tone" has the field to itself. No other drink will tone the system and enrich the blood as will "Hop-Tone," and this because it contains iron in a form that is at once taken up by the blood. In all places, and at all times,

Whenever You Want a Drink Think of "Hop-Tone"—Everywhere So
