More About Laundries More About Laundries

OME time ago reference was made in this department to the estabindian department to the estabindian department of the conindian department of the more conindian department of the first conindian department department meeting of the Buttermakers' Association of that state, Prof. E. H.
Farrington reported on the operation of these during the past year. He said in part!

in part:
"At these two creamery laundries now in operation in the state, it has been found that the steam and the water connections are about the only water connections are about the only of the laundry and the laundry or the laund water connections are about the only thing the creamery and the laundry have in common. In each case-the laundry work has so rapidly increased that it has been found necessary to employ an entirely separate found the creameries a separate found of the creameries a separate some of managers for the laundry and some of on because some of the creamery parsons thought that the large enterprise yans bound to be a failure and they did not want the creamery affairs mixed rons thought that the new enterprise parbound to be a failure and they did not want the creamery affairs mixed py with a loning venture. This anticipated disaster has not yet materials sed as the laundries in both cases are in successful operation, and it is probable to the sed of the laundries in both cases are in successful operation, and it is probable to the sed of the laundries of the laundries will be given entire charge of both the creamery and the laundry at the next annual meeting of the patrons.

"The experience of these two laundries during the past year shown that this enterprise can be successfully managed in connection with a successfully managed in connection with the sed of the farmers whose milk and cream are made into butter, and cheese. The farmer makes regular trips to the farmers whose milk and cream are made into butter, and cheese. The farmer makes regular trips to the farmers was regular trips to the farmers makes regular trips to the farmers makes.
