THE GREAT AUSTRIAN SURGEON: HIS METHODS AND PERSONALITY

Dr. Lorenz Described by Mr. G. matter how large the party, each on-M. Reid, of This City.

Interesting Features of Vienna and Its People.

Mr. George M. Reid, of this city, during his three months' sojourn in Vienna, this year, enjoyed intimate relations with the great Dr. Lorenz, the exponent of bloodless surgery, whose visit to America last year created a sensation in the medical world. He is described by Mr. Reid as a man of imposing presence, about six feet stature, slim rather than stout build, very erect in his bearing, with a peculiarly winning expression, which reflects a most leveable personality. "He is a delightful man in every respect," said Mr. Reid to an Advertiser reporter who questioned him about famous surgeon, "He speaks English very well among other accomp lishments. He is thoroughly in love with his work, and no one could be more indifferent to the pecuniary side What to charge for his skill and advice is the hard part of his profession, he told me. As you are prob ably aware Dr. Lorenz is a special in hip diseases and all deformities of the limbs. Patients flock to him from many countries, the majority of them children though he has effected som remarkable cures in middle-aged peo bacon is wanted. It pays best for the farmer to sell hogs around 180 pounds, and it pays best for the packer to buy them. Of course, it is easier to buy a bunch of hogs at an average price, but it does not pay the farmer to sell them that way, and it is a very short-sighted business to kill and ship a lot of small and heavy sides to England, as it has an effect on the prices of the real standard bacon. The English customer wants choice well-fed hogs, not too fat; about 11/2 inches of fat on the back. The laboring class buys the leanest selection, and the more prosperous
