

NEWS FROM IRELAND.

Dublin. On February 27th his Grace the Most Rev. Dr. Ryan, Archbishop of Philadelphia, arrived in Dublin from Rome on his way to his diocese in America. It is the intention of his Grace to delay his departure for the West for a short time, during which he will be the guest of the Very Rev. Canon O'Hanlon, the esteemed pastor of Lishtown. Despite the fatigues attendant on his journey to Rome and the Jubilee celebration in the Eternal City, the Archbishop is in vigorous health.

Wexford. In spite of Balfour's persecution the National Press prospers. The Wexford People, of March 17th, appears in an enlarged and improved form—new shape, new type, new machinery and all subsequent issues will be vastly enlarged and greatly improved.

Carlow. The Carlow Assizes were opened on February 28th, by Mr. Justice O'Brien, who, in addressing the Grand Jury, said the criminal business to go before them was in nature and extent unimportant. From an examination of the returns he formed the opinion that there was an entire absence of serious crime in the county, and from the information of persons possessing special knowledge, from any form of agrarian disturbance. William Cranly and James Fitzpatrick, charged with the murder of Patrick Meany, seven years ago, were found guilty of manslaughter, and sentenced, the former to penal servitude for life, and the latter to fifteen years' penal servitude.

Kilkenny. We deeply regret to have to record the death of the Rev. James Cosgrave, of the diocese of Ossory, who died on February 26th, at Bode, near Kilkenny. After a distinguished career in St. Kieran's College, Kilkenny, Father Cosgrave spent a short time in Borris in Ossory, and was then appointed to Agha-ree, the chief seat of his labors. Father Cosgrave was subsequently selected to preside over the new college school at Kilmacow, where his efforts were attended with great success.

King's County. At Tullamore, on February 27th, Chief Justice Morris opened the Commission of Assizes for King's County in the Crown Court. The Grand Jury having Crown Court. The Chief Justice said he was sorry to have to inform them that the calendar was very tight, there being only bills in three cases of a comparatively unimportant nature to be submitted for their consideration.

Westmeath. On Feb. 27th, Mr. Justice Harrison opened the Commission for the county Westmeath in the Crown Court, Mullingar. Addressing the Grand Jury, he said that only four trivial cases would be presented to them the criminal side.

Cork. Major Roberts, Governor of Cork city jail, has been selected by the Lord Lieutenant to institute legal proceedings against Canon O'Mahoney, in connection with the recent prison scandals. We understand this is the result of a correspondence between Canon O'Mahoney and the Prisons Board. The rev. gentleman will, in his defence, be able to bring forward evidence which would not be admissible in criminal proceedings.

At a meeting of the Youghal National League, on Sunday, February 20th, Canon Keller presiding, resolutions were passed sympathizing with Father Kennedy, Meelin, who was formerly located in that town, and also with the Posenby tenants who were evicted the previous week. Canon Keller, in supporting the resolutions said that when the tenants on the estate adopted the "Plan of Campaign" they did so with the full knowledge of all the risks and trouble they would have to encounter. Their complete victory was only a question of time.

The Rev. Canon Keller, P.P., Youghal, in a letter written to the Mayor of Cork, congratulating him on his release, concludes as follows:—"When shall we see the end of this odious regime? It amazes me how long the Clergy of Cork are silent over the doings of the present Administration. Have they no interest in the people among whom and by whom they could contribute to the peace and commerce of the country by an expression regarding the imprisonment of men like yourself?"

Mr. Parnell paid a warm compliment to Mr. Thomas Condon, M.P., lately, on his successful management of the tenants' struggle on the Kingsong estate.

Kerry. On March 1st, Mr. Percy Howard Snelling, a delegate from the Anti Coercion and Home Rule Association, London, visited Ennis, and next day was the recipient of attention from the authorities, who watched his movements closely. When he was about to drive to the country the police seized the horse's bridle and requested the owner, Mr. Ahern, to allow them to get up on the car beside Mr. Snelling, which proposal was peremptorily refused by both.

There was a meeting of the tenants of the Ballylone property, at Crusheen, on March 1st, the Rev. T. Hogan, P.P., in the chair. The meeting was convened to consider what action should be taken by the tenants, in view of evictions that are likely to take place as a consequence of the opposition to their application for a settlement on the terms of the year's rent and a clear receipt up to last November. Those who know the quality of the land and the poverty of the tenants consider that the terms proposed by them are more than fair towards the landlords, and such as many of them will find it difficult to fulfil. The tenants have removed their stock, as they are likely to have troublesome times here in the near future.

Limerick. On February 25th a serious conflict between the police and people took place in the little village of Tuillison, on the borders of Limerick. A "spate" was being held, and a large force of police was in the town. A quarrel took place among some gamblers, and the police rushed amongst the disputants. Whether the police attacked the people is not known, but anyhow a desperate struggle took place. The police were hemmed in, and had to draw their swords to get away. Ultimately everything quieted down, many of the people were very much injured, and the police suffered from severe wounds. No arrests have been made.

Waterford. At a meeting attended by all the prominent priests and citizens of Waterford, on February 29th, it was unanimously resolved to re-establish a branch of the Irish National League in the city. The Mayor, who presided, stated in which the step was taken with all cognizance and consent of the Most Rev. Dr. Power, Bishop of Waterford.

Antrim. On Saturday evening, February 25th, a further indication of Belfast Orange intolerance was witnessed towards the Passionist Fathers,—on the part of a number of roughs who had assembled in Mayo street, which communicates with the Crumlin-road through Cambria street. As Brother Edward, a member of the Ardoyne Community, was passing along, on his way to St. Peter's Presbytery, he was assailed by a number of rowdies, and was subjected to the grossest insult. Mud was pelled at him for a considerable distance along the thoroughfare, while, at the same time, he was followed by a howling mob cursing the Pope and indulging in various offensive epithets. Brother Edward, after some difficulty, succeeded in getting into more friendly territory. As usual, not a policeman was to be observed in the street, and the rowdies had full opportunity of exercising their spleen without hindrance.

Fermanagh. Major D'Arcy, of Kiah, was apparently intended by nature for a Balfourian strident magistrate, though strange to say he is not one. Mr. William Redmond, M.P., has given notice of a question in the House of Commons which is intended to throw some light on the peculiar virtues of that gentleman. It appears that Major D'Arcy recently went to Irvestown Petty Sessions, and made application to his brother magistrates that a recommendation should be sent to the Lord Lieutenant to suppress the National League in the district, and in finding that his brother magistrates were unwilling to entertain his suggestion, because of the general peaceableness of the locality, he left the court exclaiming, "Well, at any rate, if any of these gentlemen are brought before me, I will know how to deal with them even if there was never a Coercion Act!" Mr. Redmond will ask whether the Lord Chancellor has had his attention drawn to this extraordinary language.

The perpetrators of the outrage on the Protestant parish churches of Maleek and Mullaghduh have not yet been covered. At a meeting of the Catholic inhabitants of the district, presided over by Very Rev. Canon McKenna, P.P., resolutions were passed strongly condemning the outrages. A memorial, which has received the signature of two hundred prominent Catholics of the district, has been drawn up calling on the Lord Lieutenant to offer a reward for the discovery of the guilty parties.

Benevolence. The amount of the bill for Father McFadden's trial was mentioned in Parliament the other night. It will come to a good deal over a thousand pounds. The military expenses alone were £658, and the constabulary £144. This, of course, does not include the tax levied on the people of the district by the requisitioning of carts and horses to provide transport for the expedition sent to overawe Father McFadden's people; it is simply what British taxpayers will eventually have to contribute towards the expenses. The money cost of draughting Ireland is not the most formidable part of the business, but it may serve to touch a good many English voters in the only point where they are at all sensitive.

Galway. On February 25, a fresh batch of "eviction made easy" notices from the Clearances rent office, was posted on the courthouse at Woodfort, by the bailiff Whelan, who drove out from Portumna, accompanied by a police escort. These notices are for the tenants of Derrybrian, a wide mountain district which lies about half-way between Woodfort and Gort, and about nine miles from either town. The ejectments were taken out at the December Sessions. The land is wretched-looking and the people miserably poor.

Mayo. On March 2nd, a large force of constabulary, under the command of Mr. Milling, County Inspector, and Mr. McLevitt, District Inspector, commenced an eviction campaign on the estate of Mr. Charles Lionel Fitzgerald, of Tulla Park, over which there is a receiver, and evicted four families who were recently reinstated in their holdings as caretakers. There was no excitement. We read in the Connaught Telegraph that, at the Castlebar Petty Sessions, a few days ago, there was a long list of cases set down for hearing against unfortunate tenants in which "decrees for possession" were obtained. There were nearly thirty tenants in all, and the lands are situated in the neighborhood of Turlough and Loughkeeran. The landlords are Messrs. C. L. Fitzgerald, George A. Moore, Montague, Browne, and Blake Knox. The Telegraph singles out for special mention Mr. Campbell's Municipal Franchise Bill to come on first thing to-day and to have been carried, as had it come on, it is all probability would have been carried; and I had intended to devote the remainder of my letter to an account of this important Irish measure and the debate thereupon; but, alas for Tuesday night, during the discussion of the Rules of the Procedure, a debate on a motion for a Scotch committee to deal with Scotch legislation which developed into a remarkable Scotch Home Rule debate. Thus the Rules of Procedure and the Bill, there suddenly sprang up on Tuesday night, during the discussion of the Rules of the Procedure, a debate on a motion for a Scotch committee to deal with Scotch legislation which developed into a remarkable Scotch Home Rule debate. Food for Consumptives. Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is a most marvelous food and medicine. It heals the irritation of the throat and lungs, and gives flesh and strength quicker than any other remedy known. It is very palatable, having none of the disagreeable taste of the crude oil. Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

FROM THE IRISH BENCHES.

United Ireland. House of Commons, Wednesday. It is quite amusing to note the effect upon the enemy of the unceasing smoothness with which the Parliamentary machine is running these days. Editors and News Rules are through as if they were oiled, and when an Irish member gets up it is not to obstruct them but to help them along still faster. Indeed, one of the funniest little scenes noted by cross-bench observers for some time was Mr. Parnell the other afternoon coming to the relief of Mr. Smith, who, rebuking the Government, certain members of the front Opposition bent their backs in moving amendments, and delaying the progress of the New Rules. The Leader of the House, says the one-time arch-Obstructionist, has been very fair on the whole in accepting modifications and honorable and righteous members ought to drop their private feuds, and let him finish the Rules as quickly as possible. Mr. Smith blushed and looked uneasy. Mr. Bryce, the rebuked one, withdrew his amendment, and Lord Randolph Churchill grinned as if he saw cards up to the body's sleeves. The Tories square below the only serious jolt to the Government engine since the Address was disposed of; but in that, with its two field nights and its big division, the Irish members took no part, except voting in the division. On Monday the House was at the Army Estimates, and the hapless of happy families, had it all to themselves as completely as if the Home Rule Bill had been passed twelve months ago, and the wicked Parnellites had ceased from troubling, because they were busy about their own concerns over at College-green.

The House, a large section of it at any rate, does not know what to make of all this. The sensation is novel and rather queer. It is as if the occupant of a spring-riding emigrant wagon, labouring along a rough and perilous mountain road, were to suddenly feel the reins change to that of a more capricious driver. Have they fallen asleep and it is only a dream? A few of the shallower and less experienced sort exult with the Times that obstruction has broken down, and that Government have got Parliament under the strong hand at last, as they have Ireland. But these are a very risky ground for holding. The calm is a trap, and it is only a dream?
