AND STILL THE NOTES COME

U.S. Government Inquires Into Sinking of Arabia, Columbia and Lanao.

By Courier Leased Wire. Berlin, Nov. 21.—Via London, Nov. 22.—Charge d'Affaires Grew at the United States embassy, called at the foreign office this evening and presented the American Government's inquiry regarding the torpedoing of the steamers Arabia, Columbia and Lanao and two other steamers having Americans on board, which are alleged to have been sunk without warning.

The foreign office will refer the cases to the admiralty for a report, which is considered necessary as the details of the sinking of the vessels important respects from those advanced in the American representations. This is particularly true in the case of the Columbia, which, in the absence of warning, was sunk without warning was, according to the Wireless Press reported from Spain, as being laden with a mixed cargo of contraband and given a long period of grace to permit the rough sea to subside before she was torpedoed.

Music and Drama

September Morn has been musicalized. It was bound to occur at some time, and the transplanting of Paul Chabon's painting into the form of musical comedy has happened. Arthur Gillespie Jr., staged it, Virgil Bennett taught it, and the arch-conspirator is William Moore, the original joy germ, who is the star of the big musical comedy, along with Miss Ruth Williams, Maud K. Williams, Valere True, Leslie Jones, J. J. Patton, James Baber and others.

One may imagine every musical play they have ever seen—then combine the lot and let it simmer down until it condenses, leaving "September Morn" a genuine delight with its happy players and Tango Dancers. "September Morn" carries the audience upon a tour through funland with a dash and whirl of real pleasure.

"September Morn" comes to the Grand Opera House for a return engagement.

"Charley's Aunt." That the tastes of the large army of amusement seekers in America are leaning more and more toward plays of a farcical nature is the belief of nearly every firm of theatrical producers. The public want to be amused rather than instructed, is the way they figure the situation, and the present season, they are taking the hits of the New York stage during the past season. Ninety per cent of them were musical farces, comedy dramas, straight farces or musical plays, all constructed with one idea to create laughter.

"If you have a play that has good comedy lines and situations," let us say to would-be authors, "let us see if it has speed and action—if it is clean, in short, if it has a punch to it, we will produce it for you." At the Grand Opera House.

Fire On Dock. Toronto, Nov. 21.—Fire, from an unknown cause, which started about midnight on a small dock at the foot of Spadina avenue was not under control at nine o'clock this morning. The dock itself was badly damaged, fourteen freight cars were badly damaged and several boat houses were destroyed. The loss is over thirty five thousand dollars.

The Detroit-Canadian division of the Pere Marquette Railway has been awarded the pennant in this year's maintenance competition among several divisions of the road. Only two and one-half per cent separated the high and low marks.

of War to the B

London, Nov. 21.—The morning papers attach the greatest importance to the program just announced of addressing the various cities in Great Britain by leading members of cabinet. The following schedule has already been arranged: Lord Robert Cecil, minister of war trade at Bristol; H. J. Tennant, secretary for Ireland, at Edinburgh; The Marquess of Blandford, chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, at Exeter; Lord Curzon, Lord P. Curzon, at Liverpool; H. L. Snelgrove, secretary of state for India, at New Castle; H. Asquith, premier, at Northampton.

It is stated that the address intended to gain the support of the war and thus to the anti-war propaganda in a trial centre. It is believed Premier Asquith, Lloyd-George, Bonar Law and Reginald D. Edwards will participate in a joint meeting of the Unionist and Liberal warring parties along the same line that probably both parties will official action in support of the policy.

The newspapers note that there has been some criticism in the House of Commons recently on the part of the government has been active in the face of the agitation in South Wales industrial centres. The criticism urged that the administration should take the greatest care to the resolution of the British by exposing the perils of a pro and inconclusive peace.

"An insidious enemy is a field busily spreading his poison. Ministers can make no greater mistake than by taking popular opinion too much for granted. Hoax stories are being made and the masses without grumbling too often be reminded of the sacredness of the cause."
