HIS DIARY.
 January 28th.—This morning I put on my second best suit, very neat, a new tie and a new collar also, altogether is very noble. To Mr. Duder at the Public Works Office, near news of Twillingate district. I wait on Sir R. Scudder and to discourse with him of divers matters in the afternoon, to the Prince's for the children's carnival, and to skate in their dainty costumes. So to the Curling Rink. Mr. R. Duder to explain the game. And a mighty fine game it was. Meeting there Mr. Job Hamilton, to hold brief discourse with them. At night, to the General Hutchings, Mr. Pippy Wornell. So home and to bed. January 29th (Lord's Day)—Up at 6 and to dine with my wife of a mince pie, and a dined a poor wretch, she and I, to my mail, which is the first letter to the country for high a name to the club, and to have talk with Mr. Joyce and Mr. At night, to walk with my wife, and she to talk of bobbing her head, which I do think to be the veriest of the fashion. Nor when a woman there, is there ought to be gain, argument. Thanks to God, my leaving smoking of cigars, and my business better, and need less money. But I find of them a sore trial, and needs smoke them again.

 Small hole was made in the wing of the Martinside Aeroplane by contact with a post while landing after flight yesterday.
