CITY NEWS in BRIEF

THOMAS DEVINE, who pleaded guilty to a charge of sending threatening letters, demanding money, to his father, John Devine, appeared in police court Monday morning and was remanded a week for sentence.

JOHN McLAUGHLIN of Lobo reported to the police Monday that his home had been ransacked during the latter part of last week, and among other things taken was his silver open-faced watch, with his name inscribed on it. On the day that the robbery took place his hired man left his employ, he stated.

NEW HOMES DOMINATED the demand for building permits at the building inspector's office at the beginning of the week. Three such permits were granted. C. C. Pope, 30 Tecumseh avenue, 1½-story brick-veneer dwelling, $3,500; Joseph Dambra, Beaconsfield avenue, two-story brick-veneer dwelling, $4,750; A. Phillips, 402 Wharncliffe road, frame dwelling, $1,500; L. H. Scandrett, 20 Craig street, two-story brick-veneer kitchen, $800; John F. Wilson, 7 Carrothers avenue, frame garage, $200. DOUBTS DOMINION IS GOING TO 'BOW-WOWS'

Jones Tells Rotarians Canadian Psychology Eclipses That of U. S.

"America's problem and Canada's problem is to restore the faith of the people, John G. Jones of New York, vice-president of the Alexander Hamilton Institute, asserted in a stirring address before the members of the Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon at the Tecumseh House noon.

"The great bulk of the people of the United States have lost much of their usual confidence," he continued. "I note a real difference, however, since coming to Canada. The psychology of Canadians is better in my opinion, and this augurs well for the immediate future."

"It is essential that the people get to believe that there are good times ahead. It simply will not do for everybody to agree amongst themselves that "everything is going to the bow-wows. In that event they certainly shall. It's merely another case of "every person impressing upon a hale and hearty person that he is not looking well and next to no time he will be in bed."

Demands Co-operation.

"The people must get to know one another better. A better spirit of co-operation must be restored. Peace must come in Europe and a stable government must exist in Russia. Personally, I believe that the United States should extend further aid to Europe. I fail to see how that battle-scarred country will survive otherwise. England is willing to forego her debts, and I think that America would not be acting unwisely if she set back her debts for 25 or even 50 years."

"I see a great future for Canada. Its possibilities are unparalleled. The soil is just as rich as ever it was. The water power is simply waiting to be harnessed. Her mineral resources have only been scratched. Any hindrance to advancement today rests with the people themselves. I say that it was not the war itself that undermined the nations of America."

"It was the reaction that followed later. The economists who predicted the return to normal times within two years from the termination of the war overlooked one important phase—the psychology of the rank and file. In England, Canada and the United States everyone had been working and saving for years with but one idea uppermost—the winning of the war."

Sought Vacation.

"Then when it was concluded there was a wide, free relaxation and most of the people felt that it was then time to enjoy a vacation. Money already saved became something to toy with, and a good time was had. This was the psychology that was overlooked by the experts, and this very period of extravagance and riotous living on such a grand scale really delayed the return to normalcy two years or more."

"As a result the reaction is worse than had everyone settled down to business directly hostilities terminated. There was a serious over-extension of business and an inflation of prices until in the latter part of 1919 and early 1920 the big banking institutions of America realized the seriousness of the situation and contracted their credits. This was right and the only thing they could have reasonably accomplished.

"Then the people became alarmed. It was called at the time a 'buyers strike,' but that was not the truth. It was the financial houses. But the people's confidence must and will be restored. In Canada the task will be comparatively easier than ours as I can see it. The psychology is more favorable."

Wants Tariff Change.

The speaker expressed the opinion that Canada, while endeavoring to build up industries as well as agricultural pursuits, would not really benefit by a high protective tariff, but, on the other hand, needed a decidedly revised fiscal policy from the present.

"With the hardiness of a northern race," he concluded, "Canada's opportunities of being one of the leading nations are manifold. In another fifty years Canada will have a population of at least fifty millions of people."

Can you travel through this great Dominion of yours and doubt its wonderful possibilities for the future? You can't, and just as soon as your people declare their faith in a divine Providence and their faith in one another, then will a notable difference be noted. My faith in Canada's future is based not alone on its wealth of soil or its undeveloped natural resources, but upon the splendid manhood of its citizens."

Moved by Rotarian James Gray and seconded by Rotarian William Martin a rising vote of sympathy was extended to Rotarian Sir Adam Beck in his great sorrow over the recent loss of Lady Beck.

Rotarian W. R. Yendell, president, presided at Monday's gathering.

WILL BRING PRISONERS TO LONDON TO GET EVIDENCE

Chester Roe and George Langridge Must Give Testimony at Companions' Trial.

Police intend to bring Chester Roe and George Langridge from Guelph Prison Farm as witnesses against George Grant, who is charged with auto theft, and who will be tried next week at the court house. Grant appeared before Judge Talbot Macbeth in county court Monday morning and pleaded not guilty to the charge. He was defended by W. R. Henderson.

Several months ago, Grant, Roe, Langridge, Clarence Greason and Orville Restrick were charged with the stealing of a number of autos. Restrick, Roe and Langridge were convicted and sentenced, while Greason and Grant were acquitted.

Two weeks ago Charles Langridge was arrested in connection with the theft of an auto owned by Charles Bond from Springbank Park. Later Grant and Greason were arrested on the same charge. Police allege that after they stole the car, they took it to Langridge's home and set fire to it.

MANY MONDAYS CLOG MUNICIPAL MACHINE

Local municipal activity is this week suffering from a surplus of Mondays.

This October contains no less than five Mondays, concluding with one.

This week was launched with the fourth Monday. It is usually a busy week, as it generally precedes the first Monday of the new month, which is council meeting night. However, the surplus of Mondays throws the opening council meeting of November on to the 7th. The rule is for all committees to meet the week prior to the council meeting, and so the activities which would usually feature the fourth week are carried over to the first week of November.

The congestion of Mondays will apply to board of education and utility commission meetings also.

Beautiful Springbank Calls, But To Get There Is a Problem

What's so restful on a Sunday afternoon as a peaceful tramp through the rustling leaves of Springbank Park? What indeed? This was the thought that permated the minds of thousands of Londoners on Sunday afternoon, and although they followed it with the necessary line of action, the idea failed of the London street railway.

True, an extra car was put on to help out the groaning, heavily-laden "Old 27," but what was one lone car when so many were needed? On every trip a score or more of disgusted would-be patrons were left to walk the city pavements. Despite the limited service 1,000 or more people were at last landed in the park, little worrying about the return trip.

As the evening shades began to lengthen, and the crowds made their way to the car tracks hoping against hope that the street railway company would send an extra car to their rescue, but their dreams failed to materialize.

Forty people were at the pavilion stop and another 20 waited at the pumphouse on the 5 o'clock trip, and some harsh words, not in accord with a Sunday spirit, oft were heard as the weary moments stretched into an hour. At last "Old 27" wheezed around the curve and the crowds rushed like a football team.

At each stop on the way to the city the conductor asked everyone to move up a little, and they did their best. The smoker was a real "smoker," for the smoke poured from the stove, and the people coughed and wheezed and prayed for a fast trip to the city.

"Never again," said one man. "This seeing the beautiful leaves at Springbank in the fall of the year is all right, but—you won't catch me going again. I'm through for life."

Quebec Political Convention Is Marked by Some Real Fighting

Quebec, Oct. 24.—Canadian Press.—The political campaign in Quebec County developed into a real battle yesterday when a convention called at Loretteville and a meeting started afterwards was broken up in disorder. It had been announced that the meeting was the Liberal convention, but this was denied by Le Soleil, the official organ of the Liberal party, which stated on Friday that H. E. Lavigeur was the choice of the Liberal party. At all events the convention was called by electors who are opposed to the candidature of H. E. Lavigeur.

Finally Frank Byrne was proposed as candidate by Charles Parent, Beauport.

Immediately afterwards Armand Lavergne was proposed as a candidate by Charles Parent of Charlesbourg. Ephraim Bedard, the assistant chairman of the convention, then asked those who were not electors of the county to leave the hall so that a vote might be taken. Nearly everybody left the hall, including Mr. Lavergne and his friends.

The electors were then asked to line up on either side of the hall, those who favored Mr. Byrne as candidate on one side, and those who favored Mr. Lavergne on the other.

Lavergne was announced as the winning candidate, after some confusion, and was announced as the first speaker.

There was a spirited outbreak at this juncture. "He shall not speak!" one section of the crowd shouted, and a battle-royal broke out on the college veranda. The fight, which was of the real rough-and-tumble variety, lasted for nearly a quarter of an hour, and two of the combatants were carried into the college building, while the crowd, numbering between 2,000 and 3,000 people, looked on from the college yard, greatly amused by the conflict.

When a semblance of order was restored, Mr. Lavergne stated that there was no doubt that he was selected by the majority of the convention. He affirmed that he would remain independent of all parties.

Mr. Byrne stated after the meeting that if Mr. Lavergne runs in Quebec County he will run also.

American College of Surgery Recognizes Victoria Hospital

Among the eight Ontario hospitals to be placed on the approved list of the American College of Surgeons, as revealed by the third annual report of that body just made public, is included Victoria Hospital, London. This has followed the recommendation of Dr. Ponton, assistant superintendent of Vancouver Hospital, who conducted a personal inspection of the local institution last summer.

Victoria Hospital, the report says, reaches every requirement demanded by the American surgeons. It was stipulated amongst other things that the hospital should possess facilities for thorough scientific work; secondly, an organization of the staff of the institution for the critical study of all their cases at regularly held meetings; thirdly, that the records should be complete, comprehensive and always available.

It has been proved, declares Dr. Franklin D. Martin, secretary-general of the American College of Surgery Aid, in his report, that Victoria Hospital is giving the best scientific medical care to their patients. Our survey found a marked improvement all over the country and places Ontario in the forefront of provinces active in medical progress. Ontario is to be congratulated on its splendid showing and on the forward-looking medical men, hospital superintendents and trustees, who have made this advance possible."

The complete Ontario list is as follows:

General Hospital, Hamilton; General Hospital, Kingston; Grace Hospital, Toronto; Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto; Hotel Dieu, Kingston; St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto; Toronto General Hospital; Victoria General Hospital, London.

CITY WILL ACQUIRE NEW SCHOOL SITE WEDNESDAY

Legal Difficulties Prevent Present Transfer of Section of Tract.

On Wednesday next City Solicitor T. G. Meredith, on behalf of the board of education, will complete all business relating to the transfer of property in the southeast section of the city to be used for a new four-room school.

Property to the value of approximately $5,000 has already been purchased by the city. One corner of the tract, valued at $890, yet remains to be acquired by the board of education, should that body feel disposed to include it in their purchase.

When negotiations were first opened for this lot in question it developed that the original owner had died intestate. Any necessary legal processes, such as a search of title and so forth, will cost, it is calculated, a sum of nearly $200. The trustees feel that this expenditure is rather excessive, and, accordingly, placed themselves on record as ready to spend for this purpose nothing over $25.

On Wednesday the owner of the lot will confer with the city solicitor, and if this sum is not acceptable all overtures will cease. The board announces that failure to secure this portion of the land will not frustrate their plans for a school to relieve the present congestion of the Ealing and Chesley avenue schools.

MAJOR MARY BOOTH SPEAKS AT PATRICIA

Turn Crowds Away From the Afternoon and Evening Meetings.

Hundreds were turned away from the afternoon and evening Salvation Army meetings at the Patricia Theatre Sunday, when Major Mary Booth of London, England, delivered two eloquent addresses.

At the afternoon meeting Major Booth reviewed the war work of the Salvation Army in France. Major Booth herself worked in the hospitals and in the hostels near the front line, caring for the soldiers.

This is the first time she has ever set foot on Canadian soil, but she stated that she has felt many times that she has been in the center of Canada through attending Canadian soldiers in the great war and hearing their stories.

When working among the soldiers she stated that she always preferred Canadian hospitals because of the absence of red-tape. She had nothing but the highest of praise for all Canadian organizations at the front. She also spoke on the excellent work that the Canadian Red Cross did for the fighting men.

At the evening service she stated that when she returns home she intends to tell her father that if he ever pays a return visit to Canada that he must visit London.

Her subject in a short sermon Sunday night was "Sin." She stated that this element destroys all that is best in man. If we could see what it would drag us into we would shudder in horror, but we cannot see. It comes upon us gradually. She said that "decay" was what her illustrious grandfather, Gen. Bramwell Booth, used to point out as being one of the greatest sins itself.

Mayor E. S. Little presided at the afternoon meeting. In an address he stated that the Salvation Army was doing a great work, and that they were doing a great thing for this community. He reviewed the early work of the army, and praised them for their continued successes, despite the bitter opposition which they have met. As chief magistrate of the city he officially welcomed Major Mary Booth to London.

Major Booth is scheduled to speak at Montreal and Kingston before she returns to England.

DEAN L. N. TUCKER PAYS TRIBUTE TO LADY BECK

Refers to Humanitarian Services of Late Member of St. Paul's.

In St. Paul's Cathedral on Sunday morning, Very Rev. Dean Tucker made the following allusion to the death of Lady Beck:

"Since last we met in this church our congregation has suffered a very severe loss in the person of one of its most devoted members, Lady Beck. Her retiring disposition veiled from the public a character of singular strength and beauty, which, however, was abundantly revealed in the good deeds which she performed. In an age strongly marked by love of self, of ease and of pleasure, she consecrated her many gifts to the service of her needy and suffering fellow-men. The Byron Sanatorium will forever stand as a monument of her beneficence. She now rests from her labors, and her works do follow her.

"Her call to higher service is a call from God to us who remain to be inspired by her example, and to follow in her footsteps. To her bereaved husband and daughter we would extend our deepest and sincerest sympathy. The assurance of our prayers that God, who alone can minister comfort in such a time of trial, would graciously vouchsafe to them his richest consolation, for is it not written, 'God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble.'"

The "Dead March" was played, and the recessional hymn sung was "For all the saints who from their labors rest."

Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin Speaks in West London

"The world needs a positiveness in the living of young people," declared Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, noted Windsor preacher, speaking to a large congregation in the Empress Avenue Methodist Church Sunday evening.

"There are great efforts on the part of the enemy of the Christian Church to bring about not only its decay, but its ruin."

He stated that it was a challenge to young people. There were many young men today who would make a mark in the world if they took up the work of the church.

"The Christian religion is not an easy one. Some people think it a long-faced, sober one. It takes a man to live it. He must go out and battle down the strongholds of sin.

"You can't build up anything unless folks are banded together. You must have unity of purpose.

"Too many people prophesy the decay of the Christian church. A lot of people say, 'Lord, help us,' and then go out and do a different job. God helps those who help themselves.

"The church of God will never win its battle unless the rank and file uses prayer," added Mr. Spracklin.

He told in twentieth century language the story of Nehemiah and the building of the walls of Jerusalem

EXCHANGED PULPITS.

Rev. J. N. Clarry of Kincardine, exchanged pulpits with Capt. (Rev.) John Garbutt at Dundas Center Methodist Church yesterday. Mr. Clarry's morning subject was "Closed Church Doors," in which he pointed out if the people of today had the faith of their fathers it would necessarily follow that the church doors of today would always be open. Special music was a feature at both services, the numbers including vocal solo, and duet, and a violin duet.

ANNIVERSARY AT KNOX CHURCH.

Knox Presbyterian Church was crowded to capacity at the 38th anniversary services Sunday. In the morning a bronze tablet erected to the young men of the congregation who lost their lives in the great war, was unveiled by Lieut.-Col. C. M. R. Graham, who was in command of the 142nd Battalion, when it left London.

Rev. Major A. Graham, who served overseas as chaplain, preached the morning sermon, taking as his text, "Whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant."

Major Graham stated that in sacrificing self as did the soldiers in the war, lay the only road to higher spirituality.

The unveiling of the tablet, held immediately after the sermon, was impressive. Pte. Wilson of the R. C. R., sounded the first post, which was followed by the unveiling of the tablet by Lieut.-Col. Graham. Then came in order two minutes of silent prayer, and the sounding of the last post, an oral prayer. Charles Percy, organist of the church played the "Dead March," after which Pte. Wilson sounded "reveille."

The tablet was inscribed as follows:

"In loving memory of the men of Knox Presbyterian Church, who gave their lives in the great war, 1914-1918."

Then followed the names of John Henderson, Angus McKinvin, Cuthbert McEwen and Lewellyn Penny, with the inscription: "Whosoever loseth his life shall find it."

Rev. D. C. MacGregor preached in the evening.

FATHER YOUNG APPOINTED ASSISTANT AT ST. MAR

Popular Assistant at St. Pe... Cathedral to Leave City.

Father J. J. Young, for the pas... and a half years, a curate at St. P... Cathedral of this city, has been appointed curate at St. Marys, Ont. He will be assistant to Father Ronan, a former Londoner. Father Ronan has been in poor health for the last few years.

The congregation at St. Peter's, and especially the Holy Name Society, will miss Father Young. Shortly after coming to London from St. Aloysius Church, Windsor, he took charge of the society and succeeded in building a large and thriving organization. Father Young is widely known as a forceful speaker.

With the departure of Father Young, Monsignor McKeon, rector of the cathedral will have lost two popular and senior assistants within a month. Father A. R. Finn, his other assistant, left two weeks ago to take charge at West Lorne.

The St. Marys parish is one of the oldest and finest in the diocese.
