Montreal 2, Providence 1.

By Mike Murphy. Nevada, June 23.—Jeffries is fighting an hour and a half, though he says he believes he can go just as much longer as he wants. From what I saw who will battle with Jack John-today I must admit that the hour and a right. It is no fat and weakened back number who will battle with Jack Johnson on July 4.

I saw him in his work today at Moana Springs. I watched him during a day Springs. I watched him during a day of hard exercise and inspected him afterwards, and was surprised at the excellence of his condition.

I am frank to say that even today his about the finest specimen of a man I have ever seen, and in my time I have looked over thousands of athletes.

Startles Murphy.

Will Be Hard to Hurt.

I wish Jeff were a few years younger. I wish he had been sticking to the game to do but as to his concede no shadow of a doubt as to his sabout the finest specimen of a man I have ever seen, and in my time I have looked over thousands of athletes.

Startles Murphy.

When I took the commission of going to be hard to hurt.

The muscle give wonderful protection. The black man will have to hand out a seemed to me an impossibility that Jeff ries at 35 years of age and after six years' retirement from the ring could get in shape to do himself justice. I have been quoted in connection with that opinion, and the statements are honestly right, for that is what I thought. But on seeing Jeffries at work today I could only admit my error. The former champion of the world is right, and he will fittingly represent the white race in the big bout here, or else there is no reliance to be placed in condition.

Will Be Hard to Hurt.

I wish he had been sticking to the game to wish he had been sticking to the game store of a darket six years. Then I would be as good as he sever knew existed. The condition of Jeffries visited to sea ferming to the statements are honestly right, for that is what will fittingly represent the white race in the big bout here, or else there is no reliance to be placed in condition.

Jeffries walked several miles this morn-ing, and then with the remainder of the camp played ball for a couple of hours. camp played ball for a couple of hours.

Most of those who were in the game were middle-aged men, including his trainers, Corbett, who is quite a good ball player, and Bob Armstrong. Of all the bunch, young and old, the liveliest was Jeff. I had read stories from Rowardennan to the effect that the big fellow seemed to find training an effort, and that he had a perpetual grouch. Nothing to it.

"All Life and Cheerfulness."

He was all life and cheerfulness got

He was all life and cheerfulness, got into the game like a boy and did not seem to have a care in the world. This is a point which appeals to the trainer, for every man who has handled athletes knows that cheerfulness is a sign of self confidence, and that no athletic tr was ever won without belief in abilities to win. After the game Jeffries did some more running, and then for one hours I was accorded the privilege of watching his trainers and rubbers work on him.

There was no concealment or effort to useny me the fullest chance to see what kind of shape he was in.

Jeffries and all those in his camp knew that I had been delegated to see the men in training, in order to inves-tigate rumors which put the bout under suspicion. Jeff was not afraid of being

He gave me every chance. Body Looks Young.

Jeffries believes in a dry rub, and in lots of it. I had a chance to study him while the process was on. No one to see him stripped would credit him with his age. His face may look it, but his body does not. He has little, if any, superfluous flesh on him, and what little remains he can easily take off in the days that yet interven between now and days that yet intervene between now and the fight.

I cannot help but think there was something funny about the stories of Jeffries' alleged neglect of training, and of his fishing trips at a time when he should have been boxing. It wouldn't surprise me a bit if Jeffries had had an-other camp somewhere near Rowardennan, and went there to work in quiet, while at the same time perhaps to throw Johnson off the track.

Needed Hard Work.

No man could have got into the shape
Jeffries is without having done all kinds

Jeffries is without having done all kinds of conscientious work.

What little fat there is around the muscles and across the abdomen will only act as a protection to the parts. But in the vital place, across the lower abdomen, there are no rolls of fat. The former champion is not burdened with any more than he can comfortably carry, even if he decides to reduce no lower than he is now.

Such massive shoulders and chest I never saw on a man before.

His back especially is a study of prepared power. The muscles go all the way down into the hips, and it is easy to understand the hitting of Jeffries and the limitless power of endurance he has.

Fast and Light.

I watched Jeffries while he was moving around in the ball game and in his room. He is light on his feet and gives evidence of actual speed. This is in part due to his fine proportions, for in spite of his massive build, Jeffries is put together symmetrically and is nicely balanced for quick work.

Particularly did I observe his wind. of conscientious work.

Particularly did I observe his wind.

It is good. He did not blow, nor seem to tire, no matter how arduous the kind of jumping about he was called on to do.

Devlin and Doyle Fight With Spectator and Are Arrested. TRAINERS DOVES BADLY BEATEN sensational by a fight between Arthur Devlin, third baseman for New York, and an occupant of one of the boxes.

Doyle took a hand to aid his mate, and both players were arrested.

At the end of the third inning Devlin rushed across the diamond to the grand stand and struck a spectator who had een nagging him.

Devlin emerged under arrest and the spectator with a pair of black eyes.

Fans swarmed on the field and somebody narrowly missed Devlin with bottle. New York won easily by 8 to 2. Score:
