

An Unwelcome Visitor.

Office boy (to editor): "Dare's a two-hundred-an'-fifty pound gent outside, sir, wid red spots on his eyes, wot wants ter see de editor." Editor: "I'm no coward, James, show him right in." Office boy: "He says he want's ter kerlect a bill." Editor (aghast): "Great heavens, James, tell him I've gone to the poor-house to visit my dear old father."

Let us have faith that right makes might, and dare to do our duty, for to help is to do the work of the world.

The best recipe for going through life in a commendable way is to feel that everybody, no matter how rich or how poor, needs all the kindness they can get from others in the world.

Judge no one by his relations, whatever criticisms you pass upon his companions. Relations, like features, are thrust upon us; companions, like clothes, are more or less our own selection.

Consider well the end in everything you do—the end!—not the immediate results—the momentary gratification—the apparent gain or advantage of the time—but the end of all your course of conduct.

If the question were asked, even in a hunting country, where they are learned on one theme, how did the custom of wearing scarlet coats when fox-hunting originate, there are many who would be puzzled to answer. This is what they ought to say. In 1188 Henry II. issued a royal mandate, proclaiming fox-hunting a sport for kings, and enjoining all who took part therein to wear the royal livery. Probably the oldest fashion on record.

Please find enclosed $1 as a renewal of my subscription to the FARMER'S ADVOCATE. I think it is the best paper of the kind published, not to say anything of the liberality of its proprietor. SAMUEL KYLE, Colquhoun P. O.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

THE FARMER'S ADVOCATE refuses hundreds of dollars offered for advertisements suspected of being of a swindling character. Nevertheless, we cannot undertake to relieve our readers from the need of exercising common prudence on their own behalf. They must judge for themselves whether the goods advertised can, in the nature of things, be furnished for the price asked. They will find it a good rule to be careful about extraordinary bargains, and they can always find safety in doubtful cases by paying for goods only upon their delivery.
