The Putter Day.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"I've had the loveliest day, today," said my neighbor. "What have you been doing?" "Nothing and everything. It's been a putter day." "What a putter day?" "A day when I do all the little putter jobs that I've been meaning to get at for months and months, and always putting off until 'some day.' I managed to get most of my routine work out of the way so that I had the day free, and I got up early and began to putter right after breakfast and putter steadily all day.

"What did I do? Well, in the first place I went up in the attic and sorted out the pieces in my piece box, rearranged them so that I could find them, and put aside a big batch for Aunt May to use in her patchwork.

Gathering The Flower Seeds.

"Then I went outdoors and gathered my flower seeds and put some in the box in the attic window to dry, and some in envelopes to send away.

"Then—let me see—oh, yes, the next thing I did was to make out a fresh telephone card. You know you need one every once in a while; your old one gets clogged with names you don't use and muddled up with changed numbers, and scribbled over with casual numbers that the family will persist in jotting down on the edges.

"Next I reorganized my bookcases. With a big family and a big family's friends using the books, and with new books being added, the cases will get out of order. You simply have to take

The Archbishop at Trepassey.

Trepassey Parish was on fête from the night of the 7th to the evening of the 10th October. His Grace the Archbishop, Fathers McDermott and McGrath arrived at one a.m. and were greeted enthusiastically by the people, who were hauled to the Presbytery amidst cheers and guns. The celebrations began in Portugal Cove where there were illuminations and bon fires which were continued at Biscay Bay. From the Trepassey Station to the Presbytery the road was lined with strings of flags. All sections of the Harbour were represented by beautifully designed arches adorned with suitable mottoes. The School, Church and Convent grounds were a forest of flags. The facade of the church formed a triple arch on the top of which surmounted by flags was the inscription: "Long Live Archbishop Roche." In the centre a large transparency of the Archiepiscopal Insignia—the Cross, the Crosier and the Mitre, on the right his coat of arms, and on the left his Cathedral; this with the centre transparency was the work of one of the pupils of the Superior School, who took the prize for drawing this year in the Preliminary Grade. His Grace greatly admired it.

Friday night the Archbishop in the presence of an immense congregation from all parts of the parish, blessed the Statue of the Bleeding Heart of Jesus and erected the Stations of the Cross donated by members of the Parish, after which he spoke in the most impressive manner of the Passion of Our Lord and urged the people to practice the "Way of the Cross."

Saturday His Grace celebrated Mass in the Church, assisted by the Pastor, Father Renout, after which he proceeded to the Convent where he preached to the religious life Miss Lee. The young lady assumed the name of St. Teresa. His Grace spoke most earnestly of the duties of the religious life and exhorted the young novice to live up to her high ideals. After the reception His Grace and visiting priests were entertained at luncheon by the good Sisters.

An Operetta was also performed in his honor by the school children which was beautifully rendered and reflected great credit on the Nuns. Miss Nettie Murphy read the address. A remarkable feature of the performance was the baby drill and song by little tots of four years, and dancing by the younger children. His Grace expressed his great pleasure by showering economies on all the performers in his reply to the address. Though all were good we must make special mention of Miss Nettie Murphy and Miss Alice Ryan.

Saturday night about 700 people, men, women and children, notwithstanding the unpropitious weather, gathered in the Presbytery grounds and formed a torch light procession. His Grace, Father Renout and visiting priests having entered carriages, willing hands hauled them through the settlement preceded by the parish band and the officers of the T. A. Society walking on either side as a guard of honour; Presbytery, Church, School, Convent, Hall and all houses were artistically illuminated. From the time he left the Presbytery until his return there was unceasing cheering and volleys of musketry.

Sunday at 10.30 the Archbishop went from the sacristy in procession to the church under an arch of flags held by 226 children, candidates for Confirmation. At the church door he was met by the Parish Priest in surplice and cope who with the usual ceremonies conducted him to the throne, whilst the choir sang the "Ecce Sacerdos." A Missa Cantata was then sung by Father McGrath. After Mass His Grace unveiled three beautiful stained glass windows erected by the people to the memory of the late Dean Born. The church being dedicated to Our Holy Redeemer, the windows are representations of the Passion, in the centre the Crucifixion and on either side the Scourging at the Pillar and the Agony in the Garden.

The address from the people was then read by Magistrate Givonette. In replying to the address His Grace alluded in the most touching terms to the late Dean Born, saying that he needed no memorial as his memory still lives in the hearts of the people, as shown by the holiness of their lives and their magnificent faith, but that the windows would remind them every time they entered to say a prayer for his gentle soul.

The Sacrament of Confirmation was then conferred on 226 children and His Grace gave them instructions suitable for the occasion.

After dinner the people again assembled in the Presbytery grounds headed by the parish band and a procession of 226 children bearing flags, hauled His Grace and clergy to the station where he again thanked the people for their warm-hearted and magnificent reception and left amidst cheers, volleys of guns, for Renewes.

ADDRESS

To His Grace Most Reverend E. P. Roche, D. D., Archbishop of St. John's.

May it please Your Grace—On behalf of the people of Trepassey, we beg to tender to Your Grace a hearty welcome, and to assure Your Grace of our loyalty and devotion. On the Feast of St. Peter and St. Paul, in common with all your spiritual children, we rejoiced that Your Grace, so revered and beloved, was raised to the Metropolitan See.

Scarcely a year ago when your illustrious predecessor, full of years and merit, laid down his charge, great indeed was our sorrow, for he had given us many proofs of his zeal and affection, but Our Holy Father in choosing you, his able Administrator and painstaking, zealous Vicar General, gave us a guide than whom no better could be found.

To Your Grace we shall always turn for counsel and guidance, and in us you will find eager listeners and earnest doers.

Your Grace will kindly allow us to give expression to our admiration of your zeal and care for your people, manifested by the numerous visitations of the past few months.

We gladly embrace this our first opportunity of offering our warm and sincere congratulations.

We beg Almighty God may strengthen and spare you for many years to govern the Archdiocese and that He may bless you abundantly.

Signed on behalf of the Parish, L. G. GIOVANETTE, M.D. PATRICK CURTIS. THOMAS SUTTON, OF GEO. MATTHEW KENNEDY.

WALT MASCO

AUTUMN.

The Autumn leaves are falling, and poets heave a sigh, and say that Nature's calling on living things to die. A pensive melancholy Fall months to poets bring; but I am fat and jolly and gambol as I sing. I do not think of hearse when Autumn zephyrs wail, but write some cheerup verses, and earn nine kinds of kale. The skies are dark and dreary, the rain begins to spout, but people should be cheery unless they have the gout. The wind is chill and snappy, the earth is dank and wet, but people should be happy, unless they are in debt. The wind will soon be piling big snowdrifts on the plain, but people should be smiling unless they are insane. I love all kinds of weather, I love the Autumn well, when we all sit together around the fire and yell, and keep the corn a-popping, each in his easy chair; the Autumn leaves are dropping—it's little that I care. The Autumn leaves are falling; I let the blamed things fall; my phonograph is squealing, "Dear Days Beyond Recall." There's freight on the rafter, and kiddies on the floor, around me joy and laughter, and neighbours at the door.

Acids in Stomach Sour the Food and Cause Indigestion

"Pape's Diapiesin" fixes sour, gassy, upset stomachs in five minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach, headache, you can surely get relief in five minutes. Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapiesin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why it relieves sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapiesin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapiesin" cranks as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery. Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach misery and indigestion in five minutes.

When boiling bones for soup or stock, remember that you haven't extracted all the goodness from them until they are full of little holes. You can boil them again and again. Fish bones and trimmings make nourishing stock, and should never be wasted.

The Hygiene of Gas Lighting.

Incandescent gas is the ideal form of illumination for a living room. The soft yet brilliant light given off floods the room, and is restful both to the eyes and to the senses, preventing homelessness or sewing from being a source of eyestrain.

It has, moreover, been scientifically determined that the strong uprush of heated products of combustion from gas burners draws up the emanations from the skin and lungs of the occupants of the room, chafes and sterilizes any accompanying germs, and, reaching the ceiling, diffuses through the plaster so rapidly as to draw fresh air from the windows and other openings.
