

NEW AND FORTHCOMING BOOKS

SOME AUTUMN BOOKS.

- Crino, Hall. "The Prodigal Son." Toronto: Morang. November.
- Crawford, F. Marion. "Whosoever Shall Offend." Toronto: Copp, Clark.
- Gunter, Archibald Clavering. "My Japanese Prince." New York: Home Publishing Co. August 15.
- Jacob, Mrs. Violet. "The Interloper." New York: Doubleday, Page.
- Kipling, Rudyard. "Fratlies and Discoveries." New York: Doubleday, Page. September.
- London, Jack. "The Seafarer." New York: MacMillan. October.
- Lorimer, G. H. "Old Gorgon Graham." Toronto: Briggs. September.
- Lewis, Alfred Henry. "The President." New York: A. S. Barnes. Autumn.
- Merriman, Henry S. "The Last Hope." New York: Scribner's. September.
- White, Stewart Edward. "The Mountains." New York: McClure.
- Wilson, Harry Leon. "The Seeker." New York: Doubleday, Page.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS.

- Coleridge, Samuel Taylor. "The Friend." New York: Library. London: George Bell & Sons. Cloth, 2s.; leather, 3s. This is another of Coleridge's works to be put into serviceable shape for modern readers. The present edition is just the thing for the student.
- De Mille, Rev. A. B. "In the Net." An appeal to Protestants concerning convent schools. London: Charles J. Thynne. Paper, 6d. Mr. de Mille needs no introduction to Canadians and his book speaks for itself. He has stated his case strongly.
- Emerson's Works in 4 volumes. The York Library. Vol. 1. "Essays" and "Representative Men." London: George Bell & Sons. Cloth, 2s.; leather, 3s. This edition of Emerson's works, with text revised and collated by George Sampson, is well worth the attention of all students of English literature.
- Methodist Hymn Book. London: Methodist Publishing House. The work of bringing out this new hymn book has been in progress since 1900 and it is certainly a monumental work, containing 991 numbers. The paper, print and binding are excellent and the indexing complete.
- Sangiaco, Olivieri. "The Colonel." Translated from the Italian. London: David Nutt. This is volume one of the Phoenix Library and is a strong first number. The tale is intensely dramatic, working up to a striking climax in the trial of a son by his father. The characters are analyzed with skill and the style of the book is appropriate to the theme. Of the paper and printing of the volume only good words can be written.

- Stephen, Robert Neilson. "The Bright Face of Danger." Toronto: Copp, Clark Co., $1.50 and 75c. A capital romance of about the time of King Henry IV. of France. The story details the startling adventures of a young man, who is stung to action by the scorn of a maiden. He sets out for Paris and on the road thither gets into a strange situation, from which he only extricates himself after many hairbreadth escapes. The story absorbs from start to finish.
- Tracy, Louis. "The Pillar of Light." Toronto: McLeod & Allen, $1.25 and 75c. Mr. Tracy made a great reputation for himself with "The Wings of the Morning" and, while he has not quite lived up to it in this book, yet he has given the public a novel of absorbing interest. Taking a lighthouse near the Land's End as his scene of action, he has narrated a tale of storm, shipwreck and almost superhuman bravery which enthralled the reader from start to finish. Two brave young men and two beautiful young women share the centre of the stage with the hero, the lighthouse keeper.

Turner, Mrs. Clorinda. "Birds Without a Nest: A Story of Indian Life and Priestly Oppression in Peru." London: Charles J. Thynne. Cloth, 1s. 6d. A Spanish story illustrating the ills to which the poor Indians of Peru are subjected.

Whidborne, Rev. G. F. "The Existence of Evil in the History of Nature." London: Charles J. Thynne. Cloth, 1s. A short treatise on the presence of evil in the primitive earth. The writer's theories are worked out in a convincing manner and the difficulties of the subject are elucidated clearly.

FORECASTS OF NEW BOOKS.

Irving Bacheller's new novel, "Vergilius," is the work of two years on a totally different plane from "Eben Holden." The story opens in Rome just before the birth of Christ, and deals with the thrilling love story of Vergilius and Reria with a touching reference to the influence of the Nativity.

"A Ladder of Swords" is the first novel Sir Gilbert Parker has written since "The Right of Way." It is an exquisitely conceived love story, the scenes being laid in the time of Elizabeth.

"A Dog's Tale," by Mark Twain, is the story of a beautiful and intelligent collie dog, a story which made an international hit in Harper's Magazine last year.

"The Son of Royal Langbrith," by Wm Dean Howells, has every prospect of being the most popular story this eminent novelist has written for some time.

"The Lady of Loyalty House" is a captivating romance by Justin Huntly McCarthy, author of "If I Were King." It is a love story laid in the very earliest days of the great civil war in England.

"The Masquerades," by Katherine Cecil Thurston, author of "The Circle," has a plot which catches the reader's fancy at once.