Fishermen Think They Are Ill-Used

Men Plying the Trade in St. John and Charlotte Counties Object to Regulations Hampering Their Activities - State of Maine Fishermen Benefit by Canadian Restrictions.

A number of changes in the regulations governing the fishing industry are desired by the fishermen of St. John and Charlotte Counties, and there is talk of following the example of the fishermen of Nova Scotia, and forming a fishermen organization for the purpose of promoting the adoption of measures in the common interest. According to statements made to a Standard representative, the fishermen of the two counties are almost unanimously of the opinion that if they were placed on the same basis in regard to the lobster fisheries as the fishermen of the State of Maine, the change would be very beneficial. At present the regulations of the department of Fisheries prohibit the fishermen of St. John and Charlotte counties taking lobsters under 10 1/2 inches in length, and a close season for these crabs is enforced from June to January.

In Maine the size limit is the same, but the fishermen are allowed to take lobsters all the year round. Now it is claimed that the Canadian regulations enforcing the close season in Charlotte county, merely protects lobsters for the benefit of the State of Maine fishermen. American lobster fishermen pursue their operations near the international boundary line during the Canadian closed season and as a good deal of bait escapes from their traps, lobsters from the Canadian side are tolled into American waters and caught by the American fishermen.

Hard on Canadians. Owing to this migration of lobsters during the close season, the fishermen of Charlotte and St. John counties, hold that the close season operates to their disadvantage, and that it is unnecessary anyway. They point to the fact that since Maine raised the size limit for lobsters from 9 to 10 1/2 inches, and started artificial propagation the supply of lobsters all along the Maine coast has greatly increased. In view of this they claim that the abolition of the close season and the installation of a lobster hatchery in Charlotte county, would be of great benefit to them. The State of Maine has several hatches, and surprising results have been obtained. Not so many years ago it was feared that the lobster fisheries of Maine were ruined, but artificial propagation has replenished the supply, and brought a new era of prosperity to the fishermen.

Another regulation which the fishermen think should be abolished is that which prohibits seining for herring in Charlotte county. It has long been a mystery why

ANNIVERSARY OF CARLETON CHURCH

Methodists Hold Appropriate Services to Celebrate Seventieth Anniversary of Existence of the Congregation.

The pastor and congregation of Carleton Methodist church yesterday observed the seventieth anniversary of the church.

The anniversary was observed with befitting solemnity and the attendance at all services was large. In the morning an appropriate service was conducted by Rev. H. E. Thomas at which the pastor delivered an eloquent sermon, putting forth the missionary obligations of the Methodist Church.

The Sunday school held a special service in the afternoon at which the subject of temperance was discussed. At the evening service Rev. H. E. Thomas again occupied the pulpit and in an able discourse enumerated the complex problems confronting the people of the twentieth century, the solution of these problems, and the methods of Christ to be employed in coping with them.

A feature of the anniversary services yesterday was the special program of sacred music, prepared for the occasion and discoursed in excellent manner by the choir of the church.

During the seventy years since the erection of the first edifice on the site now occupied by the church, its history has been one of unusual activity. Pastors and flock have united in its upbuilding, and the spreading of its influence. Especially fortunate in its pastors, the material welfare as well as the spiritual has been advanced, and at present both church and rectory are free of encumbrance, and the church is in most encouraging circumstances. The number of worshippers has increased and the work of the church activities in the community have grown proportionately.

The first church is still extant, the present edifice being but an addition to the original, which after being enlarged, was remodelled about a decade and a half ago. Of those who worshipped in the first church, but one survives, Mrs. John K. Taylor, who last evening took part in the anniversary services of the church.

Among the pastors who have served the church during its seventy years, were Rev. William Allen, father of Watson, Rev. Mr. Rice, Rev. Edward Merrill, Rev. Mr. Sprague, Rev. Mr. Watworth, Rev. Mr. Veddahl, Rev. Mr. Ridd, Rev. Dr. Paisley. The last pastor was Rev. Jacob Haney, who severed his connection with the church to assume the pastorate of a church in another province.

The anniversary services will be continued this evening when the Epworth League will meet. On Tuesday evening Rev. H. E. Thomas will lecture on "The Making of a Nation."
