

Dropsy

Given up by Doctor

"I had dropsy, and was told by my family physician that there was no chance for me. My family also gave me up. My limbs and body were swollen, one-third larger than natural, water collected around my heart and I had to be propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I took Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy, until I was entirely cured. This was in 1902, and I am now able to do any kind of work on my farm. My cure was so marvelous."

L. TURLEY SURG. Wm. Ky.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has been wonderfully successful in relieving heart trouble. Its tonic effect upon the heart nerves and muscles is a great factor in assisting nature to overcome heart weakness.

Muscles and the Will

(Dr. Richard Cole Newton in the September Forum.) I have frequently noticed that my own endurance on any particular occasion is largely determined by my mental attitude. If I say to myself as I start out to take a bicycle ride that I will ride a distance of twelve or fourteen miles, I accomplish the feat and feel just about as tired as I do when I have selected and ridden a journey twice or thrice as long. The crucial thing is making up the mind to go a certain distance. In other words, my bodily energy is developed and expended in obedience to my will, and my body having done what it was told to do, the journey long or short, proceeds against further exertion after the task is fulfilled. Mr. Roosevelt's wonderful energy was originally, at least, unquestionably far more mental than a physical attribute, although of course, the iron will begets the iron muscles.

DEFENCE OF HIGHER RAILROAD RATES AND WATERED STOCKS

Ingenious Argument Put Forward by Railway President and Endorsed by Bankers' Publishing Co.

Bankers' Publishing Co., of New York, is issuing a book entitled "Confidence in the National System" by Arthur E. Stilwell, president of the Kansas City, Mexican and Orient Railway Co., who is a strenuous defender of watered stock. In order that readers of this paper may get his point of view, the Times-Star prints herewith a portion of one chapter of the book. "The Great Northern Railroad has some 7,000 miles of track. This was the creative work of James J. Hill, his energy, his foresight and his sagacity, built the road. He was bought at, as I was when building the Kansas City Southern—promised a dreamer, and the territory the road was to open was called a desert. The railroad men of his section said: 'Wait until he must renew the ties, and then see where he will be.' But Mr. Hill, like all men that destiny has chosen for such work, could see the end, though none else foresaw it. It was the prospect of riches of James J. Hill (withheld from others) which enabled him to see up the right, amid crop failures, panics, slanders and yet live, and work, and give service to the world.

"James J. Hill, in building the Great Northern, was positive that his message to posterity was to be delivered at the Pacific coast, he carried his message to Garcia. And what a message it was, written on the ground in characters of steel! "What a blessing it was for that wonderful unoccupied country! Cities sprang up, and millions of acres responded to the song of the plow, always a singer never produced so wonderful a drama as this reality—millions of homes, great waving fields of grain. Giant trees, that for centuries had resisted all stress of seasons, and all joys, became the subjects of this King of Commerce. What a blessing to posterity that his message was not like the Philippines—over the sea; here was an empire, within yet added to our own sleeping country. What a gift from one man!

Let us admit what Hill had done, someone else might have accomplished at a later day; but Hill was ten years in advance of the times. What a gift this was from one empire builder! Figures are cold, and words are weak to tell the story. "The mind of man can scarcely comprehend all the blessings conferred through the building of the Great Northern, but let us try to enumerate some of these. The Great Northern has 7,000 miles of track; figure that 2,000 miles of this territory would have been developed by other railroads, so, in only 5,000 miles of the track was increased in value, 7,000 is development credit due to Mr. Hill's enterprise. "Figure that the Great Northern has increased land values but $20 per acre in 5,000 miles of its territory. We will say that land only for fifty miles on either side of the track was increased in value. I am convinced, considering increased value of all the cities and towns brought into being by this road, and the value of all the minerals and timber contained, this increase should be estimated at double or treble above figures. To be conservative we will only put the increase at $20 per acre. "Here is a section of land 5,000 by 100 miles tributary to the Great Northern, and in this territory is 500,000 square miles or 320,000,000 acres. Figure that this has increased $20 per acre in market value, since the advent of the road, the increase would then amount to $8,400,000,000 of wealth added to the country by the untiring work of James J. Hill. "Estimate that Hill was only ten years in advance of others in creating this development to him; we will only credit him with 6 per cent, simple interest on these created values for this ten year period, which amounts to $8,840,000,000. Bear in mind that this is just the interest for ten years on what Hill created in property and land values, and only taking in 5,000 miles of the 7,000. "If you earn $80 per year you have the same increase as a man with $1,000 invested at 6 per cent. Income is the annual return from your time or from your invested money. "Now consider this great territory brought to life by the Great Northern Railroad, of the mines, the cities, the farms, the steamship business, developed by Hill and his Great Northern. At least 500,000 people found employment at good wages, by reason of this one man's energy. If each only earns $2 a day this is increased income of $1,000,000,000 annually, or for 300 days is $300,000,000,000 annually. This is 6 per cent, on five billion dollars.

Just Give Asepto a Chance at Your Washing

A SEPTO Soap Powder is more than a mere soap. It is a germicide as well. After all, despite what each maker claims for the particular soap he makes, soap is soap—all more or less the same—all made from the same basic materials—all sold more or less in the same quantities for the price.

While Asepto Soap Powder is as white as snow—and absolutely without rubbing, boiling or sitting position and in every place where there is a single trace of germ life. Asepto is not harmful to hands or clothes—will not cause paint or varnish to crack or peel—leaves no blue seam over woodwork, but abolishes dirt and chases disease germs like magic.

ENGLISH BABY WILL BECOME IMMENSELY RICH

Earl of Rosbery has a Grand Son and is Delighted. London, Sept. 16.—The Earl of Rosbery is delighted over the birth of his grandson, the first-born of Lord and Lady Dalmeny. The boy, who will eventually succeed to the Rosbery estates, will be immensely rich—far richer than his grandfather, for he will inherit not only the Rosbery wealth, but the various slices of Rothschild fortunes which have come to the family through the late Lady Rosbery. At one time Lord Dalmeny gave his father much trouble, owing to his undisciplined friends on the turf. He has now, however, settled down, without lights over the influence of the young wife, who was a grand-daughter of the late Duke of Westminster.

DECLARE WAR ON SALE OF LIQUOR

United States Druggists Pass Drastic Resolutions on Question. Pittsburgh, Sept. 15.—Drastic resolutions tending towards legislation vital alike to the drug trade and the public marked the sessions of the annual convention of the National Retail Druggists' Association here. President C. H. Huhn of Minneapolis in his address declared war on the indiscriminate sale of liquors in drug stores, announced that law forbids the sale of intoxicating preparations without a prescription. "The Chicago delegation demanded the change of the name 'wood alcohol' to 'wood naphtha' that 'tipplers may not be led by the similarity of names to drink the poisonous wood alcohol instead of whiskey."

That Boy

(From Moe Greene in Human Life). Somewhere in the United States there is a mother's son who in twenty or thirty years will be the most famous man in America. He is a tiny little fellow whose laughing eyes grow big and serious with wonderment as each day human life unfolds its historic scroll, and the things and the people of this world print indelibly upon the plastic mind of youth the fascinating and marvellous story of man's achievement. His small heart warms with unobscured interest until in full bloom with admiration and ambition. Life is so uncertain and death so sure that no magic can take us within the veil and unfold for us the tapestries which the weaver of time is working. We cannot divine who is the child of today that will be the man of tomorrow. But, snuggled to his mother's breast or taking his first uncertain steps with the aid of a proud father's hand—is that boy, it may be yours. You cannot tell.
