Special to Evening Telegram.
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.
The revolutionary Governor of Kwang Tung Province sent a cablegram to-day to the Chinese Six companies here stating that he intended to take command of one army division about to proceed against Peking. The reason of the message, he said, was to notify the six companies to send their contributions to the Two million dollar loan they have undertaken to raise for the revolutionary treasury at Canton. The first instalment of $25,000 was sent to Canton from here on Saturday.

The Recalled Cruisers

Special to Evening Telegram.
PORTSMOUTH, Dec. 11.
The German cruiser Berlin, whose appearance at Agadir, Morocco, led to the talk of war between Britain and Germany, to-day sought the hospitality of this port, short of coal. She proceeds home to-morrow having been recalled from Agadir together with the gunboat Eber, in consequence of the settlement of the Moroccan question by the recent signature of the agreement between France and Germany.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mr. Joseph Barrett, at one time a member of the police force, but who has been working at Montreal for a number of years, returned by Saturday night's train on a visit to friends.

The S. S. Adventure arrived this a.m. with a cargo of coal to R. Rutherford & Co. Messrs. R. D. McRae & Sons have two schooner loads here, now, so we have a fairly good supply.

Mr. Ernest Walsh, of this town, formerly of the Bank of Nova Scotia, and Miss Stella Spence, daughter of Mr. Kenneth Spence, formerly conductor on the local train, were married at Montreal at 7 o'clock this morning and left by the 8 a.m. train for Boston on the honeymoon trip. We wish these two young Harbor Gracians very much happiness.

The water is again on in full force at the tank near Noad Street. The residents say the item in the Telegram had the desired effect.

Mr. Robert Payne returned from Montreal via Halifax on Thursday night. While at Halifax he visited his brother Henry, who with his family has resided there for a number of years.

W. H. and Mrs. Thompson are to be congratulated on the success of their son, Master Ian M., who is attending school at Scotland. Our young friend is leading his class, his marks averaging 83 out of a possible 100. All his friends will be pleased to hear this and to wish him further success.

Tapoca Jelly.—Wash the tapoca and soak it for two hours in cold water, in which summer it with a slice of lemon until thoroughly dissolved, then sweeten to taste. Milk may be added.

Arrowroot.—If the best arrowroot, it is very nourishing. Mix a dessert-spoonful of arrowroot with a little cold milk, then have ready a pint of boiling milk and pour it over; keep stirring it the whole time, then sweeten to taste.

Tapoca Drink.—Choose the largest and best tapoca. Wash it, then put it to soak for five or six hours, then simmer it in the same until it becomes quite clear, then flavor with lemon juice and sugar. A little of the peel may be boiled in the tapoca.

Macaroons.—Blanche and beat fine in a mortar one pound of sweet almonds, put to them a pound of sugar and a little rose water to keep them from oiling. Beat the whites of seven eggs to a snow-like froth; mix all together well, drop them upon wafer paper, dust a little sugar over each and put them into a moderate oven. Keep in the boxes.

Broiled Oysters in Shells.—Well wash the oysters in their shells without opening them; set them upon a hot stove, and as soon as the shells open pop in a lump of butter, well spiced. Serve at once upon the shell with cayenne and lemon juice.

Brigtn. Galatea

Arrives After a Stormy Trip of 53 Days From Oporto.

The brigtn. Galatea, Capt. Parsons, arrived here at 8 o'clock last night to James Baird, Ltd., after a very stormy voyage of 53 days from Oporto.

Interviewed by a Telegram representative on arrival, Capt. Parsons said that he had made 150 voyages across the Atlantic but that for continuous and excessively stormy weather he had never had such an experience as this before. The day after the ship left Oporto the furies of old Boreas were first noted when a hurricane out of the west sprang up with a mountainous sea and this continued for several days when the wind suddenly chopped off from the N. W. and again blew with hurricane force and with a sea which literally ran mountains high, and which lasted all through the voyage, with the exception of the last few days when moderate weather was met and the vessel made in at Cape Ballard, on the Southern Shore. About the middle of November the weather was the most stormy of the whole voyage and time and again in labouring in the trough of the sea but for her well known solidity the vessel might have foundered. During this period the vessel only made 150 miles in 14 days, and was almost continually sea swept. Combers coming on board beat away portions of the bulwarks on both sides and Capt. Parsons said that he was safe in averring that the ship was laying to under small canvas for half the voyage. One terrific sea boarded the ship, tore the galley from the deck ring bolts, threw it about the deck and wrecked it badly; it was later lashed down after great difficulty, and during the interval captain and crew had to do without any kind of hot food or drinks. During the progress of this weather one of the seamen named John Kehoe, of St. John's, was hit with a sea which came on board and thrown with great force in between the pumps; one of the pump bolts went into his leg below the knee and inflicted an ugly wound which Captain Parsons bound up; the man was disabled for 10 days. Another big sea hit the new mainmast as it belted out with the wind and split it up from the boom to the gaff, repairs were effected to it later. Other sails and running gear were also damaged. Both Capt. and crew were pretty well worn out after such a long and arduous voyage and were greatly relieved when the ship cast anchor in the stream last night.

Berlin Stirred Over Slave Story.

A sensation has been caused in Berlin by the publication of a book entitled "Little White Slaves," written by a former female police assistant, Sister Henrietta Arendt, in which the writer alleges that every year hundreds of German children are sold into slavery.

Sister Arendt bases her assertion on her professional experiences, and declares that the authorities, as well as the private children protection societies, either intentionally or unintentionally disregard a state of things of which they cannot possibly be ignorant. She directs her chief accusations against the adoption homes and private maternity hospitals, and declares that every year these concerns, for a stipulated fee, get rid of large numbers of unhappy little nines, who even before their birth have become noxious to their parents.

The book gives one definite instance after another of cases of which the writer has personal knowledge. One of these adoption homes, in reply to a "catch" letter of enquiry, stated that it was able to send from Germany to France, Belgium, Holland or Switzerland three thousand "discreet" children monthly. This statement, says the writer of the book, is probably exaggerated for the sake of advertisement, but in any case it is an admission that the concern in question is prepared to negotiate the procuring of children.

A female "employment agent" in Berlin, says the writer, told her in the presence of witnesses that she sent children abroad at prices ranging from £15 to £500; a particularly large number going to Russia. Neither the police, the municipal guardians nor the children rescue societies ever created any trouble. Only a few weeks ago a child had been sent to a Russian "Baron" for £500, but in this case the child came of good stock, from aristocratic parents, and was well worth the price paid for it. The average buying price for a child of working-class parents in Berlin is said to be £15, while for children of better class people more money is paid, ranging up to £250 and £500 for children of noble birth.

The publication of the book has created so great a scandal that the police authorities have been obliged by the pressure of public opinion to open a thorough investigation into the alleged trading in children, and are making exhaustive enquiries into each single case mentioned in Sister Arendt's book.
