

Then she saw some very valuable copies. When the matter materialized I will go through a list of pages out in the town, for we have a large part of H. C. Cameron's library out there!

Harry is getting on splendidly and will be home in another week. He is having a grand time now, though the first three days were pretty bad.
We have had a terrible time this week, for Robert has brought home from a dance on Tuesday night with quite an acute attack of appendicitis. We did not know till yesterday whether she too would have to have an operation; fortunately her pulse temperature have quieted down and for the present at any rate the necessity for an operation is past.
If however the pain returns we will not wait a minute but take her straight to the hospital. She is still in bed, but was up for a little while last night, when you had a dance. Last year I promised her a dance on her birthday this year, if all went well, so invitations were out about ten days ago & I had not the heart to disappoint her! I made her a new evening dress for her birthday & took her on Monday & it has kept me morning to get it all in, besides going to the hospital three times a day! There were about eighty here last night - the children were all the time out of the library, dining room & hall.
I had a glorious time. I am glad to see and
