MISS DUFF WILL LEAVE HOSPITAL

She Sent in Her Resignation Some Days Ago—Will Be Dealt With Today.

At the regular monthly meeting of the hospital commissioners this afternoon the resignation of Miss Duff, matron of that institution, will be considered. Dr. Walker, president of the commission, in answer to an inquiry this morning, said he had heard that Miss Duff had sent in her resignation, but it had not yet come officially before the board. It is not known what induced Miss Duff to take this step as she is generally considered an efficient worker, but rumor has it that a number of recommendations from her for improvements have not received any attention from the commissioners, and she has decided to sever her connection with the institution. It is understood that the resignation was handed in about a week ago and is to take effect about the first of November.

Probably every reputable business college in Canada has applications for five times as many male stenographers as it can supply. Salaries at the outset are good, and chances for advancement probably greater than any other line of work, as the stenographer becomes his employer's right hand man, and soon learns all the ins and outs of the business. There is no likelihood of the profession becoming overcrowded, as stenographers are speedily promoted to managing positions, and make room for others to take their place. Such being the case, every good shorthand school should be crowded with bright young men ambitious to make the best use of their time and talents. To those who can not spare time for day study, the evening classes of the St. John Business College afford just the opportunity needed for acquiring shorthand skill. Hours 7.30 to 9.30, Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

ANOTHER POSITION. Miss Vera Chasick, of this city, has been selected by the employment bureau of The Currie Business University, Ltd., to fill the position of stenographer and bookkeeper for J. Shaw & Co.

Charles F. Ingalk, of White's express, left yesterday morning to visit his uncle, Captain John Wolfe, River Hebert, N. S.
