NORTHCLIFFE
DENIES STORY

Statement by F. Curtis Morgan that Northcliffe intends to start probe of munitions purchases is untrue.

New York, Nov. 17.—Lord Northcliffe, proprietor of several English newspapers, today denied his representatives here a denial to the statement made last Saturday night in New York by F. Curtis Morgan, who said he was a lieutenant colonel in the British army, that an investigation of war munitions contract in this country, begun by Lord Northcliffe and John Dan-nan Bryce would result in a scandal that "would stir all England and the United States."

Morgan alleged extravagance and corruption in his statement concerning war munitions contracts placed in the United States by the British government.

Lord Northcliffe's denial says:
"I know nothing either of the man or the matter. I have never seen Colonel Morgan, and I have had nothing whatever to do with any such investigation as Col. Morgan alleges I instituted in America."

ANOTHER DRAFT OF WOUNDED SOLDIERS

—A further draft of 800 Canadian non-combatants and men wounded and medically unfit for further service, in charge of Capt. J. D. Evans, of the department of recruiting and organizing, left for Canada this week. There they will be drafted into hospitals and convalescent homes, or discharged with pensions.

During his stay in Canada, Captain Evans will draft a scheme with existing organizations there for the employment of ex-soldiers, with a view to co-ordinating their work with that of the Shorncliffe organization.

TRADE BETWEEN
THE BRITISH WEST
INDIES AND CANADA

Letter of interest to all readers interested in increased trade.

St. John, N. B., November 17, 1915.
To the Editor, St. John Standard, St.
John, N. B.:
Dear Sir,—I read with keen interest your editorial of November 15th regarding trade with the British West Indies and Canada.

In part of your editorial you quoted statistics given by the Mail and Empire of Toronto, which says that the total trade for 1912 of the British West Indies was eighty-five million dollars, as follows:

Imports—Forty-four million.
Exports—Forty-one million.

I regret that the Mail and Empire did not go further and state how much Canada's share of this business was.

Having the following statistics at hand I should be pleased for the people to know them through the medium of your paper.

Our import from the British West Indies and British Guiana in 1912 was about nine millions and our exports were four and a half millions. Our total trade being about fourteen million dollars.

Mr. Griffin's statement is quite true that a reciprocal trade with the British West Indies is one that Canada desires, because they want our products, and we require theirs.

I wonder if Mr. Griffin's opinion now is the same as when I met him in the British West Indies in regard to Trade Commissioner.

You state in conclusion in your declaratory that the manufacturer or merchant needs more detailed information before deciding whether there is any demand in the British West India Islands for the products which he manufactures or distributes, and whether it will pay him to secure a share of the trade.

In arriving at a decision it is necessary to know something about the character of the people, the climate and products of the different colonies, and the class of goods which they import from other countries.

In regard to this paragraph nothing could be added except—how are we going to get this information if our Trade Commissioner is stationary on one island, when there are ten other islands which he has not visited for some years?

Thanking you for your valuable space, I am, yours very truly, A. J. SOLLOW.

BELIEVE HE IS MEMBER OF THE PRINZ EITEL'S CREW.

Baltimore, Nov. 17.—A man believed to have escaped from the interned German sea raider Prinz Eitel Friedrich, at Norfolk, was arrested here last night and is being held for federal officials from that city.

According to the police the man is a

Sporting Gossip

A CHAMPION
POSSIBILITY
IN LONDON

England has gone wild over Les Darcy, the Australian blacksmith's helper, who knocked out Eddie Mc-Goorty in Sydney, and recently beat Jimmy Clabby on points. Darcy is only nineteen years old, and is growing as rapidly as Georges Carpentier did.

The Frenchman outgrew class after class in leaps and bounds. New England sees a chance to coddle this hard-hitting youth, along until he finally wins the world's heavyweight title.

Unspoiled by his great success, unaffected by wide and big popularity, Les Darcy is today the same cheerful and high-spirited boy that he was three years ago when he put on the gloves to enter the ring for the first time in his life. The reason why he is the idol of the fighting fans today is not that he is an Australian but because he is all that the Australian public demands in its representation in the ring.

Grey-eyed, brown-haired, clear-skinned, beautifully built and square chin-ed, Les, with his nineteen years and nine months, not only is a fighter, but he looks one from top to toe. Always in fine physical trim, he is well liked and admired by friends and opponents.

He is a born fighter. On his father's farm in West Maitland he was never without a set of gloves.

Governor Balsear, a railway ganger, was then the sixteen-year-old boy's first opponent. Balsear, who was rather good with his fists and in the prime of life, got a mighty surprise when he was ousted by a boy of such tender years and such slender skill. And it was Balsear who persuaded Les to enter the Maitland amateur tournaments, both of which he won. At the tournament Les met Mick Hawkins, who from that day to this has looked after him with motherly care.

And it was at this tournament that the boy's quick-gaited mind told him that there was money in rapid-thinking brain, fine stamina and two good fists. With the advice of Trainer Hawkins, the crude boy began to shape in the right manner. His really first important encounter took place at Sydney on January 5, 1914, when he knocked out Jack Clarke in nine rounds, so you see in really the short space of eighteen months this Maitland boy has lifted himself from obscurity to a championship through his coolness and confidence.

REGINA IN FAVOR OF
HOCKEY

Regina, which city gained some fame for its amateur hockey world two years ago, when it caught Winnipeg Monarch without their star goal-keeper and captured the Allan Cup, takes violent exception to Alberta's stand that Canadian championship trophy be withdrawn from competition until after the war. At least Harry Scott, a professional hoc-keyist who edits the sport page of The Regina Leader, takes exception, and aims the following volley at the Alberta Amateur Hockey Union. He says:

"Alberta Hockey Association is in favor of withdrawing the Allan Cup from competition until after the war.
What next? In fact, what license has Alberta to dictate about the Allan Cup? They never held it and judging by their decision to do away with senior hockey his coming winter they never will. Simply because Alberta will be without senior hockey they desire to see Saskatchewan and Manitoba drop out of the competition. The officials of the A. H. A. take the view that there should be a cessation of championship events until after the war. That athletes should enlist is quite proper, and in this respect practically every available athletic organization in the Dominion has done its duty. Take for instance the C. H. A. it being represented in the war by over 300 of its members, also the good representation of all Regina clubs. To abandon sport during the war time is unwarranted and should be ignored.
Even in times of war we must provide good healthy recreation for the youth of the community."
