Ladies' and Children's Underwear

Underwear

Cold weather means that you'll need warm underwear. It may be a little warmer at times, but the warm periods will be short. Better get your underwear needs supplied now. You know that only the best underwear is allowed to enter here. We bring the most of our underwear from the mills, have a reputation for manufacturing the best underwear made in Canada.

Blankets

Another necessity. Cold weather means something more than frost, it means that you should be prepared to keep the cold away from you. A pair of blankets from this stock will go a long way in helping you to do this. Flannellette blankets, at per pair, 75c, $1.00, $1.10 and $1.50. Wool blankets, extra values at per pair, $2.50 and $4.50.

FROM INDIGESTION.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 17. — W. W. Rockhill, who represented the United States in China, arrived yesterday on his way to Washington. He has with him a copy of the protocol between China and the powers, recently signed by the various nations. Affairs in China have resumed their normal state, Rockhill says. He does not anticipate any further outbreak, but there is no telling what will happen in China. The so-called insurrections in Kan Su and Manchuria, he said, were simply local uprisings which had been very much exaggerated. A commission is being organized to conduct commercial negotiations with China. This commission will revise the treaties and arrange for the opening of more ports. Rockhill said he expected to hear shortly of the return of the court to Peking. Reports of famine sent out have been greatly exaggerated. Li Hung Chang is breaking down physically. He suffers from indigestion. Rockhill does not look for a boom when conditions in China are again settled, but says trade will be enormous. News has been received by steamer of further rebellions in China. Many papers print reports that the return to Peking of the court has been postponed for two years.

THE BRIGANDS BIG DEMAND

They Want More Gold than is now in Bulgaria for Miss Stone's Release.

Fear that they might Murder Their Captive After the Ransom has Been Paid.

New York, Oct. 17.—Rev. R. Wardlow Thompson, director of the college and theological institute at Sofia, cables the following from Samarow, Bulgaria, concerning Miss Stone, the kidnapped missionary:

"The headquarters of Miss Stone's captors is a thickly-wooded mountain top, near the boundary line of Turkey and Bulgaria. Miss Stone has only light summer clothing and a colon dress. The brigands refused to allow her to keep her baggage, but let her have a Bible. The leader of the band is the notorious Boucho, from the Bulgarian town of Dubnitz. We sent word to Constantinople pointing out that, being private individuals, we can't prevent the Government from pressing the brigands; also that the ransom is too princely. No such sum was ever before demanded. No rejoinder has yet been received. Usually brigands ask about a thousand pounds, and then agree for half. Twenty-five thousand Turkish pounds means two horse loads of gold, and that is more gold than there is now in Bulgaria. Besides, the brigands demand payment in Turkish gold, for which it would be necessary to send to Constantinople. I should not give the brigands the ransom until Miss Stone is safely delivered to us; they might murder her after the ransom in order to seal her lips forever. We have three theological institute students who were captured in the Stone party. One tells pathetically how he was robbed of money intended to pay for his tuition."

DESPATCHED ANOTHER

Constantinople, Oct. 17.—As no news has been received here from Messrs. Baird and Haskell, the missionaries who have been attempting to get into touch with the brigands who abducted Miss Ellen M. Stone, a third missionary, has been despatched in quest of them and the brigands.

FOUL PLAY FEARED.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The body of a man, identified by articles on the body as that of William A. Bishop, 52 Borden Block, Chicago, Ill., and his home in Waukegan, Ill., was found this morning by Mary Weiss, in a sandy corn field on the Fordham farm, in the town of Greece, near the Stone Road, with his jugular cut from ear to ear. The jugular vein had been opened and the man had bled to death. No knife was found. The wound, it is thought, could not have been inflicted with a razor. The coroner, who had been called, traced the man's trail back 100 yards to a corner of a rail fence in a piece of woods, where was found a large pool of blood. There were evidences along the trail that the man had fallen several times on his hands and knees. In the pockets were found several ladies' long gold chains, a gold watch, a silver watch, a check book on the Merchants Loan and Trust Company. Bishop had drawn checks on October 15 for $25 and on Oct. 16, $25, each in favor of himself. In his wallet was $50 in greenbacks. In his pockets also were several ladies' gold cuff buttons, marked "B." There is every indication that Bishop was murdered, but by what means is not yet known, as the weapon inflicting the wound has not yet been found.

Theatrical

The Bostonians have come and conquered. Their presentation of the opera Robin Hood last evening, was magnificent and the verdict of a crowded house of critical Chathamites was unanimously and enthusiastically eulogistic.

Notwithstanding the economical character of the stage accommodation and the usual accompaniments of cramping, the captivating DeKoven creation was well staged in its entirety. The music of Robin Hood is inspiring, though difficult in the main, while the book is bright and refreshing.

The company is an excellent one through, while the leading parts are in exceptionally strong hands. The choruses were splendid and the solo parts were gems, in which Albert Parr, tenor, who, by-the-way, has many relatives living in this city, in the title role; Miss Miller, soprano, in the difficult music which falls to the lot of Maid Marion; Miss Rafter, contralto, in her most important solo, "O Promise Me," were repeatedly encored. The role of Will Scarlett was entrusted to an understudy, Allen C. Hinchley, basso, and it was splendidly sung, the Armorer's Song, in the third act, being twice repeated upon hearty recalls. Mr. Barnabee, despite his many years, retains all of his capability as a fun maker, and in the lighter vein was given admirable support by Mr. Frothingham, as the Friar. Miss Bartlett, though suffering from a bad cold, made much of the small part of Dame Burdon, but Miss Lutz was somewhat unhappily cast as Annabel.

The large audience—the biggest of the season—attested the popularity of good opera in the Maple City, and gave emphatic endorsement to the ambitions of the management to secure the best. The company were delighted with the patronage extended and called attention to the fact that it more than doubles that of St. Thomas, materially vanquished that of Hamilton and came close to the figures of London.

In alluding to this excellent production, The Planet feels that much credit is due Mr. Cairns for the booking. It is often hard work to land these large companies, but the results have done ample justice to his commendable enterprise. And to Mr. Brisco, the energetic and up-to-date manager, belongs much praise. His vigorous hustling qualities, earnest work and thorough advertising have made themselves felt and are appreciated by patrons. Mr. Brisco has earned for himself, in the short time in which he has been at the helm, the hearty confidence of all Maple City theatregoers. And confidence begets support—which he well deserves.

ALIVE MELODRAMA.

A great treat in melodrama was provided at the Grand last night in "The Span of Life," which has been here before, but still retains its effective force as a dramatic trump card. There was a large audience, and plenty of enthusiasm for the heroine and delectation for the hardened villain of the piece. From the opening of the story this bold, bad person is out for coin, which demands the murder of his stepmother, and his marriage. But the latter scheme is foiled by the spirited independence of the young lady in making her own choice. Years elapse and the villain seeks possession of a gold and diamond mine, which the hero holds the key of, but in this pursuit also his feeble plans are brought to naught. Two of the scenes are more than ordinarily exciting, one which shows a light-house from wreck and angry seas, and the other where the human bridge spans a yawning gulf, and over which the heroine passes in safety from the pursuit of Arabs. The bridge is formed by the famous Danzetta Brothers (three), who also give clever acrobatic performances, which received great applause. "The Span of Life" is well put on the stage and the scenery is so good and the action so spirited that it is hardly any wonder the popularity of the play continues year after year unabated.—London Free Press.

WALKER WHITESIDE. As Prince Victor, in the elaborate production of "Heart and Sword," to be made by Shipman Brothers this season, is one of the most interesting studies of the day. Though a very young man, he has steadily mounted the theatrical ladder of fame. In Shakespearean roles he first gained fame. Since going into the romantic play, such as "Heart and Sword," he has not lost an iota of that hard earned glory, rather he has added to his laurels, "Heart and Sword," is a really delightful romantic comedy, one which all thorough theatre-goers will appreciate particularly as it is interpreted by a company of splendid worth; the stage settings and the costume effects are perfect and altogether a performance of magnificent proportions is given.—London Free Press. This production will be at the Grand on Friday, Oct. 25.

Smart Reefers for Boys

Right this way, ladies and gentlemen, for the garments that are going to see most life this winter. What other dud can ever hold as much fun as a boy's winter coat?

Here is the slim reefer that will skate in circles like a bird, and the chubby reefer that will lead in snowball fights, and the gallant little reefer that will run to stop a runaway horse or set any wrong thing right without fear. Only they can do nothing without the BOY.

But everyone of them is a staunch young coat—warm and woolen and fit to brave the weather in. Most—ly big storm collars.

FOR TRUANCY

Officer Henry Darr Prescribes the "Spanking" Treatment in Preference to the Cells.

"I think it far from right," said Police Officer Henry Darr this morning, to The Planet, "that boys should be put in jail for playing truant from school, because, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, it will not be the last appearance at the police court. When a boy goes to jail for truancy or petty theft, he gets really scared and will likely go back to school. He will be shamed by his former playmates, and made a jest of by the rest of the children as a jail bird."

"A boy has feelings as well as any other person and he won't stand the shame. He will probably run away from home; going from bad to worse. Now, if that boy had been treated rightly—spanked good and hard instead of being sent to jail for a day or so, he would have turned out a great deal better."

FATAL LEAP

Young Maple City Lad Jumped from a Pile of Lumber and met Death.

A very bad accident occurred in the city about seven o'clock last evening, as a result of which, David Boyes, the six year old son of Mr. Knott, of the Wm. Gray & Sons Co., lost his life. The little fellow was playing on an eight foot pile of lumber near Park's foundry, with his brother and some more little boys. He was standing on the top of the pile when all the rest had gone down, when his brother asked him if he would help him to get down, but David answered, "No, I can jump."

He did so and fell on his head, receiving some internal injuries. He was removed to his home and Dr. Backus was summoned, but could do nothing to relieve the little fellow's sufferings. He died at 10 o'clock.

David was a particularly bright, active little fellow, and had just recovered from a month's illness. His death has caused a gloom to spread over the entire community. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at one o'clock, from the home of his parents, Charteris street, in the Maple Leaf Cemetery.
