CANADA MUST REALIZE ENORMITY OF HER TASK PREMIER BORDEN SAYS

If This is Done, Victory and Honorable Peace
Can be Only Outcome of the War.

Special to The Standard.

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—Sir Robert Borden in opening the Central Canada exhibition made an appeal for the largest agricultural production of which Canada was capable. If the farmers realized the situation they would see that this was the duty that lay before them. The transportation of supplies had been satisfactorily arranged for and this paved the way for Canada to supply the Mother country with necessities. The prospect of a record breaking harvest placed the Dominion in a position where she could supply the allies with food stuffs and other essentials.

"The only thing which remains is that Canadians generally will realize the enormity of the task before them and will realize their duty. If this is done there can be only one conclusion to the war, a victorious and honorable peace," declared the Premier.

Preparation, he added, was an essential to success. The great preparedness of Germany had forced the grudging admiration of its foes. Adequate measures must be taken for the future, and it was necessary that the citizens should be aroused. The agricultural interest of the country must be preserved, and their efforts would tend towards solving the problem in a great measure.

The example of France was held as worthy of emulation. Sir Robert declared that he had witnessed fields being tilled even to the line of trenches by women, old men and children.

"The French people are realizing to the fullest measure the struggle they are engaged in and are making every provision to meet it. This spirit should also be shown Canadians," declared Sir Robert.

In conclusion he declared that with the full realization of the stupendous task, and the determination which is being shown the co-operation of the industries, and particularly of the agricultural bodies there could be only

The floral tributes to her memory included a large wreath of

AUTUMN EXCURSIONS TO MONTREAL

Montreal is always a city of interest, and especially so in early autumn, when its citizens have returned from the summer resorts to their homes, the many stores are crowded with goods, and the places of amusement in full swing.

The annual fall excursion by the Intercolonial Railway will be run this year, Sept. 16, 17 and 18, tickets for the round trip to Montreal and return on these dates will be reduced to $19.45. From Moncton and St. John $15.30, and proportionately low fares will prevail from all points in the Maritime Provinces.

Travelers from the Maritime Provinces have the choice of two excellent trains, the "Ocean Limited" and the "Maritime Express," both noted for the high standard of their sleeping and dining car service. A good piece of advice is to reserve your berth early.

The project to secure new accommodation for the purposes of the Art Club has, for the present, been abandoned and the executive have arranged for the continued use of the old quarters of the club in Peel street for the coming winter and spring.

cream roses from the commissioners of the General Public Hospital, a cross of cream and crimson roses from the graduate nurses, and a large basket of cream and crimson roses from the probationer nurses. There were also many other floral tributes from personal friends.

The funeral of Mrs. Bridget McDermott, took place yesterday morning from her late residence to St. John Baptist church for requiem mass, celebrated by Rev. W. Donohue. Burial was in the new Catholic cemetery. Relatives acted as pallbearers.

Manitoba doing its share in making the problems affecting the progress of Agriculture better understood—An article from the Christian Guardian.

Out in Manitoba conferences for rural ministers have been conducted in the Agricultural College and Rev. George Doxey in the Christian Guardian tells of one of these as follows: The object of this conference, held in the splendid new quarters of the Provincial Agricultural College, Aug. 24, were stated in the programme as follows: "The object of Manitoba Agricultural College in putting on a short course in agriculture and rural sociology is to provide a fuller understanding of the problems affecting the progress of agriculture, and to create a greater interest in the improvement of conditions affecting country life in this province."

The college regards it as an important part of its mission to encourage and promote in every way possible all those forces and influences—economic, educational and social in character—that are calculated to improve conditions of living in the open country that the majority of our population may decide to have their homes there. At the same time it is recognized that no degree of prosperity can be lasting or worth while that does not take into consideration those higher and finer principles relating to the betterment of mankind for which the men of the church are striving from day to day. It is believed that a series of meetings, with opportunities to confer on questions of common interest, will be helpful, and an invitation is, therefore, extended to clergymen of all denominations to meet at the college for one week.

The programme divided itself into two main divisions—the agricultural and the sociological. The first part was directed by the members of the college staff. Principal Black has surrounded himself with a faculty that is not only efficient, but also enthusiastic and deeply interested in the work of the college. The subjects dealt with by the professor were all of vital interest and calculated to bring the minister in touch with the work-a-day problems of his parishioners. A random selection will indicate this: "Heavenly Home and Church Grounds," "Poultry Raising for Profit," "Laws Governing the Plant Kingdom," "Soil Management." The ministers expressed themselves as highly gratified with this section of the conference. They showed this, also their appreciation of the evident desire to help them the better to serve the community, by presenting a beautiful silver tea set to Principal and Mrs. Black. In his reply the principal said that he accepted the gift as an expression of the thanks of the conference to the institution of which he happened to be the head. The sociological side of the conference was no less interesting. The various churches working in the province had been asked to send a representative. Rev. Dr. Shearer spoke on "The Ideal Church" and "The Church Brotherhood." Canon Jeffrey dealt with "Clergymen's Problems in the Country Districts." Dr. T. Albert Moore gave us a strong address dealing with the work of a country minister.

The conference was especially fortunate in having Dr. J. W. Robertson, of the "Commission of Conservation," to address it. Dr. Robertson spoke on "Education as it Affects Rural Communities as the means of removing five evils in the life of the individual—ignorance, helplessness, selfishness, lack of the sense of responsibility, and lack of the sense of proportion—and replacing these by their related virtues. The next address was an account of what the Danes in their People's High Schools are doing to build up technical ability by developing character. The doctor also mentioned the great development of Irish education along the same lines. It was a rare privilege to listen to this eminent Canadian and to catch something of his enthusiasm for education as a means of building up life and character. Another distinguished visitor was Prof. John M. Gillette of the University of North Dakota, whose subject was "Overcoming Rural Isolation." Those who had read his "Constructive Rural Sociology" were prepared for something good and original. They were not disappointed.

Rev. J. S. Woodworth of the Canadian Welfare League; C. K. Newcombe, superintendent of education; Rev. Dr. Wildend of Brandon College, and Rev. W. A. Riddell all contributed valuable and inspiring addresses.

R. C. Henders, president of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association, was able to leave his work and spend some time with us. He spoke on "Rural Co-operation." Mr. Henders is a practical man who knows what he wants and how to get it. He is the "voice" of the organized farmers of Manitoba. He is not crying in the wilderness. The farmers have been led out of the wilderness of non-organization, and they intend to make themselves a power. As Mr. Henders spoke one could help feeling that if class consciousness is at last becoming a fact in rural life it is likely to be very harmful to Canadian national life. "We want all the people that are now on the backs of the farmers to get off." That is not very unreasonable, is it? It is a fine thing to see so great a movement led by so splendid a man as R. C. Henders. The churches had better make haste and get on the same platform as the organized farmers. There is no room for competition. This is the age of co-operation.

Standing away from the conference, one might try to estimate its value. Like all things of the Spirit, this is difficult; but this much can be said: To have clergymen belonging to various churches meet together and discuss common problems is going to produce nothing but good. It is also a matter of congratulation that a provincial institution can gather together representatives of various sections, help them in their endeavors, and further assist them towards the building up of a better, brighter and purer provincial community life.

KING COLE TEA

Superlative Quality

plus the money-back guarantee

WHEN KING COLE TEA first issued its protective guarantee to the purchaser, three years ago, offering to refund the whole of the purchase money for any package of KING COLE returned, there was a very good reason for this radical departure from usual sales methods.

We greatly desired a very general trial of KING COLE TEA. Our faith in its quality was unbounded, for we knew the constant care given to its preparation, but we realized the possible doubt the public might have of a TEA then comparatively new, and so we decided to assume the risk of every trial, and pay back the full purchase price of every package of KING COLE that failed to please. No stronger surty of our good faith could be offered, and we felt confident because of the quality of KING COLE TEA that practically every trial would bring us a permanent customer.

Things have turned out just as we expected. Not one package has been returned. We have never had a request for "Money Back"—we have never heard of a complaint of "King Cole" quality, while "King Cole" sales have been growing steadily larger year by year.

Only exceptional quality could have made such a record, and to-day with more confidence than ever, we invite you to give this tea a test.

The "Money Back" offer is still open; every package is sold on that understanding. What better assurance of Tea value could you have, and what better encouragement to buy your first package of KING COLE TEA?
