Many buildings are destitute of ladders, more especial ly for the roof, and if a fire were to originate there, it is difficult to tell what progress it would make before a ladder could be borrowed. Our town having received no late visitation from the fire fiend, rests secure in that fact and will doubtless only awaken to its danger when a "20th June" calamity may happen. Since my last communication, elec tion matters have assumed no new aspect. The Candidates are all busy aking hands with the electors, and

The matter of next importance to ur people generally is the extension of the highway from the station thro he fields in rear of the town, to come out at the crossing near the Methodist Church.
