

13th May 1886

Sir:-

It has recently been discovered by the Accountant of this Department that you charged in your Accounts for travelling expenses $100 per diem while you was on leave in Toronto and while at headquarters during the period between the 29th November 1882 and the 20th April 1884, and that through an oversight on the part of the Accountant you were paid at the rates charged by you. Now this has surprised me very greatly, because you must have known that
